Justice Dept. To Get Data On Wire Tap Investigation

Pepper Announces Request by Agency; Shimon, van Arkel Have Stormy Scene

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.), announced last night he would turn over the entire record of the Senate wire tapping probe to the Justice Department.

Pepper said the special District wire tap committee received the request for its record from the Department. The request went to the Capitol yesterday after the committee's stormiest hearing to date.

The storm came when Committee Counsel Gerhard P. Van Arkel sought an admission from Metropolitan Police Lieut. Joseph W. Shimon that the officer's key testimony to the Senate committee was "sheer fabrication." Shimon stoutly refused to admit this.

At one point, Senator Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N.J.) protested Van Arkel was asking unfair and "double-barrelled questions."

At issue in the wrangle were two conflicting stories by Shimon. The first, contained in a signed statement to top officers of the Detective Bureau a year ago, and later dismissed by Shimon as "a mistake" had Shimon saying his wire tapping at the Occidental Hotel and at the Carlton and Mayflower Hotels were all part of the same investigation.

The second, carried in the main stream of his testimony to the Pepper committee, was that he tapped wires at the Occidental Hotel in trying to locate a fugitive Cuban sugar swindler for the Miami police, and that he tapped wires at the Carlton and Mayflower Hotels to find what "motive and intent" Abner, (Chick) Lappin had for shadowing Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.)

Van Arkel, Pepper and Senator Matthew M. Neely (D. W. Va.) all sought in quizzing Shimon, to win from him an admission that the tapping at all three hotels was to get information about the 1947 Senate investigation of Howard Hughes' wartime plane contracts.

Denied by Shimon

Shimon denied that, but conceded it was an "improbable" coincidence that the wire tapping at the three hotels was all on wires of attorneys for Hughes.

In 1947 Shimon was special investigator for the United States Attorney here. Brewster headed the Senate War Investigation Committee when it was probing the Hughes' contracts that year. The line tapped at the Occidental, according to testimony, was that of Hugh Fulton, one-time chief counsel of the Senate War Investigation Committee when President Truman was its chairman.

The lines tapped at the Carlton and Mayflower were those of Noah Dietrich and Thomas Slack, associates of Hughes.

BULLETIN

New Orleans, Aug. 30 (AP).—The Gulf hurricane was moving inland between Mobile, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla., at 11 p. m. (CST), the New Orleans Weather Bureau reported.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 30 (U.P.).—A 115-mile an hour hurricane bore down on this busy port tonight and angry tides whipped up by its advance gales flooded highways and cut off the city from both the east and west.

The roaring storm's outer gales kicked up a tornado at Apalachicola on the Florida northwest coast where two persons were reported injured seriously. A dozen houses were knocked down or damaged.

At 10 p. m. (EDT), the Mobile Weather Bureau placed the storm center 80 miles south of the city with the full fury of its winds due to descend about 2:30 a. m. Thursday. The hurricane's whirling motion carried the gales in eastward from the Pensacola area where a 98-mile-an-hour wind was blowing on Santa Rosa Island.

The Louisiana National Guard picked up a shortwave report that

House Cites 2 For Contempt In Lobby Quiz

By the United Press

The House cited Edward A. Rumely and William L. Patterson, Negro head of the Communist-dominated Civil Rights Congress, for contempt of Congress yesterday for refusing to answer questions of the House Lobby Investigating Committee.

A vote on similar action against another rebellious witness, Joseph L. Kamp of the Constitutional Education League of New York City, was postponed until today. Kamp already is serving four months in jail for contempt of another committee.

Rumely was cited for refusing to tell the committee how his $500,000-a-year Committee for Constitutional Government is financed.

Patterson had refused to tell the committee whether he is a member of the Communist Party. The House voted, 238 to 106, to cite Patterson over a vigorous defense by Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.).

Prosecution of the contempt cases is up to the Justice Department.

The vote to cite Rumely was 183 to 175. It came after a bitter Republican-Democratic exchange. He was cited specifically because he refused to give the Lobby Investigating Committee the names of persons who buy large quantities of books published by his organization.

Committee Chairman Frank Buchanan (D., Pa.) said the book sales were a "phony dodge" to evade lobby registration law requirement that names of large contributors be reported.

Was Previously Acquitted

Rumely, who was cited once before and was acquitted by a trial jury, said he welcomed the new citation. He said the Democratic members of Buchanan's committee operated on the "misconception that it is a legitimate function of Congress to regulate the processes by which national public opinion is formed."

"Thus," he said, "legislative inquiry was perverted into intimidation and violation of elemental citizens' rights . . . Now the matter will have to be threshed out before a jury, and I am confident of the outcome."

Johnson Won't Quit Or Apologize

Defense Secretary Rejects Demand Of Congressman, Defends Policies

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Defense Secretary Johnson has sharply rejected a congressional demand that he resign, charging that the attacks on him are either political or based on misinformation.

He made public yesterday an eight-page, 3500-word letter to a Democratic Congressman who had demanded that he quit immediately. It answered detailed charges that he had "bungled the job of national defense through false economy" and had "lost the confidence of the American people."

Declaring he has "no apology" for his record as Defense Chief, Johnson compared himself to his predecessor, the late Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, who, he declared, "also suffered from the spreading of misinformation".

Replies in Detail

Forrestal suffered a nervous breakdown 18 months ago after long attacks by critics and later jumped to his death from the Bethesda Naval Hospital tower.

The demand for Johnson's resignation came from Representative Anthony F. Tauriello, a freshman Congressman from Buffalo, who was elected with President Truman in 1948. Tauriello cited four reasons why the Secretary should quit, and Johnson replied to each of them in detail.

Release of the letter defending Johnson's policies followed by a few hours a demand by the Veterans of Foreign Wars that President Truman name a "new and competent leadership" at the Pentagon.

Mr. Truman already has said he will keep Johnson in the Cabinet. He declared his support of both the Defense Secretary and Dean Acheson who also has been under attack—earlier this month.

Charges 'Primarily' Political

Critics of Johnson have charged that his efforts to "make an economy record" left us unprepared when the Reds attacked in Korea, while the charges against Acheson have centered on his handling of Far Eastern policy.

Many of the attacks on him, Forrestal and Acheson, Johnson declared, are "primarily political and are aimed . . . at the Administration generally, with an eye to the November elections."

Tauriello cited these four reasons why Johnson should quit:

(1) He "bungled" his job, by "reckless cutbacks" and destruction of vital defense elements.

(2) He made "brash statements"—quoting Johnson as saying that if an aggressor strikes "at four, we would be ready at five."

Held "Embarrassing" Truman

3. That he had lost the confidence of the American people.

4. That "your continuance in office is necessarily embarrassing" to President Truman who is "loyal to a fault" to his aides.

Answering point No. 1, Johnson cited figures to show that our

That She Might Find Peace

Aged Widow's Story Sends Drinking Son to Jail for Theft

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

A 71-year-old widow sobbed out her heart yesterday when she gave testimony that sent her son to jail for a year.

What Mrs. Matilda Davis, the aged woman, said was out of fear of her son, Westley E. Davis, 42, who had lived with her at 1324 B st. se.

She testified in Municipal Court that he had stolen her radio, $450 in war bonds, and once even took her wedding ring. Finally, she decided to take him to court, so that she might find peace.

"I don't know what to do about it," she declared. "I guess I want to be rid of him. I'm scared to leave the house because he takes everything I have. He drinks all the time and he doesn't work."

She cried during the entire trial.

The son, gaunt and slightly untidy, pointed out that the only court charge against him was the radio theft. He said that he had given it to his mother in the first place, and had only borrowed it back.

Judge George D. Neilson examined Davis' six-page criminal record. It included numerous offenses of drunkenness, disorderly conduct, assault, larceny, vagrancy and begging.

"I don't know why you don't leave liquor alone," said the judge, "but I know that you give your mother no peace at all. There are too many drunk charges for your own good. You are saturated with liquor."

With that, he imposed the year's sentence.

Mrs. Davis walked from the courtroom as if her pride were almost gone.

In the corridor, she said to a man, "I've scrubbed floors for him when I could work. And he's my son, I'm sorry to say."

China Protest Is Tacked on U.N. Agenda

Malik Also Adds Greek Justice Issue For His Final Day As Council Head

Lake Success, Aug. 30 (AP).—Russia sought today to add two new questions, including a Red China charge that American planes had dropped bombs on Manchuria, to the crowded calendar of the United Nations Security Council.

The second question, advanced on the eve of Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik's retirement as council president, was a revival of the old Greek-Balkan dispute under the new title of "the unceasing terrorism and mass executions in Greece."

The Soviet move was disclosed when Malik circulated his proposed agenda for Thursday's council meeting (2 p. m., EST). The two new items were tacked on behind two other questions already approved by the delegates for debate—the Korean question and Red China's charges of American aggression against Formosa.

Comes as Surprise

Although the addition of the Greek question came as a surprise to the other delegates, there had been a general expectation that the Manchurian item would be brought up in connection with other Chinese Communist charges.

Chief United States Delegate Warren R. Austin anticipated this yesterday by circulating a note denying any knowledge of American bombings in Manchuria and saying the United States would welcome an on-the-spot inquiry by the U. N.

The new China news agency broadcast from Peiping said in a broadcast Communist China's foreign minister, Chou En-lai, had tonight sent a second cable to Malik charging that American planes had violated the Manchurian borders yesterday for the second time and had killed and wounded a "number of Chinese people."

Demands Effective Action

Chou's cable demanded that the Security Council "take effective measures immediately in checking American aggressive forces in Korea from extending their aggression and to effect the immediate withdrawal of United States forces invading Korea."

Malik entertained his fellow Council delegates tonight at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria—all except Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang. The dinner was given in keeping with the custom established for outgoing presidents to throw successor farewell parties. Malik failed to invite Tsiang, just as Tsiang snubbed Malik last January when Tsiang gave his dinner.

Red Chinese Charge New U. S. Air Raid

Tokyo, Thursday, Aug. 31 (U.P.). Communist China charged today in a propaganda maneuver that four American fighter planes strafed two points in Red-held Manchuria on Tuesday. It said four Chinese were killed and seven injured.

The new charge came only several hours before Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik was to sit for the last time as president of the United Nations Security Council at Lake Success, N. Y. Malik still is trying to get the Council to discuss Communist China's previous charge that American and British planes have violated Red territory in Manchuria.

The Communist New China news agency said Red China's premier and foreign minister Chou En-lai had protested to United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie and to Malik against the "new violation of Chinese territory."

Some diplomatic sources here regard the charges as a possible maneuver intended to "legalize" Red China's entry into the Korean war.

The agency quoted Chou as charging that the planes made reconnaissance flights over La Ku Shao and Ku Lou Tzu and strafed river boats on the Yalu river.

U. S. Striving To Keep China Out of Clash

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Secretary Acheson tried again yesterday, and more pointedly than before, to persuade Communist China not to attack Formosa or to send troops into Korea.

He used his regular press conference as the medium for making two points clear to the Communist leaders in Peking:

(1) The United States has no hostile feelings and no aggressive intentions of any kind toward China; but

(2) If the Chinese Communist send troops to help the North Koreans, they will be joining an aggressor and violating United Nations policies.

There was no way of sending a direct message to this effect, since the United States does not recognize the Peking government and has no diplomatic relations with it.

"Voice" Beams Message

Nevertheless, the official Voice of America began beaming the Secretary's words to China last night, in Chinese languages, in the hope that they might be heard and heeded in Peking, 7000 miles away.

Behind the Secretary's indirect message was a continuing worry in official Washington about Communist China's intentions, and especially about the reported movements of 200,000 Chinese

Acheson, Johnson Testify

$3.5 Billions in Tanks, Planes And Guns Asked for Europe

Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Defense Secretary Louis Johnson told Congress yesterday that international communism will attack a nation in the world whenever its leaders think it can win.

Johnson said the Korean war shows the Communists will strike whenever they think they can get away with it . . . even at the resultant risk of starting a third world war."

World communism, they told the Senate Appropriations Committee, has "the intention," as well as the willingness, to attack any free nation where success seems possible.

As a start in answering the Soviet threat, they urged immediate action on four billion dollars in increased arms aid spending with $3,504,000,000 to go for "tanks, artillery, and modern aircraft to withstand a mechanized assault in Western Europe."

With JCA Boss Paul G. Hoffman, they detailed the new and growing threat of international communism resorting to war in prepared statements read to the committee in a three-hour session. It comprised the sternest warning yet given Congress.

Senators present said Acheson and Johnson went even further after completing their prepared statements. Both men, it was said, admitted the United States was caught off balance and unprepared by the Communist attack on the South Korean republic.

That attack, Johnson and Acheson said in their statements, has brought a reassessment of the chances of peace or war.

The committee discussion was punctuated by angry outbursts involving the secretaries and committee members.

Johnson, it was said, offered to detail his policy disagreement with Acheson over Formosa if it could be kept "off-the-record." The proffer was turned down, as was one to discuss on a similar basis the Administration's repudiation of Naval Secretary Francis P. Matthews' recent suggestion that the United States might want to launch a "preventive" war.

Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) clashed bitterly with Acheson when the Senator urged the rearmament of western Germany. The Secretary bristled as he referred to "careless talk" about Germany, and Wherry shouted back.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) and Committee Chairman Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.), engaged in a shouting match when Knowland sought to press the secretaries on Far Eastern policy, it was reported.

Reds Force Allies Back Near Pohang

120,000 No. Koreans Try to Break Line; Yank Fliers Destroy 1200 Enemy Troops

Tokyo (Thursday) Aug. 31 (AP).—A new Red Korean attack today on the imperiled port city of Pohang rolled the defenders back more than a mile.

The South Korean Third Division, hit by the communists at 2 a. m. (noon Wednesday EDT), was forced to withdraw to positions about a mile and a half north of the east coast city.

Other Red forces, also seeking to push toward Pohang against the South Korean capital division from captured Kigye, nine miles to the northwest, shelled the defenders for an hour this morning.

These were the only significant developments reported in the mid-morning communique of the United States Eighth Army around a 120-mile battle perimeter against which 120,000 Reds have been sending probing spearheads in search of soft spots.

Yesterday, after Communist rifle fire began spraying Pohang, big 46-ton Pershing tanks and Marine planes helped American and South Korean troops beat back the Communists for a mile gain north of the city. Plane pilots later reported they killed 500 Reds.

The Air Force announced today 1200 Reds have been killed by air action in the past two days of fighting around Pohang.

Neither at Pohang nor elsewhere around the 120-mile battle perimeter has the Red concentration opened a full-scale offensive but their probing efforts grew. Gone was any prospect of the Reds fulfilling an order by their commander in chief, Premier Kim Il Sung, to eliminate the beachhead by August 31.

The main Red pressure was brought to bear on the northern front, where the lines run roughly 55 miles inland from Pohang on the east coast to Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

General MacArthur's summary early Thursday said Allied troops cleared out a Red unit which had cut the Pohang-Taegu supply road behind South Korean forces in the Kigye area, 9 miles northwest of Pohang. But the key artery to Taegu was reported still under Red rifle fire from the hills.

Farther west along the northern rim of the U. N. beachhead, units of the South Korean Sixth Division clashed with a force of 200 Reds which had infiltrated defense lines 3 miles north of Sinnyong, which is 16 miles northeast of Taegu.

Still farther west, about 16 miles northwest of Taegu, elements of the United States First

Mass Transfers Urged to Put Units Beyond Washington Bomb Target Range

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday asked Congress for $139,800,000 to partially decentralize the Government as a precaution against possible enemy attack on Washington.

The plan announced by the White House calls for:

1. Construction of new Government buildings at four unspecified sites within commuting distance of Washington.

2. Placing 35,000 to 40,000 Government workers in these new buildings. Part of these workers will be among the 15,000 to 25,000 new defense employes expected to be hired shortly so that not all workers at the new buildings would be drawn from those now stationed in regular Government buildings.

3. Removal of some World War II temporary buildings in downtown Washington, especially those on the Mall and on other downtown park space.

4. Construction of necessary highway and communications facilities to connect the new satellite Government towns with the Capital and with one another.

Near Enough to Commute

The White House announcement said that the new buildings will be "near enough to Washington to permit workers now resident in the Washington area to commute daily to and from their jobs."

From other sources it was learned last night that the plan contemplates new buildings in both Maryland and Virginia. They probably will be within short distances of the Shirley Highway in Virginia, the new Washington-Baltimore

See OFFICES, Page 9, Column 5.

Plans Made for Standby Senate, House Chambers

Plans for the four new Government sites include meeting rooms in at least one of them large enough to accomodate the Senate and House, should the Congress ever have to move from Washinton.

The Washington Post learned this last night from one of the men handling the decentralization program.

There have been many suggestions that Congress ought to have an alternate meeting place, but this is the first action to be taken. It was not learned whether the proposed alternate Capitol would be in Maryland or Virginia.

17 Temporary Buildings Due For Demolition

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Seventeen temporary buildings, two of them relics of World War I, are believed to be marked for demolition as part of President Truman's decentralization plan disclosed yesterday.

The buildings, all of which stand either on the Mall or near the White House, are said to house more than 25,000 Federal workers, and would be demolished "at the earliest practicable time."

No official schedule of the temporary buildings which are to "go" has been published, but a reliable source said these 17 structures are in the "vulnerable area":

On the Washington Monument Grounds, Tempos 3, 4, and 5.

North of the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool, Tempos W and N.

D. C. Guard Pilot Killed in Crash Of Jet Fighter

A District Air National Guard fighter pilot was killed in the mid-air explosion of his F-84 Thunderjet at 9:57 p.m. last night, about 3 miles east of Emmitsburg, Md.

Guard officials identified him as Second Lieut. Michael Alkire, 22, a member of the 121st White House Squadron, who lives at 1201 M st. nw.

Lieutenant Alkire took off from Andrews Air Force Base on a routine night training flight. He was flying wing on another Thunderjet flown by First Lieut. William W. Hall of 225 Missouri ave. nw.

Hall said the two planes entered a cloudbank near Emmitsburg. When he broke out, Hall tried to call his wingman, but couldn't find him. Hall returned to Andrews safely.

Lieutenant Alkire is the son of Col. and Mrs. Darr H. Alkire. Colonel Alkire is currently on duty with the Far Eastern Air Force.

According to Dr. W. R. Cadle of Emmitsburg and State Trooper Kenneth Bond of Frederick Barracks, who reached the crash scene within a few minutes, an unopened parachute was found in the plane.

Mrs. Don Sanders, on whose farm the plane crashed, said that an electrical storm was in progress when people saw a red flash and heard the plane explode in the air.

1,000,000 Men With Families Face Draft Call in Near Future

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A draft call in the near future faces about one million nonveterans between the ages of 19 and 25 who are now draft-exempt because they are married or have dependents.

This, it was learned last night, will probably be the first step taken to increase our armed forces to three million men by next June 30.

Indicative of congressional sentiment for expansion of the armed forces as rapidly as possible was the action on the hurry-up doctor draft bill passed by the House yesterday with only one dissenting vote. A similar measure was unanimously adopted by the Senate Tuesday.

Senate and House conferees agreed Tuesday on a dependency allotment bill for enlisted men which would provide allotments of from $85 to $165 for GI families.

This clears the way for removal of the present restriction against drafting of married men or men with dependents. It will also provide for the families of enlisted men called up in the National Guard and the Reserve.

With passage of the GI allotment bill imminent, pressure is growing on Capitol Hill for drafting of the nonveterans under age 26 who are married or have dependents.

Feelings in many quarters are these: Many of the National Guardsmen and reservists who are being called up have families, so why shouldn't the young man with a wife or dependents who has never seen service be drafted?

Under the Selective Service Act of 1948, only single men in the 19-through-25 age bracket who have no dependents are subject to the draft.

Selective Service officials say that if the pool of one million non-

Taft Charge Of No Plans Is Disputed

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman will make "A Report to the Nation" at 10 o'clock (EDT) Friday night. He will talk about both domestic and world problems, but the main emphasis will be on the Korean war.

Mr. Truman's address, which was under preparation yesterday, will be broadcast by radio and television.

William M. Boyle, jr., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, talked to the President about the address yesterday, and later told White House reporters that he did not consider it "a political speech."

Boyle said he expected that, later on, Mr. Truman would make some outright campaign speeches over the air in connection with the 1950 Congressional elections. He said that he was reasonably certain that Mr. Truman would not be able to go on any "extensive" whistle-stop tour.

Boyle, after talking over some of the senatorial races with the Chief Executive, again said that Joseph T. Ferguson, the Democratic nominee, would defeat "Mr. Republican," Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. It turned out, however, that he was talking about the Ohio situation in August, not November.

"I think Ferguson would walk away with it right now," Boyle said. "That's how I feel about it, right or wrong."

Ferguson, whose friends sometimes call him "Jumping Joe," also was at the White House and sat in on part of the Truman-Boyle conference.

He issued a statement excoriating Taft for his "blundering stupidity" over the last 12 years, and said there was no man in the Senate who is more responsible morally for the trouble in Korea. He challenged Taft to cite one instance where he has supported "any measure to prevent aggression in the world or to stop the spread of communism or atheism."

"It is my personal belief," said Ferguson, "that Taft right now is secretly hoping for an American defeat in Korea as his last desperate chance for reelection."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson disputed yesterday a charge by Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) that the Truman Administration lacks diplomatic plans to combat Russian aggression.

Taft leveled his charge in his weekly column to Ohio newspapers. He accused the Administration of a "complete lack" of military or diplomatic plans.

Taft asserted that Congress is in the dark on how much to spend for defense, how closely to regulate the domestic economy, and how high to raise taxes.

He called on the Administration to answer such questions as:

"Do we ultimately march to Moscow as Napoleon and Hitler attempted to do?

"Do we send an American Army of five million men to fight Russia on the continent of Europe?

"How effectively can our Air Force and the atom bomb destroy the aggressive power of Russia?"

Acheson told a press conference Taft is wrong about the diplomatic situation. He indicated defense leaders will answer on the subject of military preparedness.

As examples of diplomatic plans to meet the threat of Russian aggression, Acheson cited the North Atlantic defense treaty which is being supplemented by arms shipments to pact partners, and the prompt action of 53 nations, under United States leadership, to meet the Communist thrust in Korea.

He insisted that the United States is well equipped diplomatically and has succeeded very well in meeting the Communist challenge.

He said the actions of the other free nations of the world, in cooperation with the United States, demonstrate that they realize the menace of Communism and have taken steps to meet it.

troops to the Yalu River, on the Korean border.

There has been no confirmation of these reports, and no convincing evidence whether the Chinese Communists really intend to enter the Korean war. But this much was sure: that if the Chinese Communists moved masses of trained troops into Korea, they would tilt the scales heavily and almost unbearably against the United Nations forces there.

Hope to Localize Conflict

If this should happen, one informed source hinted last night, the United States and its U. N. partners would still try to keep the war confined to the Korean peninsula. Even such a localized war would require further calls on American manpower and industry, and probably would mean something close to total mobilization before long.

A reporter asked Acheson what the Government here was doing to discourage the Chinese Communists from getting into the war. The answer was that the Government was trying, in all it said and did, to make its nonaggressive intentions toward China clear to the Communist leaders.

President Truman has said it and I have said it, the Secretary went on, and we are making it clear through the Voice of America and otherwise that neither we nor anyone else is moving or talking in a hostile way against the Chinese mainland.

Acheson was also asked what the American mission on ormosa was doing to prevent Chiang-Kai-shek, the Nationalist leader, from launching air raids or other operations against the mainland.

He answered that President Truman had given the Seventh Fleet the job of "neutralizing" Formosa, and preventing operations from the island or the Communist-held mainland. Therefore, he said, the reporter's question should be addressed to the Navy authorities on the spot.

Another questioner asked whether the United States favored going beyond the Thirty-eighth Parallel in Korea when the Communist invaders had been pushed back to their starting-point.

This question, Acheson replied, is one to be decided by the U. N., if, as, and when it comes up. Or, he added cryptically, it might take a course that would solve itself.

He explained that if the North Koreans would accept what the U. N. had laid down as its policy, if they would just stop the hostilities and cooperate in creating a unified Korea, then nothing more would need to be done.

Answering another question on Korea, the Secretary said the United States welcomed India's proposal to let the six non-permanent members of the Security Council work out a settlement. But he declined to comment further, saying that the Indian proposal was under consideration in the U. N.

Other Topics Discussed

On other subjects, the Secretary had this to say:

1. He confirmed reports that the State Department was negotiating with private companies to buy $15 radio receiving sets, capable of getting Voice of America broadcasts, and suitable for distribution abroad where they would do the most good;

2. He poked fun at the new Communist election law in East Germany, saying it was a "typical Communist degradation of the democratic process";

3. He said Turkey's request for admission to the North Atlantic Treaty organization was under earnest study but, while stressing American interest in Turkey, said the request was a matter for all 12 treaty partners to decide.

New British Jet World's Best

London, Aug. 30 (AP).—Britain unveiled the most powerful known jet engine in the world today.

Its manufacturers asserted the engine has as much power as all four of the 3500-horsepower piston engines which drive a Superfortress bomber.

The engine, named the Sapphire, already has been thoroughly flight-tested by equipping one of Britain's twin-jet fighters with two of them.

Jan Zurakowski, test pilot for Armstrong Siddeley Co., makers of the engine, said the Meteor, equipped with Sapphire engines, "can outclimb any other fighter in the world—British, American, Russian."

He said he can reach 40,000 feet "in under four minutes," but would not say how much under. With only one engine running, he said, the Meteor would exceed 600 miles per hour.

Makers of the engine said it delivers 7200 pounds of static thrust. That is 20 percent more power than is delivered by the Rolls Royce Avon, hitherto Britain's pushiest aerial power plant.

The General Electric-Allison TG-190 is rated at 5000 pounds of static thrust but the authoritative reference work, Janes "All the World's Aircraft," says it has been planned to boost its output to 6000 pounds. It was the TG-190 which powered an American F-86 fighter to a record speed of 670.98 miles per hour at Muroc Dry Lake.

UMT Shelved by Committee Until 1951 as Truman Asked

The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday voted to shelve universal military training legislation for the remainder of this year, but mapped plans to push it vigorously in January.

In aggreeing to President Truman's desires to postpone action on the controversial bill, the Senator's, however, set up a special subcommittee to get a bill ready for floor action when Congress returns.

Chairman Millard Tydings (D., Md.) said the group plans to have a bill prepared should the President call back the legislators after the elections and before January.

Mr. Truman strongly favors UMT but felt an attempt to pass it this late in the session might endanger other legislation. The armed forces are unable now to put such a program in effect and could not until the Korean war is over, he said. There also are a number of problems connected with the bill which Senators feel are not fully solved in the Pentagon bill now before the group.

The vote to lay aside the bill was 8 to 3. Tydings said the 12-man group unanimously favors the measure but that the majority decided to go along with the President's wishes. The three voting in the negative wanted to push a skeletonized UMT bill, merely authorzing the program and leaving details to be worked out and voted later.

Tydings said the committee agreed with some reluctance to spike the legislation, but realized it would be a long and difficult process to get a permanent bill at this time.

"In my opinion," Tydings said, "it would have been wiser for us to have acted this session, although it is doubtful that could have been accomplished in less than a month or possibly two months.

"Even if we had a completed bill, UMT, on the advice of the military establishment, would not go into active operation for a year or two because it would interfere with the draft now in operation."

Tydings named Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) as chairman of a subcommittee to prepare a detailed UMT bill for next session. He also named Senators Chapman (D., Ky.), Kefauver (D., Tenn.), Hunt (D., Wyo.), Bridges (R. N. H.), Saltonstall (R., Mass.) and Morse (R., Oreg.).

Defense Area Security Bill May Get Lost

Authority to insure the security of vital air bases and other defense installations may get lost in the Congressional scramble for "anti-subversive" legislation.

The broader anti-sabotage power sought by the President now appears in three bills, all slated for Senate action as part of "omnibus" anti-Red legislation.

But there's a growing possibility the anti-subversive catch-all (McCarran bill, Mundt-Ferguson et al) may collide with a veto after Congress goes home, if in fact it isn't snagged in the Senate.

In that event the defense plant security authority asked by the President would go down with the lot, and nothing much could be done about it until Congress returned.

Separate Bill Considered

Senator Warren G. Magnuson (D., Wash.), who recently helped push through Congress emergency powers to protect waterfront facilities, said last night he is considering introducing a completely separate bill to similarly secure air bases and defense plants.

Magnuson said he felt confident, however, that even if the highly controversial anti-Red omnibus bill is deadlocked or vetoed Congress will quickly provide the non-controversial defense plant security power asked by the President.

But sponsors of the pooled anti-subversive bills did not share this view. Senator Karl Mundt (R., N. Dak.), co-author of the Mundt-Ferguson bill, said he would object to separation of the defense plant security powers from omnibus legislation cracking down on Communist activities.

Specifically, the President asked Congress on August 8 among other things for "broader authority than now exists . . . to establish security regulations concerning the protection of military bases and other National defense installations."

More than a year earlier the Attorney General had asked Congress for similar authority. Before the recent Truman request the House passed a bill carrying the authority asked, but it was polled with other antisabotage measures. A similar bill has been on the Senate calendar for more than a year, and recently was tied into the McCarran catch-all anti-Red measure.

Legislation introduced August 17 my Magnuson and nine other Senate Democrats to carry out the general tightening of espionage and sabotage laws also carries the authority. But under the Senate agreement to take up all antisubversive legislation right after the tax bill, the defense plant security provision may stand or fall with what happens to the rest.

Specifically, the now bogged-down section provides a maximum penalty of $5000 fine and one year imprisonment for willful violation of regulations for the protection of military property promulgated by the Secretary of Defense. It further provides that in time for war or a National emergency proclaimed by the President, the security authority may be extended by proclamation to any property or places the President may designate.

The provision was left out of the drastic Wood anti-Communist bill passed by the House Tuesday. Sponsors said it was not necessary since the authority was included in a previously passed House bill. In the Senate, where the latter measure has reposed ever since, it was all but forgotten in the rush.

'No Apologies, Won't Resign,' Johnson Says

regular military strength was increased between March, 1948, and this June and that the number of National Guardsmen and Reservists undergoing training had nearly doubled in this period.

He quoted at length from his own prior speeches and those backing him to the effect that his economies had "squeezed the fat" out of military spending, and were aimed at keeping American both militarily and economically strong.

As to his "brash statement" that we could be ready at five o'clock in the morning, Johnson explained that he meant that if we were attacked at four, we would be able to launch a retaliatory strategic air attack an hour later.

We still have this ability, Johnson declared. That, he added, is probobly the reason we are only faced with local aggression in Korea and not bombing raids on our cities.

Johnson went on to say that he felt Tauriello was wrong in saying Johnson had lost the confidence of the American people, though he realized that many of them have been "mislead" by the "misinformation" spread about the Department of Defense.

"I continued to believe," he added, "that, in the long-run, the solid facts of what the Department of Defense is accomplishing will stand out above the misinformation that various individuals and various groups, for reasons of their own, see fit to spread."

Denies "Embarrassment"

As to his presence being "embarrassing" to President Truman, Johnson said this was not so, and tartly told his fellow-Democrats he should take up any "further inquiries" on this score with Mr. Truman himself.

Following Johnson's release of the letter, Tauriello announced he would pursue the issue in a House speech today. Apparently irked by what he said was a violation of an agreement to release the speech today, the Buffalo Congressman indicated he would renew his resignation demand.

The VFW demand for "new and competent leadership" at the Pentagon did not mention Johnson by name but there was no doubt what the resolution meant. It was approved by the delegates to the annual convention by a standing vote, after a move to water it down to less of a rebuke failed.

The resolution charged that the present leadership of the Department of Defense has brought "our Nation's defenses to our present shameful and inadequate condition in the face of world-wide Communist aggression." Another resolution attacking the State Department is slated to be put before the VFW national encampment.

Retroactive Profits Tax Pledge Offered

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A virtual pledge by the tax-making committees of both Houses that they will back retroactive taxation of excess profits in 1951 was sought yesterday in an effort to head off immediate imposition of a profits levy.

Senate Finance Committee leaders, opposed to the added tax at this time, dickered for some binding "assurance" they could present to the Senate as mounting sentiment for the levy threatened to force it into the present bill.

The proposed pledge of retroactive taxation of profits next year was discussed in day-long Senate cloakroom negotiations and late yesterday House Ways and Means Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.) was called into the talks.

Doughton reportedly agreed to sound out his Ways and Means group on the proposal and report back to Senate Finance Chairman Walter F George (D., Ga.) today.

Even if the "assurances" materialize there was still doubt that enough votes could be mustered to table the O'Mahoney-Connally excess profits tax rider on the Administration's "Korean war" tax bill.

One leading proponent of an immediate profits tax termed the bid for a compromise "an admission that they (opponents of the levy) are licked."

Amounts to Promise

The compromise would involve what amounted to a promise that so far as the tax-making groups were concerned any profits tax enacted next year would be assessed against excess earnings in at least the last three months of 1950 and possibly the last half of the year.

George and Senator Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.) contend immediate imposition of the levy, before the Treasury and Congressional staff have had a chance to work out an equitable tax "base," would be unfair to corporate taxpayers already heavily taxed under the emergency bill.

George previously had offered to support an excess profits tax next year, based on studies now in progress, but that promise alone failed to check the upsurge of demands for taxing profits now.

The "retroactive" guarantee, involved in the latest compromise, is designed if successful to tilt just enough votes to freeze the rider out of the bill.

An alternative compromise being discussed involves recommittal of the profits rider to the Finance Commitee with instructions to bring back a retrpactive levy early next year.

As the unusual negotiations went forward, President Truman called Congressional leaders to the White House to urge "more speed" in enacting his five billion dollar "interim" tax bill.

Treasury Secretary John Snyder sat in on the conference with Acting Senate Democratic Leader Francis J. Myers (Pa.) and House Majority Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.)

Snyder is said to have stressed that unless the bill upping corporate and individual taxes is quickly passed the Treasury will not be able to get out the necessary forms to make it effective in October.

Connally Appeals to Senate

Myers said the profits tax issue did not come up at the meeting. President Truman had said previously that he is not asking a profits tax "at this time," but would not reject a tax bill that carried the levy.

Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), co-sponsor of the pending proposal to immediately tax excess profits retroactive to July 1, meanwhile appealed to the Senate to "spread the sacrifices" being made in the Korean war.

"We must show the boys in Korea and the boys being drafted that those who would make profits out of this war must also make sacrifices," said Connolly.

"They don't ask our young men how much income tax they pay or where they want to go. They lead them to a recruiting station and say 'You're in the Army'."

30 Reds in South Dakota

Turning to Senator Karl Mundt (R., S. D.), leading author of the Mundt-Ferguson anti-subversives bill, Connally said.

"Failure to pass laws like this will create more Communists than you'e got in South Dakota."

Mundt told Connally there are only about 30 Communists in South Dakota but he plans to vote for the excess profits tax anyway.

Party polls on the profits levy, while still inclusive, indicated pretty plainly that the rider will be adopted unless a compromise is worked out.

A Democratic poll, on the straight-out issue of imposing the tax, showed 30 Democratic Senators for it, 15 against .6 undecided, and 3 not yet contacted.

A Republican poll was made on an expected motion to table the tax. Eighteen GOP Senators favored tabling the levy, 9 opposed shelving, 10 were undecided and 5 hadn't been reached.

The preponderance of Democratic votes for the tax thus more than offset the GOP trend the other way but so close were the lines drawn that Finance Committee concessions may still determine the outcome.

One Senate advocate of excess profits taxation, Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), argued that neither the Finance Committee nor the House Ways and Means Committee acting with it, can give the Senate any "binding" assurance of retroactive profits taxation next year.

"We will have a newly elected Congress next year," said Douglas. "Who can say with assurance who will be in the majority?"

Red Chinese Ready for Talk on Tibet Issue

New Delhi, India, Aug. 30 (AP).—A reliable source said today the Chinese Communist government has informed India it is willing to settle the question of Tibet peacefully through negotiations in New Delhi.

The informant said Peiping had replied to India's informal note urging earlier this month that the status of the land of the Lamas lying between India and China in the high Himalayas be settled in friendly talks, thus spiking recent rumors the Chinese were planning or already had invaded Tibet.

The reply was said to have informed India that Red China has authorized its newly appointed ambassador, Gen. Yuan Chung Hsien, to carry on the talks here with Tibetan representatives. Yuan is expected to arrive September 10. A seven-man delegation of Tibetan priests is also due here shortly from Kalimpong, northeast India.

Controls Bill Issues Nearing Settlement

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Senate-House conferees moved rapidly yesterday toward agreement on the economic controls bill, raising hope that it can be passed and sent to the White House before the week-end.

Main differences between the Senate and House versions were ironed out yesterday, leaving only a few for further consideration this morning.

The bill gives the President the main powers he asked for—the right to allocate and requisition scarce materials, control inventories, finance defense production expansion and curb housing and installment buying credit.

In addition, it gives the Administration power to ration at the retail level and to fix wage and price ceilings on a fairly selective basis, more or less at the President's discretion.

This last provision is not to the liking of Senate Republicans, in particular. But it was indicated that they did not propose to make a fight about it when the bill goes back to the Senate for final passage.

Yesterday the conferees reached agreement to retain in the bill authority for the President to set up a new War Labor Board, if he desires. This could be done as a result of a labor-management conference and agreement. The agency would serve to adjust labor disputes arising from defense production and wage fixing.

In anticipation of the enactment of the legislation, Mr. Truman yesterday asked Congress for an appropriation of 60 million dollars to administer the new law. Although this sum would appear to be large enough to set up a full-scale OPA organization, Administration sources said the President still hopes to avoid any general price fixing, at least for many months.

Nevertheless, the executive branch wants the funds available in case earlier action becomes necessary.

Cpl. Leo Brown

Wounded D.C. GI in Hospital In Virginia

Corpl. Leo R. Brown, jr., Washington soldier wounded in Korea, is now a patient at the Portsmouth (Va.) Naval Hospital, near Norfolk.

He suffered a gunshot wound and broken thigh bone from enemy rifle fire at the start of a mountain attack "somewhere in Korea" early this month.

Brown, 20, is the nephew of Miss Mary McGee of 3222 Bark pl. nw., with whom he was living at 314 S. Capitol st. at the time of his enlistment three years ago.

A native of Washington, he attended Randall Junior High School here before enlistment. For the past two years, his aunt said, he has been overseas with the Twenty-fourth Infantry Division.

The injured man told hospital personnel he "got his" about 6 o'clock in the evening of August 6 or 7. His unit, he said, was moving up the hill to the start of an attack in mountain fighting when he was hit.

He was officially reported wounded in the Army casualty list released for publication last Monday.

Malik Says D.C. Man Asks U. S. to Quit

A Marine pilot with 12 air medals and three Distinguished Flying Crosses, whose wife lives in Washington, has been named by Jakob A. Malik, Russia's delegate to the U. N. Security Council, as favoring United States evacuation of South Korea.

According to Malik, the Marine, Capt. Jesse V. Booker, is one of 39 officers listed as having signed a cable to Malik saying the United State can't stem "the onward surge of the People's Army."

Booker's wife and father-in-law, Col. J. S. E. Young, also a Marine aviator, live at 1511 44th st. nw. Along with 22 others named by Malik, Booker has been listed as missing in action. Defense authorities have no knowledge whether these men actually are prisoners.

Eleven other names on the list are carried as prisoners of war, three do not appear on any casualty reports from Korea, and two were garbled beyond recognition.

A fighter pilot, Booker is believed to have been flying close-support missions off a carrier when he was lost.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson yesterday branded the statement as propaganda. He said the use of pressure to get such statements was contrary to the rules of war, and he put no credence in them.

The way to get true statements from prisoners, Acheson said, was to let the International Red Cross send representatives to interview them. He recalled that the International Red Cross already had such observers with the United Nations forces, but had not been allowed to send them into Communist territory.

Red Satellites' Radio Blasts Truman Text

Communist propagandists in Eastern Europe have begun to make hay out of the weekend statements by Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The party line is that both men told the real truth about American policy—Matthews in his Boston speech urging a "preventive war," MacArthur in his message on American strategic interest in Formosa.

One official Polish broadcast, among the first Eastern European comments to reach Washington, went so far as to picture Matthews and MacArthur as "overly sincere." And in all the press and radio propaganda picked up so far, President Truman was accused of hiding the truth when he repudiated the two statements.

No Soviet Comment

No comment has been reported as yet from the Soviet Union, but this is not unusual. Soviet propaganda often lets the first blast come from its mouthpieces in the satellites or in Communist newspapers in the Western World.

The Polish commentary, broadcast from Warsaw Tuesday night, argued that President Truman's repudiation meant nothing.

"The United States Government," it said, "often has trouble with its overly sincere and garrulous politicians in uniform and warriors in mufti. They sometimes think too loudly. When this happens, the United States Government, in order to find a way out and save face (the United States is greatly interested in keeping up appearances) issues a denial. These denials obviously do not deny anything . . .

"Screen of Hypocrisy"

"The facts support not Truman and the Department of State, but MacArthur and the Secretary of the Navy Matthews, whose overly sincere statements the United States had to disavow yesterday. They simply said aloud what the State Department thinks and puts into practice behind a screen of hypocrisy."

After describing MacArthur as "a bad politician and an adventurous general," this official Polish broadcast dealt with Matthews for his "ghastly statement" that "a preventive atomic war should be launched against the Soviet Union.'"

"It is easy to imagine how unwelcome this statement is to the United States in the present situation," the broadcaster said. . . . The Department of State naturally hurried to disavow him; Matthews spoke in his private capacity, the United States Government does not intend to start any preventive war. Yet, the adventurous warrior in civvies is backed by the facts . . . In order really to disavow Matthews' statement Truman would have to disavow himself."

From neighboring Romania came a similar attack, this time in the Greek language, saying Matthews' "boner expressed the thoughts of the Wall Street cannibals." It described MacArthur's message as another "boner" which "confirmed that Formosa belongs to the Americans."

Both Matthews and MacArthur, the Romanian broadcast concluded, "have thus revealed the real aims of the American imperialists."

Senate's Crime Unit Given $50,000 More

Truman Message

Labor Told Dangers of Communism

President Truman said yesterday in a Labor Day proclamation that communism is a "false friend" which reduces the working man to slavery.

He asked the working men and women of America on this year's Labor Day, next Monday, to dedicate themselves to the cause of resisting Communist aggression throughout the world.

Asserting that the laboring force of the United States enjoys high wages, good working and living conditions and a share in every phase of public life, he added:

"It is the purpose of the United States in the world today to bring about conditions of peace under which working men and women, in every land, can achieve better lives and participate in the affairs of their own nations.

"One of the great obstacles in the way is the Communist movement, which falsely professes to be the friend of those who labor, but which reduces the working man to slavery wherever it attains power."

Without mentioning the Korean war by name, the President said that as of this moment the Communist movement has violated the peace of the world and threatens the free nations with aggression.

"In the face of this threat, our country has taken the only course that can lead to peace," he said. "We and other free nations, acting through the United Nations, have given unmistakable notice that armed aggression will be met with armed defense."

Until there is evidence that the aggressors are willing to have peace, he said, "We must build sufficient defenses."

The Senate gave its special crime investigating committee an additional $50,000 yesterday.

The committee got $150,000 last May when the crime investigation was launched and Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), the chairman, asked for $100,000 more.

The Senate Rules Committee sliced his request in half but Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.), predicted more will be approved later, if needed.

Philadelphian Refuses To Talk with Counsel

Philadelphia, Aug. 30 (U.P.).—Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of lightweight boxing champion Ike Williams refused today to appear before counsel for the United States Crime Investigating Committee.

Palermo was served with a Federal subpena after he was freed yesterday of charges of numbers handling and gunplay in a bloodless, shooting affray last August 22.

Lemuel B. Schofield, counsel for the fight manager, said Palermo would appear before the committee itself but not before the committee counsel.

The committee is expected to open public hearings next month on gambling and racketeering in Philadelphia.

Palermo and two other men were freed of the gunplay charges when the persons allegedly shot at refused to testify. At previous hearing, a police inspector had testified that two suspects "put the finger on Blinky" as the alleged operator of one of the city's biggest numbers banks.

Grand Way to Figure Your Life Expectancy

Boston, Aug. 30 (U.P.).—Want to know how long you're likely to live?

Just add the total life spans of your four grandparents and divide by four.

Dr. Frederick T. Jung of Chicago told the American Congress of Physical Medicine that will give a rough idea of your own life expectancy.

'Draft Dewey' Drive Started By N. Y. Group

By Drew Pearson

Powerful, last-minute efforts were made over the weekend by no less than the Rockefeller family to draft Thomas E. Dewey to run for Governor of New York—and perhaps have another try at the presidency.

Winthrop Aldrich, head of the Chase National Bank, conferred over the weekend with his brother-in-law, John D. Rockefeller in Bar Harbor, Me.; and together they phoned Roy Howard, head of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and a powerful Dewey backer.

They also telephoned Frank Gannett, head of the Gannett newspaper chain which blankets New York State, and asked him to come to New York immediately.

Aldrich pointed out to both Roy Howard and Gannett that the country faced a crisis and that Dewey must be persuaded to run again.

Gannett was on his yacht on Lake Ontario when the Bar Harbor call came through on Sunday, and following it, he flew in his private plane to New York for lunch with Aldrich on Monday. With him went his close friend and budding political leader, Carl Hallauer of the Bausch and Lomb Optical Co. in Rochester.

Howard agreed to run an editorial in the New York World-Telegram, urging the Republican Party to draft Dewey for a third term. A similar editorial in the New York Herald Tribune, incidentally, brought forth only a few favorable letters.

$50,000 Bail Set for Flier On Batory Hop

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—The pilot who hitched an unauthorized ocean ride on the Polish liner Batory by landing a rented seaplane beside the Europe-bound vessel came back today in handcuffs.

William Jesse Newton, 26, arrested when the Batory docked in England, was flown back to the United States in custody of a United States marshal.

Arraigned on charges of transporting a stolen plane in foreign commerce, Newton was held in $50,000 bail.

Chief Assistant United States Attorney Frank Parker said the high bail had been requested by the Justice Department. Asked if there were other ramifications to the case, Parker said: "I can't comment on that."

ECA Balloons Soar Over Iron Curtain

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 30 (AP).—The strong west wind blowing across northern Europe is converting a Marshall Plan publicity stunt into a propaganda weapon that has pierced the iron curtain.

The weapon is a toy balloon, about a foot in diameter, filled with hydrogen and bearing a printed message of West European recovery.

Released into the air by visitors at exhibits sponsored by the Economic Cooperation Administration, the balloons have drifted hundreds of miles behind the iron curtain.

Replies have been received from persons who read the messages in such Communist-ruled countries as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Hungary and eastern Germany.

Communist newspapers in Berlin accused the "western imperialists" of infecting the printed cards with bacteria and charged the balloons were being used to test wind currents for poison attacks against eastern Europe.

Surprised by success of the barrage, ECA officials talked today of expanding it.

Probers Call Four in Hiss Quiz

Four former Federal employes were subpenaed yesterday by the House Committee on Un-American Activities for questioning Friday in connection with the Alger Hiss-Whittaker Chambers Red spy case.

Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) identified the four as John Abt, Nathan Witt and Charles Kramer, all of New York, and George Silverman. Silverman was a member of the Railroad Retirement Board and worked for the Air Force during World War II.

Abt, Witt and Kramer worked in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration under Henry A. Wallace during the middle 1930s.

Lee Pressman, the AAA's assistant counsel at the time and later CIO general counsel, testified Monday that they were members of the same Communist cell he joined in 1934 in rebellion against the depression and the rise of Hitler.

But Pressman, who did not break with the party ideologically until after the Korean war, also testified that Hiss, former young State Department career official convicted for lying about his Red connections, was not a member of the group.

Chambers, self-confessed former Communist courier, has testified Hiss was a member of the cell.

While Nixon refused to say what questions will be put to the new witnesses, sources close to the committee said they "certainly" will be asked about the discrepancy between Pressman's testimony and that of Chambers.

These sources said the committee also wants to know if Pressman was correct when he testified he does not remember ever having met Chambers in Washington. Chambers said he did.

The 44-year-old Pressman, now in private law practice in New York, said his only meeting with Chambers was in New York in 1936 when Chambers came to see him about obtaining Mexican arms for the Spanish Republicans during the Spanish civil war.

Silverman was named as a one-time member of the Communist Party by Elizabeth Bentley, former Soviet messenger whose testimony inspired Chambers to come forward and tell his story.

Miss Bentley also accused Silverman of slipping her Government secrets while he was a Federal official.

U. E. Organizer Refuses To Talk on Red Links

A United Electrical Workers Union organizer refused yesterday to answer any questions bearing on his own or the union's Communist affiliations.

Henry W. Fiering, an organizer for 14 years, told the House Un-American Activities Committee time and again:

"I decline to answer on the ground of the Fifth Amendment and that any answer might tend to incriminate me."

After being excused from the witness stand, Fiering told reporters he no longer is connected with the U. E. He said he is unemployed and living in Los Angeles.

Fiering frequently was mentioned in the committee's investigation this summer of communism in Ohio.

Victor Decavitch of Cleveland, a former president of U. E. District 7 (Ohio-Kentucky), told the committee July 14 that Fiering recruited him into the Communist Party. Decavitch said he broke with the Communists and left the union.

Fiering declined to say whether he knew persons named in the Ohio investigation or whether they were members of the Communist Party.

Fiering testified he had held union organization posts in St. Louis, Dayton and Cleveland, Ohio, Sharon, Pa. and Winston-Salem, N. C.

He was asked whether it was true as Dacavitch testified, that Communists held "a very high percentage—more than 90 percent—of the posts on the U. E. staff." He refused to answer.

Fiering also refused to say whether Communists sat in on U. E. policy discussions, and whether appointments to the U. E. staff had to get Communist clearance.

Finally, Representative Harrison (D., Va.) asked:

"Do you know of any officer of the U. E. who isn't a member of the Communist Party?"

"The same answer," Fiering said.

District Loss

The death of former Representative Ambrose J. Kennedy, who till 1940 represented the Fourth Maryland Congressional District, robs the District of Columbia of a friend who understood not only its need but also its method of looking at itself. Congressman Kennedy, in other words, appreciated the psychology of Washington and its residents. He was born in Maryland, in the orbit of the District, and as a member of a constituency wholly embraced by Baltimore, fought for local suffrage. As the third-ranking member of the District Committee he introduced the bill to repeal the "red rider," the legislative enactment which would have robbed teachers of the District of their salaries if they attempted to tell their students something about the history and mechanics of communism. Representative Kennedy was a man who thought that with knowledge would come understanding and wisdom. Now he is dead, victim of a cerebral hemorrhage, and it would be a matter of pride with him if he knew that he was not as lonely in advocating District suffrage as when he started.

Diplomatic Job

Secretary Acheson has reinforced the President's statement of American impartiality as between Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tze-tung in our relations with Formosa. He also has disclaimed any selfish design on what, juridically, is still a Japanese island. This was on the record even before General MacArthur gave color to the Chinese Communist charge of aggression, but it cannot be too often repeated. Nonaggression will be easy to sustain in any hearing on the island under U. N. auspices. However, it will be difficult to maintain the reiterated attitude of impartiality. For one thing, this country is in diplomatic relations with Chiang, but has no relations at all, even consular ones, with Communist China. Moreover, we have been sending all kinds of aid to Chiang Kai-shek, and there is no indication, in spite of the crackdown on General MacArthur, that the advisorial relations established by the Supreme Commander during his visit to Formosa have been canceled. The pledged counsel was in connection with the building up in depth of the defense of Formosa.

The way to resolve the dilemma and to achieve a true impartiality is to have no relations at all with either of these leaders, and to treat the island as still a no-man's land in which we have every right as a trustee to access and use. As for the Peking government, nobody in his senses would advocate recognition of Mao Tze-tung in view of Chinese Communist actions, particularly toward the antiaggression police action in Korea. But there is no rhyme or reason, either to continue the recognition of Chiang Kai-shek, or to subject the world to the egregious spectacle of Chiang's representative as the delegate of China armed with the veto power of a great power.

The mistakes of war and peace are now sticking out like sore thumbs. Formosa figures among the war mistakes. There would have been no Formosa problem today if the Navy had had its way and our arms had bypassed the northern Philippines and attacked Formosa on the way to Japan, thus cutting off and so recapturing the Philippines. The Navy plan led to one of the most famous controversies with General MacArthur in wartime. He fought for action, instead, against the Philippines. At that time, incidentally, General MacArthur underestimated the strategic worth of Formosa as much as in his VFW speech he overestimated it, and won the fight in favor of his "I shall return" proposition. A prime blunder of the peace—the sort of blunder that was worse than a crime—was to rate China as a great power. Mr. Churchill is supposed to have said that China was Mr. Roosevelt's "master illusion." It was the elevation of fiction into fact, and in international relations this kind of thing increases in wrongness in geometrical ratio as time goes on. This has been true of the China mistake; it has cost this country dearly.

Whether this mistake of the peace can be repaired is problematical. But it is surely not beyond the wit of statesmanship to stop the aid and advice to Chiang, and to encourage the members of the United Nations to declare the U. N. seat for China vacant, pending a more propitious season for a consideration of who represents China. How that can be done, we don't know. But neither could we have said prior to Korea that an aggression there would find 53 nations in the U. N. ranged against it. The Charter is a flexible instrument when there is a will to do something with it that requires to be done.

Registration Farce

The "Subversive Activities Control and Communist Registration Act" adopted by the House of Representatves on Tuesday ignores the real dangers of espionage and sabotage confronting this Nation and aims instead at something shadowy, to wit, subversion. Its stated purpose is "to protect the United States." Yet it affords none of the protections against espionage and sabotage recommended by the President; it makes no provision for the safeguarding of military installations and bases, nor even for the supervision of deportable aliens. It is based on the assumption that Communist ideas and Communist propaganda are likely to turn the devotion of Americans from their own traditions, institutions and values. Proceeding on this assumption, the bill provides for an elaborate arrangement—essentially the same as that previously established by the Mundt-Nixon bill—under which an administrative tribunal would designate organizations as "Communist-action" groups and "Communist-front" groups; these groups and all their members would be registered with the Government and subjected to a number of disabilities; and any publicity emanating from them would have to be labeled as coming from "a Communist organization."

These are limitations on the freedom of association and freedom of expression which Americans have traditionally enjoyed. If they genuinely served to protect internal security, they might well be warranted. But their contribution to security is precisely nil. As Attorney General J. Howard McGrath put it in a letter to Senator Scott W. Lucas commenting on similar provisions of the McCarran bill, they will be "completely ineffective to accomplish their purpose." Indeed they are extremely likely to frustrate that purpose by driving the whole network of Communist groups underground.

One trouble with trying to compile a handy official roster of all Communist groups and their members is that a satisfactory definition of terms is impossible. The definitions presented in the bill passed by the House are so vague that they might easily be applied to many organizations guilty of nothing more than a loyal opposition to Government policies or to prevailing popular opinion. Moreover, the character of any group, as well as its membership, is liable to constant change. The attempt to require any group to register as Communist would involve interminable administrative hearings and litigation. Mr. McGrath was quite right in pointing out that "when, finally, an organization is required to register, it will in all probability dissolve itself, then reappear with a new name and new officers." The official list would be perpetually out of date—quite apart from the danger that it would inflict serious injuries on innocent groups and individuals.

Insofar as the bill can be credited with keeping registered Communists out of Government positions and defense production plants, it merely duplicates safeguards that are already in force. Communists and Communist sympathizers are currently excluded from Federal employment and from factories handling vital defense contracts by the loyalty program and the security risk system; they are also denied passports; and their organizations no longer enjoy tax exemption benefits. Registration is simply a more complex, clumsy and inequitable way to achieve the same results.

The United States is not in danger from Communist ideas. Those who fear that the American people will be subverted by the party's propaganda in favor of a despotic, alien system are men who have themselves lost faith in the good sense of the people and in the vitality of American institutions. Espionage and sabotage are real dangers to be dealt with through realistic precautions. Subversion is a neurotic nightmare—as evidenced by the puny and steadily diminishing size of the Communist Party. Internal security can be best achieved by distinguishing between substance and shadows.

Western Europe

Secretary Acheson ducked any comment upon the Churchill call for "a European army"—properly so, for the answer to the question should be given by the President himself. The time has come for Mr. Truman to make his views known. The feeling is very strong in military circles that Europe is not pulling its weight in meeting the common peril of the Stalinist menace—in arms production, enlistment, or generalship. This is the reason that there has been no commitment on fresh American troops in Europe and no commitment on an American commander in chief. It is felt that if these contributions were made, the Europeans would lie down on the job, satisfied that they have done their duty in providing the site, and leaving it to Uncle Sam to do the rest. On all these matters, too, there is a good deal of chicken-and-egg argument, as, for instance, which comes first, a unified command or a big enough army to command.

Senator Lodge now comes along with a reminder of the inadequacy of our American effort. "We should not leave Washington," he says, "till we have amended the Selective Service Act so that it can provide an army of at least 30 divisions and armed forces totaling at least three million." Such a figure seems to us too high to support short of all-in mobilization, but something substantially more than the 11 divisions that are now scheduled is assuredly called for. The President might do well to state new goals in his speech on Friday, and to couple such a statement with an indication of what we expect from Europe and what we intend to contribute in making western Europe a bastion against the Cossack.

Mr. Truman has acquired great prestige in Europe by his leadership of the anti-aggression forces. No longer is there any doubt in Europe of what the United States will do, though a new apathy seems to have taken the place of the initial enthusiasm. To counter this the President ought to second the proposal for a European army. He can do so with propriety because the United States is the first among equals in the struggle for survival against the aggressive Stalinists. It must continue to act the part in word and deed, making clear through the President that a common peril requires of all parties the demonstration of the will to survive, so that men and women on both sides of the Atlantic shall have freedom to till their own gardens in peace.

All Europeans know that Europe has less chance of survival than America if the colossus goes on the rampage, but not all Europeans know that this country in its strategy regards western Europe as an extension of its own strategical frontier, and intends to act on that assumption by accepting a common responsibility. In itself the North Atlantic Pact affords no assurance. There is a kind of paralysis on action because everybody is waiting for the other fellow to make the first move, but this, surely, is the function of leadership.

Writing Off Statehood

Majority Leader Lucas' desire to complete Senate business by September 9 so that he can go back to Illinois and campaign for reelection is understandable. What is not so understandable is the way in which members of the Democratic Policy Committee have gone along in the shelving of the Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills. The Democratic platform of 1948 reads: "We urge immediate statehood for Hawaii and Alaska." This is one of the very few uses of "immediate" in that document. To write statehood off now, on the eve of attainment, is to abandon the pledge with a cynicism which the Republicans ought to be quick to note.

As a practical matter, unless the statehood bills are passed now, it means that the whole tedious business must be done over again in another Congress, for the approval of the two bills by the House will not carry over. That would involve more hearings and investigations, of which there has already been a plethora. In view of the repeated emphasis placed on the measures by President Truman, and in view of the fact that a bipartisan majority for both bills seems reasonably assured if they are brought to the floor, a special responsibility devolves upon Senator Lucas. He is reported to have promised privately that he would do his best to bring them up after the tax bill. One can only conclude, in light of his evident lack of vigor, that his best is not very good. But surely there ought to be enough interest among other Senators who have pledged themselves to these measures of overdue justice and national defense importance to persuade Mr. Lucas to change his mind.

On the broader question of whether Congress should formally adjourn or merely recess, we think the Senate position in favor of a recess is wise. To be sure, all members of the House and one third of the members of the Senate are anxious to return to the hustings, and it is important that they have some time to do so. Perhaps the distinction between recess and adjournment is academic. But it seems to us that formal adjournment of Congress in this time of crisis would have a bad psychological effect both on voters here and on allies abroad—something the British Parliament has already found. The same thing could be accomplished by a recess which left it up to congressional leaders, rather than the President, to recall legislators to emergency duty.

Womanpower

Women are naturally the first big reservoir of manpower to which employers will turn to meet production needs as men are called to arms. It has been estimated that 8 out of 10 jobs in the country can be handled by women, yet one large insurance company, warning employers to prepare for this development in their methods and plant setups, says that women now constitute only 29 percent of the labor force, as against 36 percent at the end of the war.

The fact is that the womanpower situation is much different today from what it was in 1945 and in 1940. Since the end of the war older women have trooped into industry, and most of the women workers in the second World War are at home, the mothers of children. In consequence, Miss Frieda S. Miller, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, says it is not possible now to predict "how many of the 37 2-3 million women not in the labor force would be making their greatest contribution by entering it." Miss Miller also reminds that only 3 1/3 million people (including slightly more than one million women) are unemployed today, while the total unemployed in 1940 was eight million.

This means that new women recruits in industry will in many instances be mothers of young children. Community facilities to ease their burdens will be necessary. Shifts of hours, and, above all, part-time work to meet their special needs should be considered. Job training, housing, food, nursery services, health maintenance must be planned so as to insure that such women will work effectively while functioning as homemakers. Hence it is well that a major study of the use of women in production is being undertaken by the Women's Bureau at request of the National Security Resources Board. For to keep the American economy strong, the home as well as office and factory must do its part.

Financial Preparedness

At the commencement of World War II our national indebtedness was around 30 billions; at the conclusion it was, and still is, above 250 billions. In addition, we have unevaluated liabilities for: (1) care of the wounded and unwounded who participated in that war, and their depedents; (2) by reason of the inflation growing out of the war, increased charges under the social security program; (3) for the same reason, increased costs of government, including adjustments of salaries paid to civil servants.

Quite evidently, what is urgently needed at the present time is an official report upon all these and other governmental obligations, so that we can estimate our resources to conduct the Korean war and undertake other military campaigns. One would suppose from official pronouncements that our resources are unlimited but this is only true in the sense of printing currency and bonds. Such printing may of itself involve us in further inflation and consequential financial embarrassment. Furthermore, there is a defense risk, present to the minds of everybody, which we must keep some reserves in hand to meet.

Animal Farm

I enjoyed Drew Pearson's description of his vacation very much, as it appeared in your August 28 issue. However, I am slightly confused.

"Senator McKellar" was a bull belonging to Drew which having become ornery, had to be shipped off. "President Truman" was a bull which got loose and acted as bellicose as Senator McCarthy.

Pearson then states, "We entertained King Peter of Yugoslavia, a very democratic little guy, who was as courteous in meeting our cook as in meeting a Senator." What I want to know is, was "King Peter" a person or just another one of Drew's animals with a high sounding name? Was he a man or a mouse?

Why We Fight

Please, won't some member of Congress tell us (without any double-talk) just what America is fighting for.

Obviously we are not opposed to totalitarian dictatorships—if they are sufficiently reactionary. Obviously we are not opposed to aggression; since it was the invasion of Spain by Hitler and Mussolini's armed troops which overthrew the elected Spanish government and put our new pal, Dictator Franco, into power. Obviously we are no longer interested in "self-determination of small nations" or we would not be backing France in its control of Indo-China. The amount of interest we have in achieving freedom and liberty anywhere was well expressed by our military adviser in Greece, Major General Van Fleet, who came back from that unhappy country to announce "There is still too much civil liberty in Greece."

We insisted that China retain a corrupt and reactionary government which it hated, while Russia talked to the Chinese people of land reform and a better distribution of wealth. Undoubtedly that was double-talk and in the long run meaningless, but how did we ever maneuver ourselves into the position where, in the eyes of the downtrodden peasants of Indo-China, China, Greece and Korea, we stand for feudalism and oppression while Russia appears to them to be their only hope for land reform and better conditions?

You can't fight that just by telling the underdog that "communism" is evil. They want a new deal—and America seems to be insisting that they can't have it while Russia at least seems to be insisting that they should and can.

If we are to fight, let it be for some single, eternal principle of rightness and decency; not anti-some meaningless word, which means one thing to propaganda-ridden America and something entirely different to the little, hopeless peasant in China and Indo-China and Korea. Let's hear what America is for.

MacArthur's Speech

The astute advisers of the President are to be congratulated in inducing him to demand withdrawal of General MacArthur's proposed address on Formosa after it was in the mails instead of merely disclaiming that it represented Administration policy as was done in the case of Secretary Matthews' recent speech.

By this brilliant stroke of genius, they not only assured far greater publicity and a much vaster audience for the MacArthur address than it could otherwise possibly have secured, but they handed their political opponents an effective argument for use in the election campaign.

A few more tours de force like this and they will elect their adversaries this fall and assure their victory in 1952.

Loan to Franco

The recent votes in Congress on the Franco loan fill me with disgust.

Communist propaganda has been telling Europeans that America is pro-Fascist. Our friends have been reluctant to believe it, but a loan to Franco would convince many that we cannot see any difference between a Fascist and a liberal Democrat.

Congress could scarcely give the Communist propagandists a better talking point.

Freed Nazi War Criminals

The recent decision to free eight leading Nazi war criminals can hardly be of help in demonstrating to the American people that democracy is being served in Germany. Indeed, it will be difficult to assure the public that our leading officials in Germany are determined to uphold in deed as well as word those moral principles which are supposed to underlie the aims of the American occupation. The eight leading war criminals who have been given their freedom were not minor Nazis who merely tagged along with Germany's brutal onslaught against humanity. On the contrary they were part of that small group of militarists, diplomats, jurists and industrial barons which constituted the general staff of the Nazi state.

Friedrich Flick was one of the most powerful industrial warlords under Hitler. As a close collaborator of Hermann Goering, Flick was convicted of exploiting slave labor and looting Nazi occupied countries.

Otto Dietrich and Richard Walter Darre were found guilty of organizing the program which slaughtered six million Jews.

Lieut. Gen. Rudolf Lehmann, judge advocate of the Nazi army, was convicted for having drafted the orders to execute Allied prisoners of war.

Kurt Rothenberger was found guilty of having aided racial persecution and corrupting the German judicial system to further Hitler's criminal aggression.

Karl Rasche, former head of the notorious Dresdner Bank, was convicted on charges of plundering financial and industrial institutions in Nazi occupied countries.

Fritz Ter Meer, a leading I. G. Farben official, was found guilty of looting Nazi occupied countries and organizing slave labor projects in the concentration camp of Auschwitz for the profit of I. G. Farben.

Heinrich Lehmann, an official of the Krupp Works, which produced guns, tanks and other war materials for the Nazi armies, was convicted of slave labor.

Will the freeing of these leading war criminals serve to check Nazi and nationalist trends and to help the democratic forces of Germany? The German people were told that Hitler was wrong. What must they now think when they behold the freeing of criminals whose offenses against human decency and morality were no less diabolical than those perpetrated by Hitler himself?

On February 6, 1950, United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy delivered a major policy speech to the Germans wherein he stated: "Here I wish to emphasize that one of the primary purposes of the occupation has been and is to eradicate Nazi influences and leadership from German political, economic and cultural life." How much meaning does that statement now have for the average German? The freeing of these criminals will not only increase the cynicism of the Germans but it is a blow against whatever sincere efforts have been made by hard-working Americans to truly imbue the German people with respect for human dignity and the laws of mankind.

We sincerely wonder what all this is leading to. For these are not the only war criminals that have been freed and we realize full well that the clemency board which Mr. McCloy has established will undoubtedly attempt to free additional war criminals. We know that leading German militarists are insisting that before the Germans "cooperate" militarily with the West, the war criminals must be freed. The granting of freedom to the eight criminals mentioned above can easily justify the conclusion that the dictates of the German military are being heeded.

Antidote To Austerity

By Malvina Lindsay

Mind Plus Muscle

"WELL, I FIGURE it's going to be a pretty hard life on most of us from here on," observed the eminent realist, Mr. Hardpann.

"That will depend partly on how well we use our heads," replied his sparring partner, Mr. Stellar.

"Heads nothing! Look at the hard facts. Even if we escape an atomic war, we're going to be spending at least 15 billion dollars a year, maybe double that amount, for nobody knows how long. But the thing that's really going to make things tough is manpower—that is, the lack of it."

"You mean enough people to make the goods we need?"

"Sure! Won't the armed forces and the arms plants be calling for millions of men? What's that going to do to our economy? Just what the Kremlin wants it to! And how are Americans going to take it?"

"I don't like that approach!" exclaimed Mr. Stellar. "We're too much on the defensive everywhere. Surely in production, the one thing we're tops in, we can take the bull by the horns."

"That's fine talk, but I'm looking at hard facts. Manpower's going to be the big thing in the kind of struggle we're messed up in. You mark my word! Pretty soon you'll be missing more and more things you need, making do with less and less. And all the sassy, incompetent help of wartime will be back behind the counters and at the desks."

"STILL I say—and so do some mighty good economists—that all that doesn't have to happen short of total war, if we go at this thing positively by a program of planning, training, research, invention; using our minds for all they're worth. Why don't we start a big volunteer 'expand production' movement right now? What smarter retort could we make to Malik?"

"That's vague talk. Remember there are only 150 million Americans."

"But don't we have enough on the ball, in education, training, experience, ingenuity, initiative, optimism to compensate for billions of totalitarian robots? Of course, we'll have to sacrifice, pay more taxes, have some controls. But to put all the emphasis there is defeatism."

"Remember we don't have the millions of unemployed we had in 1940."

"If you mean a few million potential cut-to-the-pattern workers of a certain age and physique, fit for a hard driving, 8-hour, 6-day week, no. But we do have a great reservoir of other types of workers."

"Industry can't bother with old men, women and children."

"It's high time it began to bother with them. One of the biggest things this country needs to learn is to make its industry flexible enough to use part-time workers—people 65 or even 55, women in the home with some spare time, young people who need to earn while continuing their education. Industry's got to gear itself to such a labor force not only for rearmament but for our future economy."

"SUCH workers take training."

"What worker doesn't! I say we ought to be planning now about such training instead of going around with long faces talking about belt tightening."

"Well," sighed Mr. Hardpann, "I hope our American way of life won't have to suffer too much. But with all this war production——"

"Wait now! I understand this war production has already caused industry to be prepared with great technological advances that will speed things up. Won't those processes—or others—help increase civilian goods? At least we ought to be working toward such a goal."

"That's for technologists to worry about."

"There's a lot the rest of us can do to win the battle of production. The biggest threat to our way of life right now is a speculative boom."

"Well, people will be people,"

"I don't accept that defeatism either. If we had a really aggressive, inspiring campaign to keep our economy strong in spite of the strains put on it in future years, and if Americans understood it clearly, I think they'd respond. I'm sure they'd be willing to cut down on their waste, buy with caution and thrift and work harder, but above all, more intelligently. If the average American understood that in the battle of production here at home he could make himself count for 10 or even 100 totalitarians I bet he'd find a way to do it!"

"Friends Home"

I was astounded and shocked to read in your paper that the city of Takoma Park, Md. had filed a protest against the erection of a "Friends Home"—a refuge for the aged—because unbelievable as it may be, "it might serve to degrade the area." What manner of people are these—surely not Christians and decidely not Jewish—because Jews have always loved and protected their aged—one of the many fine qualities of this fine race.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

MacArthur And Formosa

WITH THE Seventh Fleet under orders from the President to prevent any attack on Formosa, just what is it that has aroused General MacArthur? What has caused him to decide that it is "in the public interest" that he should at this time make a public issue of Formosa between himself and the President of the United States? That is an unusual thing for a general to do. In fact it is very unusual indeed.

Lippmann

GENERAL MacArthur, quite plainly, is not satisfied with the President's decision of June 27 to prevent "the occupation of Formosa by Communist forces" and to let "the determination of the future status of Formosa . . . await the restoration of security in the Pacific, a peaceful settlement with Japan, or consideration by the United Nations."

General MacArthur wants to do more now than to prevent the occupation of Formosa by Communist forces. He wants to have the future of Formosa determined now, and to have it determined by this country unilaterally, and to have it determined in a way which calls for a reversal of the pledges given by the President of the United States to the United Nations.

ON JUNE 27 the Security Council received a formal statement from the President which said:

"In order that there may be no doubt in any quarter about our intentions regarding Formosa, I wish to state that the United States has no territorial ambitions whatever concerning that island, nor do we seek for ourselves any special position or privilege on Formosa.

"The present military neutralization of Formosa is without prejudice to political questions affecting that island. Our desire is that Formosa not become embroiled in hostilities disturbing to the peace of the Pacific and that all questions affecting Formosa be settled by peaceful means as envisaged in the Charter of the United Nations."

This pledge of our intentions was repeated and amplified on August 25 in a letter by Mr. Austin to the Secretary General of the United Nations.

General MacArthur's statement is directed against the President's promise that we have no territorial ambitions whatever concerning Formosa and that we do not "seek for ourselves any special position or privilege on Formosa." General MacArthur wants a very special position on Formosa. He wants nothing less in fact than the permanent use of Formosa as an American air base. Formosa is an essential link, he argues in language designed to make us beloved by all mankind, in an "island chain" from which "we can dominate with air power every Asiatic port from Vladivostok to Singapore." General MacArthur is demanding that we establish a military protectorate over Formosa and that the island should be incorporated into a permanent American strategic system embracing the entire Pacific Ocean "to the shore of Asia."

This, then, is the issue which General MacArthur has chosen to raise between himself and the President: that we demand Formosa for ourselves,—repudiating and reversing the Cairo Declaration and our formal statement of purposes made when the United Nations voted the resolutions under which we are acting in Korea. General MacArthur does not say what we should do when the Security Council reminds us of our pledges.

GENERAL MacArthur's strategic argument itself, even when it is stripped—as he strips it—of all moral and political considerations, is not clear to me. The General says, first, that in our hands we can from Formosa and the "island chain" dominate with air power every Asiatic port from Vladivostok to Singapore. Obviously he must have meant to say that we can "dominate" every Asiatic port if we dominate the air between the island chain and the Asiatic ports. But suppose we do not have complete air supremacy at all times and everywhere. That could be. What then? Then Formosa might be dominated from the mainland and Formosa might be knocked out and Okinawa might be knocked out and Japan might be knocked out if that is also to be part of the island chain.

If American planes can fly from Formosa and Okinawa to Asiatic ports, then Asiatic planes can fly from Asiatic fields to Formosa and Okinawa. In our hands these advanced islands would be a strategic asset if we had certain control of the air. They would be a strategic liability if the local air defenses could be knocked out.

All that part of General MacArthur's argument which is devoted to showing the advantages of our holding these advanced bases rests on the assumption that there will be no powerful air force on the mainland of Asia. That is surely true. Formosa can be defended from the mainland if there is no strong air force on the mainland. Thus the Seventh Fleet can probably prevent the seizure of Formosa as long as the Chinese Communists do not have a strong air force. If they had one, and were willing to use it, the position of the Seventh Fleet would be exceedingly uncomfortable.

YET WHEN General MacArthur turns to the disadvantages of letting Formosa fall to the Communists, he reverses his assumption and shows what they could do from Formosa if they had a powerful air force based on Formosa. What puzzles me in his argument is why we should suppose that they would have no air force if we held Formosa, but that they would have a big air force if they held Formosa. Surely, if they had the air force to knock out "friendly installations in the Philippines" from Formosa, then they have the air force to knock out friendly installations on Formosa.

Is not Formosa much nearer to China than the Philippines are to Formosa? Why, then, does the General think we can defend Formosa more securely than we can defend the Philippines?

Preventive War

By Marquis Childs

Masquerade In The Pentagon

LINCOLN spoke in another time of national crisis of a house divided against itself that cannot stand. It is a fairly safe guess that there is today more unity in the country than in Washington.

Childs

The division is in this Administration. Occasionally it is revealed by such incidents as the official withdrawal of General MacArthur's speech and the controversy over Secretary of the Navy Matthews' suggestion of a preventive war.

What follows is a round of denials. Then there are bland statements that all is harmony and cooperation. This is goose grease. It cannot conceal the continuing division over American policy and what to do about it.

Secretary Matthews is an honorable man. He came to Washington from Omaha without any strong preconceptions on policy. No one who has even a slight knowledge of what is actually happening here can believe that he thought up the idea of a preventive war. But now he has been made to confess the blame and stand in the corner.

The fact is that the preventive war theory has had important support in the Pentagon from high officials both in and out of uniform. Various phrases—such as "war to prevent defeat"—are used to mean the same thing. The following are facts that may be unknown to President Truman, but they are known to some in Washington.

1. SECRETARY of Defense Louis Johnson has in private talks referred to the preventive war concept. He has at various times put varying degrees of emphasis and acceptance on it.

2. Within the past two months a prominent American who once held a high Government office but is now out of politics was approached by the preventive war group in the Pentagon. He was asked if he would publicly come out for it as though it were his independent judgment. Those who made the approach were hopeful that this citizen's name would lend respectability to the theory. He said no.

Matthews' statement that he was speaking his own private views shows loyalty to his superiors. But it can hardly be taken as other than a demonstration of loyalty.

Preventive war has, of course, never been a consideration in official American policy, even as an alternative. The State Department has long been convinced that such talk played directly into the hands of Soviet propagandists seeking to prove to the world that this country is seeking a war. It also serves to spread increasing doubt and distrust among the peoples of western Europe.

In western Europe the threat inherent in a preventive war launched by the United States is clearly understood. Russia has its own retaliatory air arm and presumably the Russian strategic bombing bases are as well concealed and as well protected as American bases. Atomic bombs dropped by American bombers—and that is the essence of a preventive war—would be met by Russian atomic attacks on Rome, Paris, London and then, if possible, on New York and Washington.

THERE are those in the Pentagon who have more practical reasons for doubting the thesis of preventive war. They see it as a reckless and irresponsible gamble that America's B-36 bombers can knock out Russia's vital centers in one or two or three mass attacks.

Vassily Stalin, son of the dictator and chief of all of Russia's air force, recently made the flat statement that no plane no matter how high or how fast it flew could ever get over a major Soviet target. The same statement was made in the newspaper, Pravda.

Most Air Force officers are inclined to dismiss this as mere boasting. But some responsible officials take it far more seriously. They point to the American tendency to underestimate Russian capacities, one result of which was to fail badly on the timing of Russia's achievement of an atomic explosion. They suggest the possibility that Soviet scientists, aided by captured German scientists and technicians, may have solved the problem of a ground-to-air guided missile capable of finding any target in the air and shooting it down.

Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup sought in a radio interview to counteract the Matthews suggestion. He emphasized that American policy was to do everything to "maintain our security and our highest values by peaceful means." But the division over the concept of a preventive war is only one phase of the split between the State Department and the Pentagon. So long as this split exists, there can be no coherent and affirmative policy of any kind.

Truman Asks Funds to Scatter Agencies

Parkway and the Rockville Pike (and the new Washington National Pike). All except the Rockville Pike are dual divided highspeed highways. The Shirley Highway is the only express way now in operation, however.

The agencies to be moved would be "top priority" ones from the standpoint of their attractiveness as military targets—probably State, Atomic Energy Commission and a few others, The Post was told. But no decision has yet been made, the White House said.

The net result, if the plans go through, would be to reduce total Government employment in the Washington area as now constituted by about 25,000—the number housed in the tempos to be removed.

removed. There now are nearly 215,000 Government workers in the area.

The plan grew out of what is known as the National Security Resources Board's "Plan for the Security of the Nation's Capital," first described in detail in a copyright story published July 28 in The Washington Post.

The thinking behind the plan was that the Government, or at least its most essential, units should be so scattered that they could not be knocked out by a single atom bomb. Hence it would be necessary to move the key agencies out of downtown Washington, not the unessential ones as was done in part during World War II.

Part of Lengthy Plan

The White House statement yesterday said the proposed program "would initiate a long-range plan to insure the continuity of essential functions of Government in event of emergency," a more polite way of saying we want to get ready for possible A-bomb attacks.

The basic NSRB plan called for building a series of satellite government towns within a 50-mile radius of the zero milestone (located in back of the White House). Probably none of the buildings would be closer than 12 miles. They would be of normal reinforced concrete construction, probably without bomb shelters.

Now Mr. Truman is proposing to "initiate" the plan of construction at four sites.

Because the idea is to make Washington as "unattractive" a target as possible by decentralization, the four new sites are expected to be in what is now farm area. They may be near existing towns, but not too close, officials said.

Larson Expected to Appear

Since the building program would be the job of the General Services Administration, GSA Boss Jess Larson is expected to go before the Senate Appropriations Committee, perhaps today, to ask for the $139,800,000.

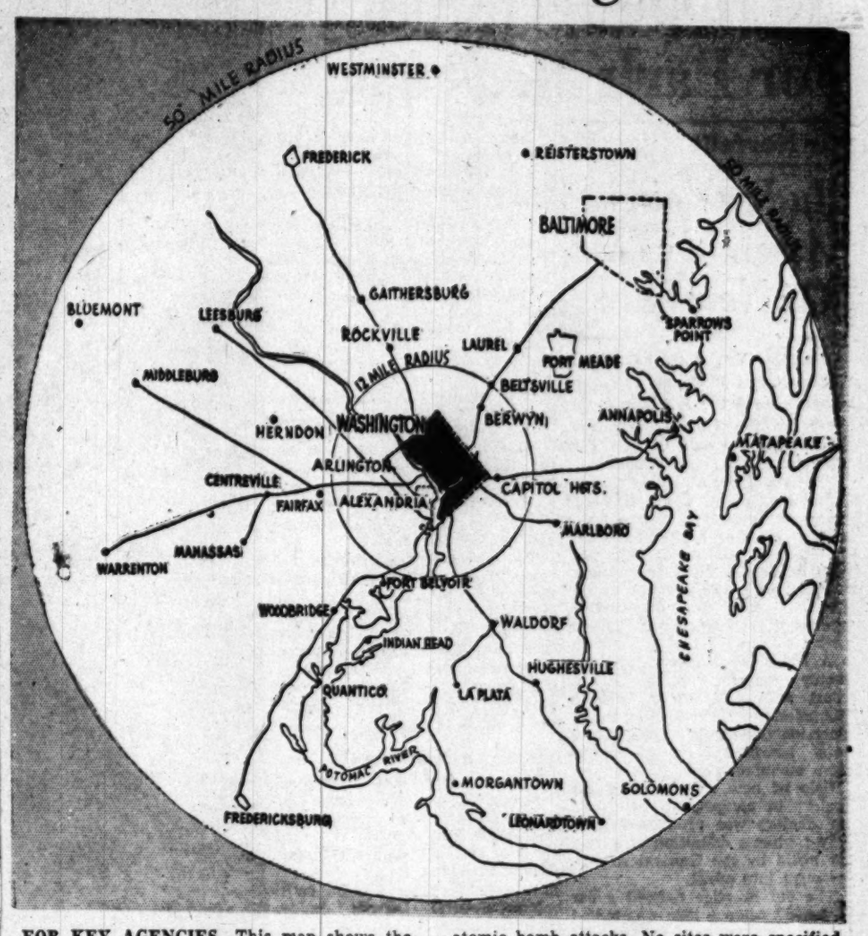
Of the money, 120 million dollars would be for buildings, 14 million dollars for roads and the remaining $5,800,000 for communications and other costs.

The money, if approved, would be contained in the supplemental appropriation bill now being considered by that committee. It already has passed the House.

One oddity in the situation is that the same bill carries only $30,000 to set up a civil defense program for the District. The House slashed the $290,000 asked by the Commissioners to the smaller amount. The Senators have yet to consider the matter.

The White House said that the construction program "stems from a joint study made by various Government agencies including the General Services Administration, the National Security Resources Board, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Bureau of the Budget."

For years the Planning Commission has urged establishment of new Federal agencies outside the District. The idea was to ease the traffic congestion downtown and



FOR KEY AGENCIES—This map shows the general area between 12 and 50 miles from the White House in which President Truman proposes to locate four new Government building sites. The partial decentralization would be a move to make Washington less attractive for atomic bomb attacks. No sites were specified but they probably will be near the Washington-Baltimore Parkway and the Rockville-Frederick road in Maryland, and off the Shirley Highway in Virginia

Plan is to keep workers in present tempos until new office space is found for them elsewhere. No shifts will be made until present emloyes can be accommodated. Officials are interested in using every available inch of permanent office space available to them in Washington in the decentralization program.

The history of the temporary buildings has been punctuated with blasts by the civic minded about their eye-sore quality.

But the housing shortage and the lack of adequate space for offices has remained critical.

Last year, PBA Commissioner W. E. Reynolds complained about the mounting cost of maintenance and operation of the tempos but predicted that the only way they could be removed from the Washington scene would be by either moving Government employes out of the Metropolitan Area or by new construction.

make better living generally as well as more pleasant working conditions.

The White House announcement took note of this urban planning thinking by saying that "agencies concerned with planning in the Capital have agreed that traffic congestion, and other considerations make it desirable that an new construction be outside, rather than in the center of, Washington."

The pattern of the new G-towns has already been set in part by the Government center already established at Suitland, Md.

The Post was told that the new sites would cover from 200 to 300 acres each and probably would contain only two buildings each. There would be nothing to prevent private housing and business establishments from locatng nearby, however.

By chance, Mr. Truman yesterday also asked Congress for $13,740,000 to provide office space for new Government workers. But these would be in the various States, not in the Washington area. Most of the money would go for rent and alterations.

Transit Firm Tries Out Experimental Buses

An experimental propane gas bus is now operating here but there are no immediate prospects any will be bought for regular use, Capital Transit Co. officials said yesterday.

Propane, a byproduct of gasoline, is a gas such as is used in some rural areas. In motor operations its maintenance costs are claimed to be less.

The bus has been on the Connecticut ave. line but is going over on the Benning line. Another experimental bus — an "improved Diesel"—will switch from Benning to Connecticut.

No Hope Seen Now For Park Measure

The Senate-approved bill to broaden the powers and scope of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission appears to be dead.

Chairman John L. McMillan (D., S. C.) of the Senate District Committee, himself a member of the planning body, told a reporter that "nobody is raving to have it reported out," and "I don't think they have to have it overnight."

The bill was passed by the Senate on September 27, 1949, but has yet to emerge from the House District Committee. A subcommittee reported the bill to the full committee without recommendation.

McMillan said the bill will be the pending business at the next District Committee meeting, scheduled for September 1. But the House now plans to quit this weekend until September 12.

The measure would change the commission's name to the National Capital Planning Commission, include all of Metropolitan Washington within its scope, add members from both Maryland and Virginia, to be nominated by the Governors, and give the commission limited authority over activities of Federal and District agencies.

Judge Voids Assembly Law On New Cars

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 30 (AP).—A Circuit Court judge has ruled unconstitutional the law passed this year by the General Assembly permitting the sale of new cars only by enfranchised dealers.

The act of the Assembly was described by Judge Clyde H. Jacob here as "special legislation for a special class of people who have franchises to sell new cars."

Judge Jacob issued the ruling as a result of a suit brought by the Centra Motor Co., of Norfolk, against C. F. Joyner, jr., Virginia Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

A. Diggs Hewitt, president of the motor company, took the case to court after the Motor Vehicles Commissioner refused him an application to sell all makes of new cars. Hewitt holds no franchises from manufacturers.

Sale of new cars by used car dealers in competition with new car dealers was prohibited after July 1 when a definition of a used car made by the General Assembly went into effect.

The old practice defined a car as "used" when a title was issued for it. The new definition describes a car as "new" until it has been titled for at least 30 days or has been driven at least 500 miles.

Attorneys for the Commissioner and for the Automotive Trade Association contended the statute was passed to prevent Virginians from having to pay more than the list price for new cars.

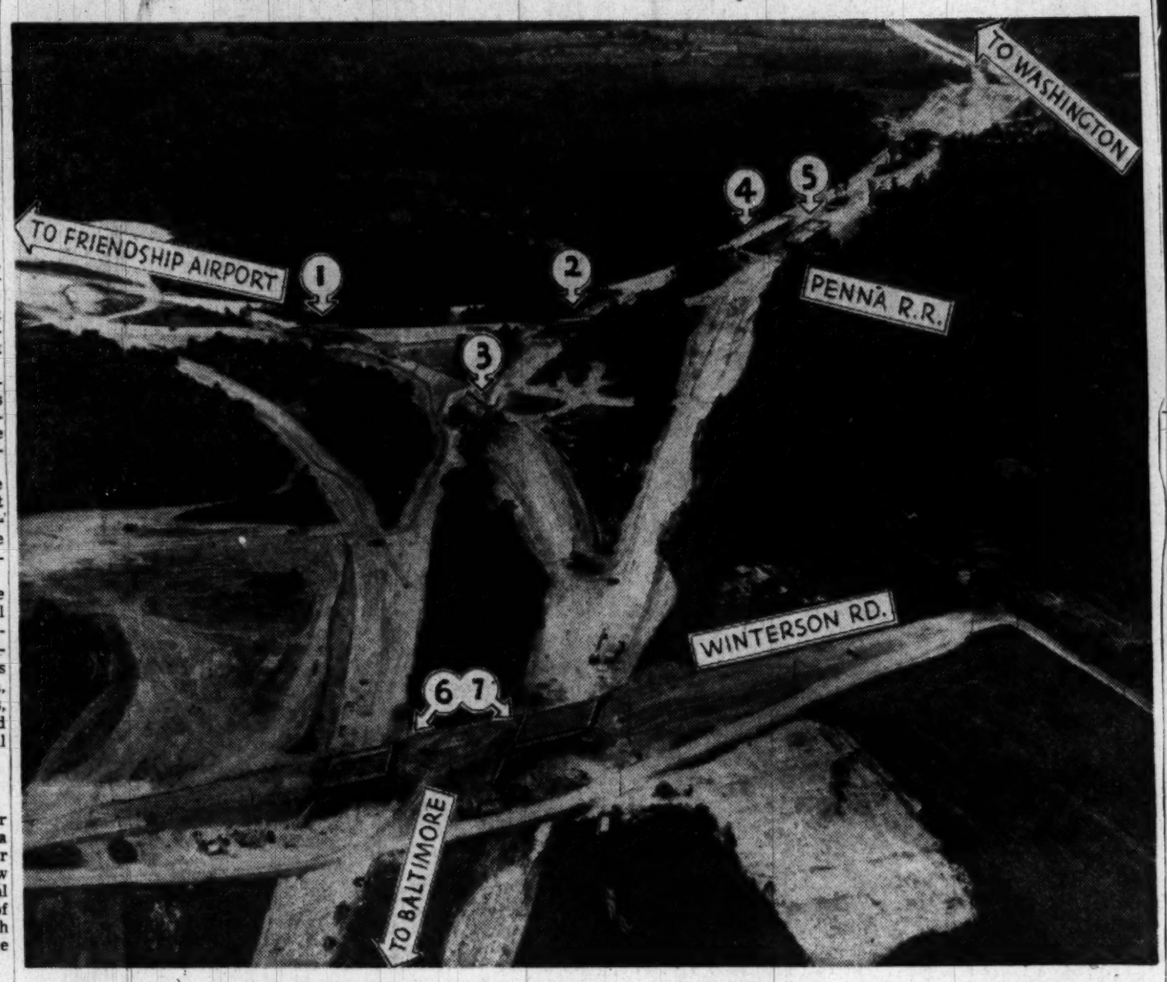
Mammoth 'Interchange' on New Highway



By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

OVERPASSES—The huge "interchange" which connects the new 20-million-dollar Washington-Baltimore express highway with a road to the new Friendship Airport near Baltimore, as seen looking south from the air. The project, costing $1,600,000, has seven overpasses and on August 1 was 62 percent completed. Overpasses Nos. 1, 2, and 3 are on the new two-mile road to the airport, 4 and 5 are over the Pennsylvania Railroad, and 6 and 7 are on Winterson rd. over the new expressway. Work on the project started in February, 1949

Three Arlington Youths Nominated For West Point

One Arlingtonian was nominated for West Point and two others as alternates yesterday by Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.).

Walter E. Campbell, 18, of 4818 25th st. N., was named an appointee along with Edward S. Perritt of Richmond.

Robert E. Joseph, jr., 17, of 200 N. Wayne ave., was named as first alternate with John O. Funkhouser of Waverly, and B. J. Tullington, jr., 17, of 2311 N. George Mason dr., was nominated a second alternate with three other Virginians.

Campbell, a graduate of Washington-Lee High School, is the son of Walter H. Campbell, planning specialist with the National Security Resources Board, and Mrs. Campbell.

Joseph, a graduate of St. Christopher's Episcopal School in Richmond, has studied one year at Virginia Military Institute. He is the son of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert E. Joseph, sr.

Tullington, also a Washington-Lee graduate, is the son of Col. and Mrs. Bernard J. Tullington, sr.

Justice Dept. Asks Wire Tapping Data

day's record the explanation Shimon earlier gave the committee in a closed hearing as to why the "mistake" in his statement to detective bureau officials came about.

"I made a mistake," Shimon had explained, "there is no question about it. Let me explain. I came in off my honeymoon (August, 1949) and I was called in to give a statement. Everything had been transferred. I was crowded. I was groping around to see where I was going. I did not even know the picture behind this thing. I put in that statement what I thought they ought to know. And I wanted to go along and find out where I was going from there."

As Pepper finished reading the previous testimony to the committee, Shimon commented "that's generally the idea, sure."

Van Arkel, taking up the quiz, asked Shimon "if the statement you made (in 1949) is true then the story about Mr. Lappin is sheer fabrication, is it not?"

Sticks to Guns

"It is not," retorted Shimon. "I explained that. I told you I made a mistake in the (1949) statement. The story about Lappin is not a fabrication."

As Van Arkel pressed for an answer, Hendrickson interrupted to say "Let's be fair. That's like asking 'Do you still beat your wife?' He's answered the question. He said the statement about Lappin is not a fabrication."

"Well," Van Arkel resumed, "I would like to assume with him for a moment the consequences of that (1949) statement if it is a true statement, I express my private conviction that that was a true statement that he made in 1949."

A moment later, however, Van Arkel withdrew the protested question only to run into a protest by Shimon's attorney, Robert E. Lynch, against a similar question.

Couldn't Say Yes or No

Lynch said Van Arkel's linking of two people and three hotels in one question did not give Shimon an opportunity to say yes or no.

Van Arkel turned then to the question of whether Shimon's memory was better in 1949 than now.

"I don't think so," Shimon declared. "I can't say. I don't think my recollection was any better then than it is now."

Shimon added that when he ran the tap at the Occidental into attorney Fulton's phone, he didn't even know who Hugh Fulton was. Van Arkel brought out that the taps at the Carlton and Mayflower were on the phones of Dietrich and Slack, also representing Hughes. Then asked Van Arkel:

"Do you think we might be justified in concluding that these taps were in fact concerned with the same investigation?"

Shimon replied "I don't think you would be justified if you check the dates and circumstances."

Questions 'Accident'

"You would have the committee believe," demanded van Arkel "that it was sheer accident that an investigation into a Cuban sugar swindle and into a shadow would both lead to attorneys for Mr. Hughes?"

"I don't know that," Shimon retorted. "There were half a dozen attorneys in the same office. Why would you just say it was Hugh Fulton?"

"Well," pursued van Arkel "do you think the coincidence is rather improbable that two separate investigations would lead you to attorneys for the same person?"

"Improbable," Shimon countered. "Yes."

"Don't you think it would be more logical to assume that they were part of the same investigation?" Van Arkel asked.

"That would be just how you wanted to look at it," said Shimon.

"Well, I'm asking you how we should look at it," Van Arkel replied.

"You have the facts, you heard the testimony," Shimon countered.

"Well, we've had two stories," said Van Arkel. "I'm trying to find out which is the true story."

"I told you the truth," said Shimon.

"Which time did you tell the truth?" van Arkel asked.

"I told the truth here, while testifying here," Shimon answered.

"Having before us two stories, which I think you'll agree are directly inconsistent . . ." Van Arkel began, and Shimon cut in to say "I won't agree to anything."

Finally van Arkel asked "Would you agree that the known facts accord more with your first statement (of 1949) that these wire tappings at the three hotels were part of the same investigation than they do with the story you have told the committee here?"

To that question, Attorney Lynch objected, saying "I submit that calls for a conclusion—after all this man (Shimon) is a police officer, he isn't a judge."

"Very well," drawled Senator Pepper, "I think it does call for a conclusion and it will be the duty of the committee to make the conclusions, and not the duty of the witness."

At another point, Senator Neely took up the quizzing to ask Shimon "can you explain why every tap you made regarding this mysterious character Lappin, whom you certainly have not given a very good reputation, should have been made in a room that was occupied by somebody connected with this Hughes investigation?

"That could be a coincidence," replied Shimon. "Those were the people he was visiting. Those were the people he was talking to. Naturally, I'd be interested in them."

Motive Challenged

"Isn't it a fact," continued Neely "and you're answering under oath, that the sole purpose of all your investigations was to get information about the Hughes investigation and not what this man Lappin was doing in regard to Senator Brewster?"

Shimon heard the question without moving a muscle, then shot back, "This is not a fact."

Lappin denied the day before having shadowed Brewster and said he would check records to try to prove Shimon's story about him was "made out of whole cloth."

Shimon previously testified that when he began trailing Lappin as the man Brewster pointed out to be shadowing the Senator, one of his first moves was to check Brewster's phones, and that he found the office was "clean" but there was a tap on the Senator's phone at the Mayflower. Shimon had told the committee he removed the tap.

Yesterday Shimon told the committee "there was an investigator working, the name I got was O'Connor or O'Connell; I believe he was working for Mr. Dietrich and was investigating the activities of Senator Brewster. But I think he was fired before we got too far into the case."

Pepper commented it was the first time Shimon had mentioned the name.

Shimon said it was a name that showed up on paper in notes, but that he could not disclose the source. He indicated it came from notes on Mayflower wire tapping. He said he never investigated him and never looked for him.

Officers Recalled

Officers James G. Bryant and George H. Robison, jr., were recalled to testify on key points in Shimon's testimony. Both had assisted Shimon in wire tapping. Both now are assigned to the detective bureau.

Bryant said that during the Mayflower tapping he was never shown a picture of Lappin or told to listen for Lappin, nor heard Lappin's name mentioned. He did recall, among the phone conversations to the Hughes' associates, an incoming call by a man who said "I followed him from the Capitol steps to the Red House on Pennsylvania avenue." He said he did not have "the slightest idea" who the call came from or where that "Red House" was. Both Bryant and Robison said that they never heard about "O'Connor" or "O'Connell" during the Mayflower tap.

Shimon also denied that Assistant United States Attorney John Fihelly had given him legal advice about the wire tapping probe last year.

Shimon said Fihelly as acting United States Attorney advised him that charges had been made. Shimon said he then retained Lynch as his attorney. Shimon also denied that he ever help United States Attorney George Morris Fay get a new car.

In another action, the committee adopted the recommendation of Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) that there be stricken from its official record a violently critical remark which Lappin in testimony the day before said the late Senator Josiah Bailey (D., N. C.) had made about Senator Brewster, Kefauver said it was uncorroborated testimony, and "to put it gently, a person may be misunderstood."

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, chief of Metropolitan Police, was first witness in yesterday's hearing. He repeated earlier testimony given in a closed hearing that neither he nor Inspector Walter Thomas, who was executive officer of the department in 1947 gave any order to Shimon to report to Brewster. Shimon said the order had to come from "across the street," meaning Police Headquarters, but did not recall details.

Barrett said he did not hear from Brewster until August 5 of this year when a story on the wire tapping was published by Drew Pearson.

Barrett said he then told the Senator he had not talked to him before or received from him a request for favors. Barrett said Shimon made no report to his superiors about making an investigation for Brewster in 1947.

Barrett also emphasized the police make no charge for their services in investigations; their only charge for services in the District is bills to places like Griffith's Stadium and Uline Arena for any special police details.

Senator Neely asked Barrett if there were any reason for Shimon to accept between $200 and $300 from Senator Brewster for services of shadowing Lappin. Shimon has testified he called the Senator's office to find out how Brewster wanted to handle the payment of Shimon's hotel expenses at the Carlton and Mayflower, and soon afterward was paid the money through the Senator's secretary.

To Neely's question, Barrett commented: "There's no such charge and I would rather answer the question that particular way."

Bay State Man Starts Work for Wire Tap Probers

Martin Fay of Dover, Mass., yesterday set to work as special investigator for the Senate District wire tap probe committee.

Fay

Fay, 37, was briefed for the assignment by Committee Counsel Gerhard van Arkel, who left later for a vacation in Europe, and Assistant Counsel William Gulledge, who has been assigned to aid in the probe.

Committee Chairman Claude Pepper (D., Fla.), said he hoped to have a committee meeting this week to go over the investigation with Fay. He said Fay would be put to work helping follow up various leads.

Pepper added that he expects to leave next week for a meeting of the Interparliamentary Union in Dublin.

One on the Aisle—

Barbaric Splendor And Modern Lingo

By Richard L. Coe

"THE BLACK ROSE" covers a pack of territory, and though it does so with eye-filling detail, the new arrival at the Palace has a heavy, listless quality.

The story finds Tyrone Power as an adventurer of medieval England who junkets to Cathay, which was what the period yclept China, and comes across a tough, barbarous general played by Orson Welles.

It's from a novel by Thomas Costain and it must have been quite a novel, juicy and purple prose style. Since I didn't read it, I can only assume that part of the reason for the listlessness lies in Talbot Jennings' rather flat script.

For the characters, splendiferously dressed and, again, I assume, accurately so, speak and behave in the manner of twentieth century America. In his effort to tie together a far-flung and loose story, Jennings employs flat, fundamental speech. This gives a pedestrian quality in contrast with the barbaric splendors we witness as a caravan crosses Africa toward China.

The beginning finds us with a Saxon family which still has trouble accepting the Norman conquest of 200 years before. King Edward tries to remind an old earl's grandson that for the good of all, post differences are best forgotten, but as a Saxon, Power has consuming hatred of the French conquerors. He takes the advice of his Oxford tutor, Friar Roger Bacon, and sets off for Cathay, which is presumed to have accumulated knowledge that is beyond European scholars. With him goes a boyhood friend, a skilled archer, played by Jack Hawkins.

Needless to add, all this cannot proceed without Love, Love, that is, in good old twentieth century American style. This is embodied in a new little dish, Cecile Aubry. Cecile, it appears, had an English father, but is imprisoned in Africa, from which she's being sent as a gift to Kubla Khan.

Little Cecile believes in a miracle she's thought up, an Englishman who's going to rescue her from this dire fate and take her back to England. Needless to say, he's supposed to be tall and handsome, a description which fits T. Power. He is reluctant, she anxious. Even though she's disguised as a wee blackamoor, she's visibly attractive. Soon she's mooning over Ty like a high school girl.

Though cities burn, bodies are strewn about and there's talk of barbaric cruelties, little is seen of such ghastly derring-do. The screen is spankingly spotless, and action, despite the traveling, is more heard of than seen.

An enormous company parades about in Technicolor glory and you'll find Jack Hawkins' archery impressive. Ty is called on to walk a rope barefooted while knives, sabers and scimitars await him on both sides.

All told, the costumes and settings are the strong points of "The Black Rose," and if such delight you, as may well be, you'll probably enjoy the make-believe.

"THE BROKEN ARROW," after two Palace weeks, moves over to the Colombia this morning. . . . This is a grand picture, well worth your while. . . It tackles an unusual problem—the relationship between the pioneers and the Indians and the efforts of a few far-sighted leaders to effect a peaceful life between the two peoples. . . . Jeff Chandler is fine as the Indian chief Cochise and James Stewart has a part that fits him well as the white man. . . . It's something different in the way of Western movies, a trick you may not have thought possible.

"THE BLACK ROSE," 20th Century-Fox release produced by Louis D. Lighton. Screen play by Talbot Jennings from the novel by Thomas Costain. Music by Richard Addinsell. Directed in England and North Africa by Henry Hathaway. Photographed in Technicolor by Jack Cardiff. At the Palace.

S. SYRJALA, whose settings for Olney the past three years have been one of the reasons for the great success under the Skinner-Freyman management, will be doing double duty now between Maryland and New York. . . . He's again to be scenic and lighting designer for the Robert Montgomery TV show, which goes back on the air September 11 . . . The real worry Olneyites have about their ace designer is that Syrje may find the golden streets of Gotham too gilded for our forest glens . . . Just off his drawing board fo Olney is "Post Road" and, for TV, "The Awful Truth."

KEITH'S is up to its usual tricks: "Louisa," that Spring Byington-Edmund Gwenn-Charles Coburn—Ruth Hussey comedy, will arrive next Wednesday, putting off Joan Fontaine's "Born to Be Bad" at least another week.

LAST NIGHT New Haven saw the opening of Celeste Holm's comedy about Washington, "Affairs of State." . . . With four New Haven performances and two Philadelphia weeks before the Gayety run, we should have the advantage of a smooth-running tryout.

THAT DIN in the Mayflower's East Room this afternoon will be coming from a Tea Party in honor of Camille Williams and Ann Zika, two Warner lassies whom you'll find in the musical opening today at the Warner, "Tea for Two."

"GOING NATIVE" opens today at the Capitol, with a full-scale plane on the stage of the big theater for the all-Washington area revue . . . Once again the name Gene Ford appears on the Capitol billing, for it was the late managing director who started this series now being continued by his successor, Joel Margolis.

Lightning Goes Underground, Kills 2 With Dynamite

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—A lightning bolt traveled 430 feet along an underground wire and exploded five charges of dynamite, killing two workers.

Harvey Reiner, 32, of Donaldson, Pa., and Harry Hartz, 35, of Tremont, were working in an independent mine when the freak accident occurred. The dynamite exploded in their faces.

Hartz was dead when removed from the mine. Reiner died today in Pottsville Hospital.

Iler to Lead U. S. Employes' Union

Henry C. Iler, temporary president of the American Federation of Government Employes (AFL), was elected to a full two-year term yesterday.

The 45-year-old former chairman of the United States Employees Compensation Appeals Board, defeated three other candidates in the election held during the union's twelfth national convention in Omaha.

Iler, who lives at 113 W. Woodbine st., Chevy Chase, Md., was named temporary president on August 2 after the death of President James G. Yaden.

In an acceptance speech, Iler said he will aim for in increase in AFGE membership from its current 50,000 to 500,000.

In the voting, Iler received 32,347 votes; Cecil E. Custer of Washington, 7174; Clare Hopper of Detroit, 3229, and John B. Murray of Boston, 1573.

Four Men Face 12 Charges

Baltimore, Aug. 30 (AP).—Four men, their ages ranging from 19 to 22, were held under $93,000 bail today on a dozen charges growing out of a two-day crime wave here on August 14-15.

Police charged them with car thefts, robberies, burglaries, assault, and carrying deadly weapons.

Three of the four were arrested in Jersey City, N. J., riding in a car police described as stolen at the start of the rampage. New Jersey police said they found four pistols in the car.

Fine Cast Makes 'Angel Street' Good as New

THANKS to an unusually efficient cast, Olney's "Angel Street" comes off well.

Judith Evelyn, who created the lead in this skilfully written melodrama, is starring in her old role, and others who've played countless performances of the play are back in their familiar roles—Ferdi Hoffman, Ernest Cossart and Elfrida Derwent. Betty Underwood, a lush blonde, completes the cast.

Patrick Hamilton's story of a villain who was driving his wife insane while he searched for the missings gems of a lady he murdered 15 years before, has become so familiar that Olney's production virtually amounts to a triumph. Three years on Broadway, more years on the road (the National saw Sylvia Sidney's company) and a screen version ("Gas light") with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer have made the situation as familiar as adogeared phone book.

But so mutely do Miss Evelyn and Hoffman begin their first act, so quietly do they veneer the horror in their hearts that one is quickly in the eerie atmosphere Hamilton created. Hoffman murmers like a cool cat, then pounces like an enraged tiger. Such a performance suits the melodrama neatly.

Miss Evelyn's well-known emotional whammy is the real pivot of the evening. It is easy to see why this careful, trembling performance of a woman almost out of her wits, made her a star virtually overnight. Though six years have gone by since she's played it, she's not forgotten the adept shifts of voice and movement which gave the play its long life.

Ernest Cossart is the cheerful Cockney inspector, a part he played for two years in Chicago; once more the inspector's business with his hat, in Act II, sets the audience buzzing as have few scenes in modern melodrama. The curiously airy, yet heavy, quality of Elfrida Derwent suits the housekeeper well.

With such players the opening night performance was able to stagger to a close after a mishap that would have been disastrous to lesser actors. Two policemen were required by the script to tie Villain Hoffman to a chair, after which Miss Evelyn was to launch on her final scene; the question was would, or would not, Miss Evelyn unleash her powerless husband with a razor?

Helas! The bellcord, supposed to tie Hoffman tightly to the chair, broke. We were confronted with a prisoner free as a bird yet who must continue to squirm in agony. No human could have managed such a scene and the audience was as human as Hoffman. It chortled over his predicament.

The performance staggered to a close, and while Miss Evelyn unleashed her final scene, Hoffman's discomfited expression was one his Olney audience will never forget.

You can be sure that accident won't be repeated, but even if it were, the skilled playing of Miss Evelyn and Hoffman in their first act must amount to a highlight of Olney's summer. R. L. C.

"ANGEL STREET." Richard Skinner and Evelyn Freyman present the melodrama in three acts by Patrick Hamilson. Directed by Irving Sudrow. Setting by S. Syrjala. At the Olney Country Theater, matinees Saturday and Sunday.

S. W. Africa Vote Threatens Party

Johannesburg, South Africa, Aug. 30 (AP).—Six members of Parliament were chosen today by the 26,000 voters of Southwest Africa in an election that could upset Prime Minister D. F. Malan's Nationalist South African government.

Settlers of Dutch, English and German descent trekked through almost waterless regions and lion-infested bush to cast ballots. Counting was to start after a special plane collects four votes in a 400-mile flight tonight to the isolated northern village of Runtu.

Medical Education Aid Program Rejected

The House Interstate Committee yesterday killed a bill to set up a five-year program for Federal aid to medical education.

Introduced by Representative Biemiller (D., Wis.), the bill called for Federal grants to promote education in the fields of medicine, dentistry, nursing and public health.

120,000 No. Korean Troops Pushing Yanks Back

Cavalry Division stormed up a strategic hill 4 miles northeast of Waegwan in the face of withering machine gun, mortar and small arms fire. But at nightfall Wednesday, the Americans had failed to reach the summit and withdrew reluctantly to try again at the next dawn.

The 1700-foot hill dominates the surrounding terrain and is deemed one of the best offensive positions in the sector. It was lost by the South Koreans two weeks ago.

The Americans advanced stubbornly behind an American artillery barrage. Five hours after jumping off they were 200 feet from the summit. It was a heartbreaking push through booby-trapped enemy foxholes and anti-personnel mines—only to have to give up the assault with the goal in view.

But the attack will be resumed and a First Cavalry spokesman was confident the hill will be taken.

Between the First Cavalry action and the Pohang-Kigye battlefront, some 40,000 Communist troops backed by powerful artillery support hammered away on the Uihung sector seeking a breakthrough hole. Any collapse there would open the floodgates to Taegu and perhaps Pusan.

Although the main threat to United Nations' holdings appeared to be in the east and northeast, furious fighting raged on Battle Mountain on the southeast front.

American Negro and South Korean troops shoved the Reds off this bloody summit as the hill which dominates the area near Haman, 10 miles west of the southern part of Masan, changed hands for the eighth time in two weeks.

MacArthur's summary said Red patrols probed the defense line elsewhere late Wednesday.

One enemy patrol managed to infiltrate the United States Twenty-fifth Division arc on the south and creep within 3 miles west of Masan only to be surrounded and dispersed by American troops.

Another enemy patrol ran into the same trouble in the United States Second Division sector north of the Twenty-fifth. The leader of the Red patrol which tried to penetrate American positions was killed.

While the battle see-sawed, Allied air observers reported a menacing concentration of Red troops and vehicles northwest and west of Kigye.

The Reds have not yet unleashed an expected major power drive on the eastern sector. If they can break through south of Kigye the smooth terrain could permit Communists to roll west toward Taegu and possibly south down an inland road to Pusan.

Two North Korean divisions are hammering away at tired, sometimes dispirited South Korean defenses. Another three fresh Red divisions are expected to be hurled into Communist lines—just where wasn't clear. This would bring Red strength to about 150,000 troops in action.

veterans now exempt is tapped, it probably will yield a maximum of 400,000 men.

The draft quota through October is 100,000 men. It was learned that at least 50,000 more men will be called in November and another 50,000 in December.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R., Mass.) stated on the Senate floor Tuesday that our present mobilization program calls for 2,120,000 men in the armed services by next June 30. He urged that the program be speeded up so that three million men will be under arms by that date.

As a result, Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, wrote Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, and asked what changes would be needed in the preesnt draft law to reach the three-million figure by June 30.

Regulation Change Needed

Hershey replied yesterday that it will be necessary to change the regulations to permit drafting of married men and to amend the draft law to allow drafting of World War II veterans.

Although the regulation against the drafting of married men can be removed at any time by the President, as the law now reads, veterans of World War II cannot be called unless Congress declares a national emergency.

Selective Service officials estimate there are 2,500,000 World War II veterans below the age of 26.

In the House yesterday, the vote on the hurry-up doctor draft bill was 362 to 1, with Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.), the only dissenter. Representative E. H. Hedrick (D., W. Va.) voted "present."

The House measure permits a draft of doctors through the age of 50; of dentists, through 45. The Senate bill differs on this point by drafting doctors through the age of 55. They would serve 21 months.

Department of Defense officials believe that none of the doctors, dentists, or "allied specialists" covered by the medical draft legislation, will actually have to be drafted. They feel that with the threat of the draft, doctors liable to be called will volunteer instead for reserve or active service. The House bill cancels out for drafted doctors the $100 extra a month in pay given to medical men who volunteer for the armed forces.

Russia Spreading 'Flagrant Lies,' Truman Charges

By the United Press

President Truman yesterday accused Russia of spreading "flagrant lies" about the United States in its effort to destroy chances for a just and lasting peace.

He made the statement in a letter to Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), urging Congress to restore the full 89 million dollars he requested for the Voice of America. The House cut the figure to $65,655,850.

Hot Battle Brewing Over Reds in Radio

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—A political battle with Communist overtones was brewing today in the radio and television industry.

The first skirmish last week-end resulted in the ousting of actress Jean Muir from her television role in "The Aldrich Family" after she was attacked on the ground that she had been linked with Communist-front groups. Miss Muir denied any Red connections and called communism a "vicious force."

Yesterday the major protesting group, The Joint Committee Against Communism in New York, said it would "try to cleanse the radio field of pro-Communist actors, writers, producers and commentators."

This was countered by the American Civil Liberties Union, which said it would probe the "whole business of possible blacklisting in the radio industry."

The ACLU also wrote a letter to "The Aldrich Family" show's sponsor, General Foods Corp., challenging its dropping Miss Muir. The company did not pass on the charges against Miss Muir, but said she was dropped because it feared a bad effect on its advertising if a "controversial figure" remained in the show.

The ACLU said in its letter it was "dismayed that one of the giants of American industry has let itself be overcome by a few individuals bent on suppressing a person of whom they disapprove."

Miss Muir said she did not want any committee formed "to make a cause out of me," as she was afraid Communists might infiltrate it.

"I don't want the Communists to use me," she said. "I want to stay clean. The best way for me to refute these charges is for me to get a job in television, radio, or in some acting capacity. There must be someone with enough courage to hire me."

The major ground for the protest against her was the inclusion of her name in "Red Channels," a book purporting to list pro-Communist ties of radio figures.

Lodger Held As Slayer of Family of 5

East Greenwich, R. I., Aug. 30 (AP).—Police said that a young lodger told today how he killed once, waited and smoked and then killed again, again and again until he had destroyed a family of five. Then he burned the house.

Reynolds

Among the dead was the young wife of the family who, the lodger said, had taken him as her lover and was going to have his child in a few weeks. "She didn't fight much," the lodger was quoted as saying.

The lodger is rangy, blond Edwin H. Reynolds, 27, who faced an arraignment on charges of murder and arson late today. Reynolds himself is the father of three children, but estranged from his own family.

The victims: Fred J. Dusza, 39; his wife, Beatrice, 31; their three children, Beatrice, 11; Kathryn, 8; Gail, 3.

Police Chief Charles R. Johnson quoted Reynolds as saying he beat Dusza to death in a wild fight after an argument Monday night when Reynolds said Mrs. Dusza was going to have his baby.

The Duszas were found Tuesday morning in the ruins of their burned house. Reynolds was actually listed by police as the sixth victim of what appeared to be a fire tragedy.

But only five bodies were found and doctors said four of the victims had been strangled. Since the one male body could not be positively identified a police alarm went out for either Dusza or Reynolds.

Late last night police surprised Reynolds alone in the quonset-hut home of his estranged wife. Police said the Reynoldes separated last Christmas day after being married eight years.

Johnson said Reynolds was "cool and not nervous" as he detailed for him the slow-paced slaughter in the seven-room house, in a lonely farming section on the edge of town.

Life imprisonment is the maximum penalty for murder in Rhode Island.

Quirino Asks People's Help

Manila, Aug. 30 (AP).—President Quirino tonight asked the Filipino people to form local "Battalions of Peace" to aid the army in an all-out fight against Communist-led Hukbalahaps.

The Huks, sweeping out of mountain retreats last weekend, killed, burned and pillaged. They left 85 dead.

Quirino, in a nationwide radio broadcast, described the raids as massacres.

Investigation has revealed "horribly true tales of murder, raping and burning," he said, adding:

Nurses at Camp Macabulos were "raped, then murdered."

Patients too ill to move were butchered in their beds. Doctors were ruthlessly slain as they struggled to save their sick."

Earlier, the president told a news conference "it has become crystal clear" that the Huks no longer are farmers seeking agrarian reform. Their raids are part of a world Red aggression against democracies, he asserted.

Court Backs Pre-Divorce Conferences

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 30 (AP).—Compulsory court conciliation to prevent divorce was recommended today by a New Jersey Supreme Court committee. The 26-page report calls for a new approach by State courts to prevent "unhealable breaches" in homes, especially in those with children. It suggested that a conciliation service be set up in county juvenile and domestic relations courts.

The committee, headed by Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt, further recommended that husband and wife be compelled to attend private informal conciliation conferences called by the judge.

Under the proposed program, a judge would hold a conciliation conference privately without keeping a formal record of the proceedings or rendering any judgment.

Hurricane Floods Hit Mobile

90-mile gusts were blowing in Pensacola itself and tides surged eight to 10 feet above normal.

Sweep Across Causeway

The tides swept across the causeway and bridges, carrying U. S. Highway 90 east of Mobile. A New Orleans Item reporter said that three feet of water surged over the seawall to inundate Highway 90 between Mobile and Biloxi, Miss., to the west.

Mobile's only remaining outlets appeared to be two highways leading north and northwest. Air service to the city was canceled and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad suspended its Mobile-New Orleans runs.

Some 3000 refugees, removed by the Red Cross, swarmed into here and in Baldwin County across Mobile Bay from such exposed places as Blakely Island, in the Mobile River; Gulf Shores and the fishing villages of Bayou La Batre and Coden.

Board Up Store Fronts

Hundreds of carpenters, working under the eerie glare of floodlights as rain squalls pelted them, boarded up Mobile store fronts feverishly hoping to finish before the hurricane struck.

Except for the boarding crews, Mobile streets were deserted. The city was warned to expect its worst blow in 34 years from a hurricane that had brushed the mouth of the Mississippi below New Orleans and veered sharply to the northeast.

The byproduct tornado at Apalachicola toppled a tree on one person and another was injured by an ice box sent flying by the twister.

Meanwhile, a ship found a brand-new tropical storm 240 miles east of Antigua in the British West Indies with winds up to 55 miles an hour. It would be the fourth storm of the season. The third was still raging far out in the Atlantic, while the one aimed at Mobile was the second.

Seen as Worst Since 1916

"Prepare for the worst hurricane since 1916," Chief Forecaster William Tillihon of the Mobile Bureau told this tense, lashed-down city as the storm center approached within 100 miles. In 1916, the hurricane brought the waters of Mobile Bay cascading through the downtown sections. Twenty lives were lost in Mobile and Baldwin County in that blow.

Mobile, which doubled its population to more than 125,000 in the last census, already was cut off on the east as bay waters swept across the bridges and causeway carrying highway 90. The port lies at the head of a wide, 30-mile-long bay.

Navy Bomber Sets New World Mark In Endurance

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 30 (U.P.).—The giant Consolidated Vultee XP5Y-1 naval patol bomber has set a new world's rerord flight endurance record for turboprop aircraft, it was announced tonight.

The 60-ton flying boat remained in the air eight hours and six minutes during a recent flight over Southern California waters, Convair President Lamotte T. Cohu reported. The same plane held the previous record of two hours and 20 minutes.

The XP5Y-1 is a high-speed seaplane, powered by four XT-40 Allison gas turbine engines generating a total of 22,000 horsepower.

AMA Official Hits Personnel Of Health Resorts

Boston, Aug. 30 (U.P.).—Too many health resorts in the United States "are operated by individuals without adequate medical training, such as chiropractors, osteopaths, nurses, natureopaths and other laymen," an American Medical Association official said today.

Howard A. Carter told the twenty-eighth annual American Congress of Physical Medicine that only 6 out of more than 200 health resorts have met standards set up by the AMA's council on physical medicine and rehabilitation.

Yanks Rip Indians Twice, 4-3, 3-0, Grab Lead; Tumbling Tigers Rally, Split With Nats, 2-3, 10-8

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Tagging Some of the Bases:

IF YOU LIKE your pennant races scrambled, like your eggs, it is now possible to dote on what the American League is serving up. It's a beaut, on a throat-cutting level, with the Red Sox moving up from the ruck to make it a four-team brawl.

Povich

Of the Red Sox, it may already be said that if they aren't the best team, they're the most amazing outfit in the league. For the proper Bostonians, it may be heresy to suggest that the Sox are doing better without Ted Williams than with him, but an improper Washingtonian can point that out.

In fact, any observer in a nasty mood could suggest that if the Red Sox guard against Williams' return, they might wind up with the pennant. Since he came out of the All-Star game with a fractured elbow seven weeks ago, the Sox in his absence have been the hottest team in the league, with 35 wins against only 14 defeats. And they've won 15 of their last 16.

It's something of a familiar Red Sox story, though. A couple of years ago, when Williams was out of the lineup, they took off on their longest winning streak, made the same kind of a late-season rush and missed out. Last year they came down to the wire on top, two days before the season ended, and flopped.

ANY TEMPTATION to pick the Red Sox to take it all must be deferred, though, for a couple of weeks. That's when they'll be in the midst of their last Western trip. Traditionally, they flop miserably on the road, and have to prove that this year's club is a cut above the others that floundered when they got away from friendly Fenway Park.

One thing, however, the Red Sox already may have done, and that is to break the back of the Cleveland Indians. They spotted the Indians leads of 7-0 and 12-1 during the past week and then cut loose to win both games. There is no gainsaying that Red Sox power, even without Williams. It's significant that a jittery Cleveland club then went into New York and blew two straight to the Yankees.

Boston handed out to Cleveland the same treatment it got from the Yanks in the season's opener. The Yanks, you remember, blasted home 15 runs to wipe out a 9-0 lead of the Red Sox. Psychologically, the Boston club was a long time recovering from that blow. What the Red Sox did to Cleveland may have left its mark on the Indians.

THE INDIANS, when they were apparently poised to go to the top, have bogged down pitifully, both in pitching and defense. Their kid shortstop, Ray Boone, sagged under the pressure and tossed away three of the last five games. On consecutive days, Feller, Wynn, Lemon and Garcia were licked. Yet the Tigers went into the same kind of skid, and the Indians are still very much in the running.

It's the Yankees who now are looking like the most solid team in the league, with their ability to win the critical games. Charley Keller, the old Yankee now with the Tigers, put it significantly the other day when he said, "You never know when you have the Yankees licked." They wheeled in their old pro, Tommy Henrich, as a pinch-hitter lately, and he broke up two games for the Yankees in their last three.

The Yankees always recommend themselves in any late-season scramble, perhaps because there is no substitute for chips-down performers. The Yankees have 'em in such as Henrich, Joe DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Yogi Berra, and even little Gerry Coleman. And for most of the season, Outfielder Hank Bauer has been acting like what the Yankees are pleased to call, with their special kind of pride, a real Yankee.

RED ROLFE faces his biggest test of the year in his attempt to reorganize his Tigers into a winning club again. They blew six of their first nine games in the East and are now paying heavily for their thin bench of reserves, which was always the chink in the Detroit club's armor. The club was badly hurt when Johnny Lipon was out for a couple of weeks, and now they are operating without two thirds of their good outfield in playing condition.

Hoot Evers is tethered to the bench with a lame wrist, and Vic Wertz is in the lineup under a handicap. Wertz's malady is a strange one. He has fouled so many balls off against his own right foot that it's a mass of bruises, and he is playing with a specially-improvised shin guard on his leg. When he reaches first base he has to call time to shed the thing, for running purposes.

Aaron Robinson who was supposed to give the Tigers that long ball, isn't helping them with his hitting slump. He hit his seventh homer in June, and his eighth exactly two months later. Rolfe now has a new problem. His good kid pitcher, Art Houtteman, has been called up for his selective service physical. He's single, and draft-bait. Two months ago, Houtteman announced that he would take as his bride, Shelagh Marie Kelly, beauteous swimming star. Rolfe is now muttering about long engagements, and wishing Houtteman and Shelagh had eloped.

HIT BY A FORD—Luke Easter, Cleveland's big first baseman, sails through the air after colliding with Yankee Pitcher Ed Ford (behind 43) at first base in the seventh inning of the first game of yesterday's doubleheader in New York. Ford was covering first on Jerry Coleman's throw to the base on Easter's roller. Easter was safe, Ford dropping the ball. Ford left the game with a bruised hip. The Yanks won, 4-3, also took the second game, 3-0.

New York Game Ahead In Teeming Pennant Race

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Detroit's fading Tigers, dumped out of their long-held league lead by two Yankee victories in New York earlier in the day, showed some snarl late last night to salvage an even, break in a double-header with the Nats at Griffith Stadium.

Whipped 3 to 2, by Sandy Consuegra in an eleven-inning twilight affair, the desperate Tigers clawed out three runs in the ninth inning to win the night game, 10 to 8.

Gerry Priddy emerged as their last-ditch hero, with a single off Jim Pearce that pulled the Tigers out of an 8-7 deficit in that ninth at a time when they were faced with double disaster. Don Kolloway singled home another run.

Consuegra's triumph over Freddie Hutchinson in the twilght game was a smoothly pitched affair in which the 18,390 fans saw the thin-shanked Cuban shut the Tigers out in the last seven innings. But that second game was a hum-dinger.

Bucky Harris Banished

The Nats were operating without Manager Bucky Harris after the second inning. He was banished when Umpire Art Passarella suddenly turned from a quarrel with the Tigers to give Harrs the heave for certain remarks overheard from the Nats' bench.

The Tigers' ninth-inning uprising against rookie Pearce deprived Sid Hudson of the role of second-game hero, after his novel appearance as a pinch-hitter.

Getting that assignment for the second time in his major league career ("the other time was in 1942, and I popped up"), Hudson singled home two runs that wiped out a 7-6 lead of the Tigers in the seventh.

Acting Manager Clyde Milan threw every reserve available into the second game, including seven pitchers in one capacity or another. Gene Bearden also appeared as a pinch hitter in the Nats' ninth when a walk to Michaels and Evans' single put the tying runs on base with one out. Bearden obliged the Tigers by hitting into a double play.

Pearce was the Nats' fifth pitcher, winning Pitcher Ray Hebert of the Tigers was their fourth. The Nats gave Bob Kuzava a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but he was battered out in a three-run Tiger second.

Borowy Chased

Hank Borowy didn't last out the Nats' fourth. It was against Marlin Stuart that they all but wiped out a 7-3 Tiger lead in the seventh. Kolloway's fumble of a low throw opened the floodgates, and Irv Noren got the Nats three runs with a bases-full triple over Goth's head.

Michael's single and Dente's double set the stage for the Nats to move into the lead in the seventh. Ostrowski got an intentional pass, and then it was that Hudson moved in as a pinch hitter, clouted Hal White's second pitch for a solid single to left to give Pearce the 7-6 lead he couldn't hold.

With Hutchinson their pitching choice, the Tigers were sending to the mound in the first game a man with four previous decisions over the Nats this season. Manager Red Rolfe also gave his batting order an almost complete reshuffle.

Against Consuegra, it was all unavailing. The spindly Cuban gave up 10 hits but he was a complete pest to the Tigers except in their one scoring inning, the fourth.

Mickey Vernon collected the first Washington hit off Hutchinson, in the second inning, and it was a well-lofted home run swat over the right field wall that installed the Nats in a 1-0 lead.

The Tigers made gestures as if to whack Consuegra out of the ball game in that big fourth inning, but it was limited to two runs, and ended on the sour note of Tiger base running barging into a double play.

Mullin commenced that fourth with a single to right, and with one out, Groth singled to center. Lipon lashed a two-bagger to left scoring Mullin, and Priddy jolted Consuegra with a single to left that scored Lipon.

But the uprising collapsed rapidly. Lipon trying to score from second on Priddy's swat was cut-down at the plate on Noren's throw to Grasso. Priddy trying to take second, was a double-play victim when Grasso refired the ball to Michaels.

Irv Noren set in motion the run that tied it at 2-2 when he opened the Nats' fourth with a two-bagger to right. He moved to third on Vernon's infield out, and scored in a romp on Mele's deep fly to Groth.

Then the game settled down to a classic duel between Hutchinson and Consuegra. From the fourth to the tenth inning, the Nats were held to one hit, Noren's single, but the Tigers were threatening Consuegra in the fifth, sixth and seventh without breaking through his service.

Dente Stops Rally

Consuegra himself made a bid to end it in the Nats' tenth when he doubled to right center with two out. A walk to Yost and a pitched ball that hit Coan filled the bases, but Hutchinson rewarded Rolfe's tolerance by getting rid of Noren on a pop-up.

In the Tigers' tenth, the game appeared to be slipping away from Consuegra who walked Pinch-hitter Charley Keller, first up. Hutchinson sacrificed, and Kolloway's ground smash got away from Yost

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—The surging New York Yankees gained possession of first place in the teeming American League pennant race today by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, and 3-0.

Tommy Henrich's pinch-hit single in the eighth inning drove in the winning run in the first game. Ed Lopat blanked the Tribe on six hits in the second.

The triumphs moved the Yanks a game ahead of the Detroit Tigers.

Lopat's victory was his fifteenth of the season and his fifth straight without a loss over Cleveland this season to boost his lifetime record over the Indians to 27 victories against only one defeat.

Veteran Johnny Mize supplied Lopat with all the runs he needed. Mize followed a single by Joe DiMaggio in the second inning with his fifteenth home run of the season and his second of the day. The Yanks added their final run against Mike Garcia in the fifth on singles by Phil Rizzuto and Yogi Berra and an error by Allie Clark.

Bosox Beat Chisox, 6-1; Take Third

Boston, Aug. 30 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox today whipped the Chicago White Sox, 6-1, to slip ahead of Cleveland into third place in the feverish American League pennant fight.

The home forces scored four unearned runs in the third inning, when the Chicagoans made three errors and continued on to their fifteenth victory in their 16 games of this current home stand.

The victory, gained before 9898 paid fans, was the fourteenth of the campaign for Curly Joe Dobson who lost his shutout in the eighth when Floyd Baker and Eddie Robinson both hit ground doubles.

The usually light hitting Baker, hit safely on all four times at bat as he made half his clubs safeties, the same number the Bostonians were able to rap off the pitching of Ken Holcombe and Howie Judson.

Indians Lead Yanks, 4 to 2—in Injuries

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—The New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians are literally knocking themselves out in their vital series.

Four Indians and two Yankees have been injured so far. Three members of the Indians, Infielders Ray Boone, Roberto Avila and Outfielder Larry Doby were injured yesterday in the series' opener. Boone suffered a bruised back and Doby and Avila pulled muscles in their right thighs.

Yankee Outfielder Gene Woodling was hit on the leg by a thrown ball in fielding practice today and was so severely bruised that he did not play. Yankee starting pitcher Ed Ford bowed out after the seventh inning of the first game following a collision with Cleveland's Luke Easter. Ford bruised his hip.

Easter left in the fourth inning of the second game. He pulled up lame after hitting a single.

80-Yard Drive In Last Period Defeats Lions

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 30.—The unbeaten Washington Redskins made it four in a row tonight, shading the Detroit Lions, 28-24, in an exhibition thriller before 50,500 Cotton Bowl fans.

With their clean record in jeopardy only 4 minutes before the end, the Redskins went 80 yards for a touchdown to hand the winless Lions their third straight setback.

The Redskins came from behind three times. They trailed by 14-0, 21-14 and 24-21.

Quarterback Sammy Baugh, one of a host of Texans playing before a partisan Texas crowd, directed the last touchdown drive. The payoff score was made by another Texan, Fullback Bob Goode of Texas A. & M. Goode cracked over left guard from 1 yard out on fourth down after the Lions had held the Redskins to 2 yards in three tries.

Gilmer Loses two T. D.s

Harry Gilmer threw two touchdown passes for the Redskins and Bill Dudley, another non-Texan who had a good night, scored once and kicked all four extra points. Gilmer's payoff passes went to Ends Hugh Taylor and Clyde Godnight, both in the second quarter, to tie the score after Quarterback Bobby Layne and Halfback Doak Walker, Texans, Euh, had directed the Lions to a 14-0 lead.

Layne, Texas University graduate, tossed three touchdown passes for the Lions, but was injured early in the third quarter and could not return to the game.

Walker, Brilliant three-time All-America from Southern Methodist University, played the entire time on offense for the Lions and gave his home-town rooters a tremendous show.

He had a hand in all three touchdowns, kicked a 15-yard field goal and added three extra points.

Dale Makes Saving Tackle

Redskin Rookie End Roland Dale, a Mississippi University product, put the crusher on the Lions' last scoring attempt by tackling Quarterback Gil Johnson for a 14-yard loss on fourth down to give the Redskins' the ball with only 57 seconds to play. The Lions, with Johnson having completed a 19-yard pass to Walker on the previous play, appeared headed for another touchdown when Dale came through with his saving tackle.

Phils' 3-Run 9th Downs Cards, 9-8

St. Louis, Aug. 30 (AP).—A pinch double by Dick Whitman and a long fly by Jimmy Bloodworth brought in three runs in the ninth inning to give the Phillies a 9-to-8 triumph over the Cardinals tonight. Whitman's double came with the sacks full.

49ers Pound Colts, 27-14, Before 6000

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Aug. 30.—It wasn't a fit night for football—and the Baltimore Colts certainly exhibited little of it after the first quarter in losing to the San Francisco Forty-Niners, 27-14, in Memorial Stadium.

A sparse crowd, estimated at 6000, braved the steaming, humid evening. For their pains, they saw the Colts lose their fourth straight National League exhibition and were doused by a heavy shower.

Baltimore played all its football at the outset, then wilted. The Colts handed the visitors their first score when George Buksar fumbled a handoff and Tackle Hay Collins recovered for the Forty-niners on the Baltimore 10.

That was on the first play from scrimmage. Two plays later, Emil Sitko plunged over from the four.

Y. A. Little, outshone by Adrian Burk against the Chicago Bears was the passing star to-

Jockey Shaw's 'Boner' With Saga Costs Him Timonium Race

Bill Bennings . . .

At Timonium.

DEAR FOLKS.

Horsemen have just about conceded the minor track title to Miss Prime. The mare is so good her rivals duck the entries; hence she has had only one race in recent weeks. Calumet Farm will make another invasion of Maryland. Pimlico's Jack Needles had a phone call from Jimmy Jones, Wright trainer, who said he was shipping in ten horses for fall campaigning. Owner-trainer Alan T. Clarke, former big league pitcher is ill and confined to his Huntington farm. Attempts to bring Bruce Livie's Bobanet back to action have failed. Peg Hanna, Livie's Farm manager, has been training the one-time stake great here. But the horse, who once whipped Armed at Hayre de Grace, went amiss. A tendon in his right foreleg began to fill. See you on the rail.

Leader Pulls Up With Half Mile to Go

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Timonium, Md., Aug. 30.—Jockey Colin Shaw pulled an "Eddie Arcaro" here today, displeasing a goodly portion of the opening day crowd of 4500 that bet more than $200,000.

Shaw pulled his costly boner in the mile and a sixteenth seventh race. He had a comfortable three-length lead with Saga, 7 to 1 shot, with a half mile to go. Apparently believing the race over, he began pulling up his mount as he got to the finish line.

Before he discovered his mistake, two horses thundered past him and Saga finished third. Saga backers almost booed Shaw off the track.

Taking advantage of the jockey's lapse, Andy Russo won with the favorite, Lloyds, $4.80 shot, and Jimmy Baird was second with Hamlet.

The great Arcaro made the same mistake in the 2½-mile Bowie Handicap at Pimlico last fall. The rider has hopes—Arcaro was not suspended.

Yes She Will was a fairly popular winner in the Forest Lore, opening feature, paying $7.60. Jockey Ray Arduini of Washington got her up at the finish to beat out Gay Beauty and Grab Bag.

Vern Bickford Wins No. 17

Cincinnati, Aug. 30 (AP).—Vern Bickford easily won his seventeenth game of the season today, 9 to 4, as the Boston Braves pounded Cincinnati pitchers for 15 hits, including three homers.

Sam Jethroe, Luis Olmo and Sid Gordon got the circuit blows. Two of them were off Ken Raffensberger, the losing pitcher. Raffy now has served 31 home run balls this year.

MEN OVER 25 WITH THINNING HAIR.. give it this special care in summer
GROOM IT WITH KREML

TO AVOID A HOT, GREASY, SHINY-LOOKING SCALP-
TO MAKE HAIR LOOK MORE ABUNDANT!

If your hair is thinning or receding at temples—don't keep gluing it down with greasy, sticky products which emphasize your sparse locks more—which leave an uncomfortably hot, dust-catching, shiny-looking film on the scalp. Now definitely is the time of year—the time in your life—to graduate to the famous Kreml Hair Tonic!

Even on hottest summer days, Kreml keeps hair looking healthy and handsome—never greasy or plastered down. And Kreml alone has this special combination of rare ingredients to groom hair so that it looks thicker—like more than you've got. Kreml always feels SO CLEAN—SO COOL on your scalp. Also great to remove dandruff flakes and lubricate dry, sun-baked hair.

Brewers, Police Win in City Series

The Heurich Brewers and the Police Department won their first round games in the city sandlot series yesterday on the Ellipse. Heurich defeated the Fire Department, 12-4, and the Police won from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 9-4.

The Brewers, Washington Post-Industrial League champions, were aided by seven Firemen errors. Jack Castro and Jerry Zanellotti paced the victors, Castro with a three-run homer and Zanellotti with four hits in five trips.

The Police, Anacostia No. 1 champs, were led to their win by Pitcher Joe Bodecker, who entered the game in the second inning when the winners held a 5-4 lead.

night, even surpassing San Francisco's Frankie Albert.

It was Tittle who set up the first score on a short pass that George Buksar carried on a 52-yard gain to the 49ers' 21. Burk went in for Tittle and threw a 10-yard strike to End Jim Owens.

Tittle struck again in the first period on a 68-yard scoring pass. Stobo took it at midfield and no one had a chance to catch the fleet former Bradley U. halfback who went 100 and 98 yards on kickoff returns in previous games.

The Colts made the mistake of punting to Sam Cathcart, and the Californians were only a point behind at half. Cathcart took the punt on his 18, bulled his way past the first Colt tacklers and went 82 yards for a score. Soltau missed the point-try, but the 49ers remedied that in the second half.

Actually, the Colts gave the 49ers their clinching touchdown. Verl Lilywhite booted out on the 1-foot line late in the third period.

The Colts got out to the 4 and, on fourth down Albie Collins tried to punt out. Center Joel Williams rolled the pass back on the ground and Collins never had a chance to get it off. Three linemen converged on him and Guard Ray Evans fell on the ball in the end zone.

San Francisco iced it in the fourth period when Eddie Carr grabbed an Adrian Burk pass on his 40 and zig-zagged across the field twice in going 60 yards.

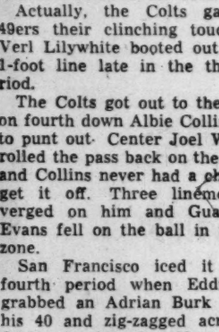
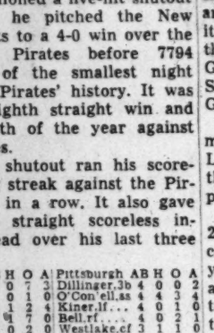
In Interrupted Match

Althea Gibson's Game Wilts, Brough Wins, 6-1, 3-6, 9-7

FOREST HILLS, Aug. 30 (AP).—Althea Gibson's bid for tennis fame flickered out in a hurry today when the tall Negro girl lost three straight games in her rain-interrupted match with Louise Brough and bowed by scores of 6—1, 3—6, 9—7 from the National championships.



Louise Brough



Althea Gibson

When a cloudburst struck the courts late yesterday, the girl from Harlem was leading 7—6 in the final set and appeared to be on her way to an upset victory over her veteran opponent from Beverly Hills, Calif. But somewhere in the watches of the night Althea had lost the "big" game with which she bludgeoned Louise yesterday, and she never had a chance.

Althea was full of errors, committing seven outs, four nets and a brace of double faults as she lost her service in a long deuced fifteenth game and twice reached only 30 against Miss Brough's service. She wildly overhit on three of the last four points of the one-sided playoff. She scored only three winners to Louise's seven.

Frank Sedgman, the youthful Australian champion, had the narrowest scrape when he was carried to five full sets by Straight Clark, a thin-faced battler from Pasadena, Calif. The scores were 4—6, 6—3, 7—5, 3—6, 7—5.

John Bromwich, veteran of the Australian Davis Cup team, wore down Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., 6—3, 6—4, 1—6, 6—4, and Jaroslav Drobny, the left-handed Egyptian out of Czechoslovakia, ousted Harry Hopman, captain of the Aussie cup squad, 9—7, 6—3, 6—1.

Billy Talbert, resuming where he left off when the rains came, knocked out Don McNeill, the veteran who upset Ken McGregor of Australia, 6—1, 4—6, 7—5, 6—0. Talbert was a set to the good when they resumed.

Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont, the defending women's champion, defeated Nancy Morrison of Palm Beach, Fla., 6—8, 6—0, 6—1.

for an error. Evers, Keller's pinch-runner, was unable to move up on the fumble, however, and Dente took care of the rest of the inning by starting a double play on Kell.

Consuegra had another helping hand from Dente who came up with full-fledged whizz-play on a nasty smash by Wertz with one out in the eleventh.

And then the Nats wrapped it up rapidly in their own eleventh.

IN SHORT . . . Lefty Gene Bearden tangles with the Tigers in the finale today. It will be Art Hotteman for Detroit . . . Mickey Grasso screamed a blue streak at Umpire Charley Berry when he called him out at first on a bunt in the fifth inning of the twilight affair last night. He was getting away with it, until he flung his cap to the ground for emphasis. That finished him for the night . . . Yost's walk in the sixth inning of the first game was his 103rd, a new season record for a Washington player. He drew four more before the night ended . . . Hoot Evers will be out of the Tiger lineup "for at least a week" with his lamed wrist, the team learned sadly.

Giants Blank Pirates, 4-0

Pittsburgh, Aug. 30 (AP).—Sal Maglie fashioned a five-hit shutout tonight as he pitched the New York Giants to a 4-0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates before 7794 fans—one of the smallest night crowds in Pirates' history. It was Maglie's eighth straight win and his thirteenth of the year against three losses.

Maglie's shutout ran his scoreless inning streak against the Pirates to 22 in a row. It also gave Maglie 20 straight scoreless innings spread over his last three starts.

Terps End Hurt In Crash; Lost For Season

University of Maryland yesterday lost one of its football players before practice even started.

Bob Chioda, 21, a reserve end, suffered a fractured pelvis in an automobile accident near West Grove, Md., and will be out of action this season. The Souderton, Pa., youth was hitchhiking a ride to College Park for the opening of practice Friday.

He was taken to West Grove Hospital and later transferred to University Hospital in Baltimore. Duke Wyre, Maryland trainer, said that Chioda, 6 foot, 185 pound junior, will not be able to play football for at least a year.

Chioda was given a lift by Herbert Silverman, 21, of Brooklyn. The car skidded on a muddy spot on the Baltimore Pike near the Pennsylvania-Maryland State line, and crashed into a pole. Silverman was unhurt.

Redskins Top Lions, 28-24

The brilliant Layne, whom the Lions bought from the New York Yankees last winter, completed 12 straight passes. For the night, he had a remarkable record of 14 out of 15, three for touchdowns.

The hard-charging Lions' line restricted the Redskins' running game to 89 yards, but the Washington passing game, thanks to Gilmer most of the way, and Baugh in the stretch drive, picked up 271 yards on 14 completions. Gilmer completed six out of 10 and Baugh eight for 12, six coming in the payoff drive.

The Scoring Parade

How the scoring went:

The Lions made it 7-0 early in the first quarter with a 61-yard drve, climaxed by a 21-yard touchdown pass from Layne to End Cloyce Box, a Texan. Layne and Walker collaborated on a 36-yard play to put the ball on the Redskins' 21-yard line.

In the second quarter, the Lions went ahead, 14-0, when Layne connected with End Barney Hafen for a 9-yard touchdown pass. Layne threw and completed five straight passes during that 80-yard journey.

The Redskins took four plays to go 80 yards. Two runs and two passes did it. Gilmer hit Dudley with a 33-yard pass and passed 36 yards to Clyde Goodnight in the end zone for the first Redskins touchdown.

Three minutes later, the Redskins tied the game, going 84 yards and once again a Gilmer pass did it. This time Hugh Taylor was on the receiving end of a 34-yard Gilmer aerial. A 38 yarder to Pete Stout and a 19 yarder to Bob Goode set it up.

The Lions went ahead, 21-14, midway the third period when Layne passed 38 yards to Box for the score. Walker kicked the point.

The Redskins tied the score at 21-all after Paul Lipscomb recovered a fumble on the Lions' 24-yard line. Baugh was thrown for a 12-yard loss but passed 20 yards to Pete Stout. Dudley went through tackle for the score and kicked the extra point.

The Lions regained the lead at 24-21 in the fourth period when Walker kicked a 15-yard field goal.

The Redskins retaliated with an 80-yard touchdown drive with Baugh engineering it. Goode crashed over from the 2-yard line. Dudley again converted for a 28-24 final.

Chili Parlor Fight Costs Carroll $75

Pvt. John U. Carroll, 29, who figured in a set of fisticuffs with some customers in his chili parlor August 11, was fined $75 by a police trial board yesterday.

Charged with neglect of duty, failure to report an injury and conduct prejudicial to the good order of the force, Carroll was found guilty on one specification of each count.

However, Carroll, who was on sick leave at the time of the incident and who had applied for retirement because of a disability incurred in the armed forces, kept alive his retirement chances.

He was returned to duty and immediately ordered to the police clinic where he was again placed on sick leave.

It was learned that Carroll had been approved for retirement by the Police Retiring Board with only the approval of the District Commissioners needed to make it official. It has been reported that he will receive 20 percent retirement pay.

Carroll, who was defended by Attorney Bernard Margolius, is attached to the Ninth Precinct. He is part owner of the Chili Ranch, 729½ 11th st. se.

Carnera Wins, Gets Rocca Shot

Primo Carnera defeated Ronald Meeker in 20 minutes with a series of body smothers in the feature wrestling match before 1800 last night at Turner's Arena. By his victory, Carnera "qualified" to meet Antonio Rocca September 11 at Griffith Stadium.

In other bouts, Nell Stewart defeated Jean Holland in 10 minutes with a body press, Ken Ackles and Ted Tourtas wrestled to a 30-minute draw, Angelo Savoldi defeated Les Ruffin in 16½ minutes with a back nelson, and Bud Curtis and Jack Dillon were both disqualified.

Five-Year-Old

Child's Hands Mangled by Escalator

Mary Marbury Bowie, 3, daughter of an Upper Marlboro, Md. attorney, yesterday had both her hands mangled in an escalator at Hecht's Department Store, 7th and F sts. nw.

The child was in "good condition" in Children's Hospital last night after a 2½-hour operation in which doctors fought to avert possible amputation of both hands. They said three fingers of the left hand had compound fractures and that both hands were deeply lacerated.

Hospital officials said it would be several days before they could say whether an amputation would be necessary.

The accident occurred when Mrs. William B. Bowie, her seven-year-old daughter Lou Ann, Mary Marbury, and a 16-months-old baby in arms, Kitty Belle, were traveling on the escalator from the second to the main floor of the building.

Mary Marbury slipped and fell just as the escalator reached the main floor, and both hands caught between the escalator step plate and the floor.

Mrs. Bowie screamed as she watched in horror. Section Manager John Lane pressed an emergency button and the escalator stopped. Chief Engineer Chester Bray removed the escalator plate and freed the child's hands. She was given emergency treatment before her removal to Children's Hospital.

President May Seek Temporary Power to Shift U. S. Agencies

The President may seek the power to make temporary shifts of Federal agencies from one department to another when he deems it advisable in the interest of national defense.

The plan is being debated by the White House staff. A decision on it must be made in the next couple of days as Congress is preparing to adjourn within two weeks.

If Congress votes the authority to the President, the door would be opened to the transfer of Civil Aeronautics Adminsitration to the Defense Department for the duration. Also, advocates of the plan explain the President may find it necessary to make several interagency shifts to administer economic controls and other new Government activities growing out of the defense program.

LOYALTY: The President yesterday asked Congress for $1, 860,000 to be spent by the Civil Service Commission on loyalty inquiries of the more than 300,000 new defense employes. If approved, civil service could rehire about 400 investigators it was forced to lay off over the past year.

INTERIOR: Its Assistant Secretary, Jebbie Davidson, is making a last-ditch fight to be promoted to Undersecretary. He's being supported by Senator Chavez (D., N. Mex.) among others. But he won't make it. The job is slated to go to a businessman who will be placed in charge of the department's defense work such as mobilization of the gas, oil, and coal industries.

JOB SAVER: Non-status Federal employes who are eligible for regular Civil Service status under the President's order of last Monday are to be exempt from Civil Service firing orders. The agencies yesterday were notified by the Civil Service Commission to cancel firing orders it has previously issued to these persons.

It's a Civil Service policy to order the firing of nonstatus employes when it has people available on a competitive register to take their jobs.

HR 87: Chairman Johnston of the Senate Postoffice & Civil Service Committee yesterday told the Senate he soon would call up the President's veto of HR 87, the bill to give promotions to many World War II veterans in the postal service. The House overrode the veto.

HOUSE RIDER: In addition, Johnston announced he'd fight the House rider to the supplemental budget bill to require Federal agencies to make promotions, transfers, and reinstatements on a temporary basis after September 1. The National Customs Service Assocation also is fighting the rider.

EFFICIENCY RATINGS: Senate and House conferees have been appointed to iron out minor differences in the two bills to overhaul the Federal employe efficiency rating system. Senate conferees are: Senators Frear (D., Del.), Long (D., La.) and Dworshak (R., Idaho). House conferees are: Reps. Murray (D., Tenn.), Davis (D., Ga.) and Rees (R., Kan.).

RETIREMENTS: Ruth A. Dunnington, one of the first two girls hired as forest and field clerks in the Forest Service, is retiring today after 34 years of service in the agency. . . . Dr. Ray Ovid Hall, nationally-known economist in Commerce's Bureau of International Trade, is retiring today. He gained prominence by establishing and compiling the department's "Balance of International Payments." In 1931, he was the center of a hot controversy with the then Commerce Secretary, Herbert Hoover, over material to be used in the publication. He resigned when he was overruled. He later returned to the department. . . . Retiring today from Internal Revenue are: William L. Ford, Blanche Pearson, Henry H. Surface, William M. Ebberts, Mary B. Greene, Ernest F. Hodgdon, Margaret Connolly, Irene P. Anderson and William Steiner.

All Suspects Freed in Rape In Arlington

Hundreds Questioned; $500 Reward Offered; Hospital Releases Ecuadorian Victim

Hundreds of men had been questioned, but the man who raped a 23-year-old Ecuadorian girl in a wooded area of Arlington Tuesday remained at large last night.

Police said the girl described her attacker as a muscular, heavily-built Negro in his 20s. She said he was nude when he leaped upon her.

This description fits that of a naked man who was seen peeking in windows in the Pickett Homes area in Arlington Monday night.

2 Jailed, Released

Two men who answered the description were jailed yesterday but released after intensive investigation exonerated them.

"We've checked them out on the street, in houses, on the job, and everywhere else," said Arlington Police Lieut. Walter Bell.

Bell said police of all nearby jurisdictions, including the District, were offering all possible cooperation to Arlington police, who were working overtime on the case.

Bell disclosed that the victim's alligator-skin handbag, which contained $10 and her passport, is missing and may have been taken by the rapist.

In U. S. Only Three Months

Meanwhile, the pretty victim of the attack was released from Arlington Hospital yesterday. The girl, who lives with an aunt in the 2800 block of S. Buchanan st., Arlington, has been in this country only three months.

A daughter of one of Ecuador's important families, she came to the United States in May. She enrolled in a summer English course at the Americanization School preparatory to entering Stephens College, at Columbia, Mo., this fall.

The atack occurred in a wooded area used by certain residents of North Fairlington as a shortcut to and from the Shirlington Shopping Center.

Was Homeward Bound

According to police, the girl was homeward bound from the shopping center with groceries when she was attacked.

After the attack, she staggered to the edge of the woods where three boys, Timothy Hahn, 10; Bruce Claxton, 9, and Robert Price, 9, all of the 4600 block of S. 31st rd., were playing with bows and arrows. They accompanied her to a nearby home.

The girl was bleeding from the nose where she had been punched; livid finger marks encircled her throat; her clothing, ripped and torn by the attacker, was in tatters.

Parents Warn Children

Several parents in the area sternly warned their children not to venture into the woods again to play.

"The children have been playing there all along; they won't any more," declared one grim-faced parent.

After the attack, bloodhounds were sent to the scene from the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va., but they could not pick up a trail, possibly because a large number of persons had tramped over the area before they arrived.

Harry W. Nalls, owner of Nalls' Garage in Falls Church, offered $500 reward for capture of the rapist within 15 days.

Lie Detector Demonstrated for Club

CAA Picking 1 of 6 Sites For Capital's Next Airport

2 in Fairfax Area, One Near Chantilly, Another Annandale, 2 Near Andrews

President Truman yesterday got a progress report on plans for a second major airport in the Washington area from CAA Administrator Delos W. Rentzel.

Rentzel pointed out six sites, four in Virginia and two in Maryland, which are under consideration for the badly needed port. He later told reporters that two of the sites are near the town of Fairfax, Va., one near Chantilly and one near Annandale. The Maryland sites are north and east of Andrews Air Force Base.

The six sites now under consideration average about 2500 acres per site, Rentzel said.

Now awaiting presidential signature is a bill authorizing expenditure of first funds for the proposed airport. Of the total of $2,150,000, $250,000 is earmarked for land surveys.

Rentzel predicted that once the money is authorized, the surveys can be completed and the site selected within a three-month period. Actual use of the port, however, would be delayed by construction until 1954, he said. The new field might be used "operationally" a year earlier, he added.

Airport Use Committee To Study Congestion Here

General congestion at Washington's major airports and the need for better traffic patterns are to be studied when the Airport Use Committee meets here September 12, 13 and 14.

CAA Administrator D. W. Rentzel said yesterday that he believed these would be among outstanding traffic problems which the industry-government committee will discuss.

Hershey Urges Draft Of Handicapped Men

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, yesterday spoke out here against "the entirely unrealistic" drafting of only the physically fit.

"There should be a place in the armed forces for anyone who has a contribution to make," he told a national gathering of delegates at the final day of the three-day, fifth biennial convention, American Federation of the Physically Handicapped, at Hotel Statler.

He advocated selection for military service on "an individual's ability to do things, not on an inventory of his physique."

Hits Draft Rejections

The criteria of selection by inventory rather than by performance, he said, is "a false method. . . . the outgrowth of a philosophy of abundance which might sometime damn us to oblivion."

General Hershey estimated that of the five million persons rejected in the World War II draft, some 60 to 70 percent "could have performed worthwhile services."

Concerning the Korean fighting, General Hershey said the United States "is moving into a situation of partial mobilization."

'Most Out of Everybody'

"However," he added, "in anything approaching an all-out struggle there is the necessity of getting the most out of everybody.

"Survival might some day depend on the individual nation who best gets that last ounce of strength, that last drop of sweat out of all its people."

To a question from the floor, General Hershey sad he was "reasonably sure that the nations with whom we are now tussling are not as particular (on physical standards) as we are."

Other speakers at yesterday's convention urged that vocational training of the physically handicapped be shifted from the Federal Security Agency to the Labor Department, that the AFPH continue to arouse public interest to the cause of the Nation's crippled, and that the crippled guard against being used by Communsts for subversive purposes.

Tragedy
2d Member Of Family Slain in Week

Manassas, Va., Aug. 30 (Spl.).—Tragedy entered the lives of a nearby farming family for the second time in four days when Maurice Kohn, 66, was found shot to death today.

Kohn's brother-in-law, Richard Cornwell, 61, was brutally murdered on his farm, only a mile from that of Kohn, last Saturday night.

Commonwealth's Attorney Stanley A. Owens said Kohn's body was found at 3 p. m. today in his bedroom. He had been shot with a shotgun which lay by his side, Owens said. No note of explanation was found. Kohn was the father of three married children.

Owens said a certificate will be issued.

Cornwell was beaten and stabbed to death during a fight in the kitchen of his farmhouse, about six miles south of Manassas.

A cousin, Andrew Cornwell, and Richard Watson and Mrs. Mary Watson are being held in default of $10,000 bond each in Prince William County jail in connection with the slaying.

Move Is Planned For Vaccination Center Activity

Beginning September 8, the vaccination clinic at Polk Health Center will move to the Gales Health Center, 65 Massachusetts ave. nw., Health Officer Daniel L. Seckinger announced last night.

Vaccinations will be given at Gales at 3 p. m. Fridays. For further information call National 6000, ext. 2128.

There will be no change in the vaccination clinic at Southwest Health Center, Delaware ave. and I st. sw., which is open at 3 p. m. Wednesdays.

District residents, except preschool children, may obtain vaccinations against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and typhoid fever at these centers.

Culprit Disappointed: Begged Year, Gets Half

Oran White, 43, no fixed address, received exactly half what he wanted yesterday in Municipal Court when he pleaded guilty to stealing two umbrellas from the G. C. Murphy Co.

"Won't you send me away for a year?" asked White.

"I'm sorry I can't oblige," said Judge George D. Neilson. "But your record doesn't justify a year. The term will be exactly six months."

Byrd Nominates 4 To Service Schools From N. Virginia

Four Northern Virginia men were included in nominations to West Point and Annapolis announced yesterday by Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.).

Richard L. Stillwell of Luray was named as principal for the Naval Academy, and David Drew Gilpatrick, of McLean, was named as principal for West Point.

Robert M. Morrison, of Arlington, was named as first alternate, and B. J. Tullington, of Arlington, was named third alternate to Annapolis.

The nominations were made on the basis of competitive examinations. They are for the session starting in July, 1951.

Museum to Expand Entrance To Admit Supersonic Plane

There's going to be a ripping old time at the National Air Museum for the next three weeks.

They don't call it that, of course. They call it "expanding" the museum's entrance at 10th and Independence ave. nw.

All because the museum was presented with the first ship to fly faster than sound—a nice edition to its collection—but one that won't dismantle.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, wasn't kidding when he said the XS-1 is "the sturdiest airplane ever built."

It is so sturdy, says Paul E. Garber, museum curator, that it has been built as an integral, complete mechanism, so completely equipped with "plumbing" and wiring connections between its elements that you couldn't tear it apart and put it back together again.

So, in a slight variation on the Mahomet and mountain theme, they'll take the XS-1 to the National Air Museum after the museum has ripped out enough steed girders and sheet metal to let it in.

Garber, who is still working out details of the XS-1's permanent placement, figures it will be at least three weeks before the ship is safely in and ready for public view.

Va. to Study Milk Prices

Richmond, Va., Aug. 30 (AP).—In response to demands for price adjustments, the State Milk Commission will review the price structure in the 33 State-controlled markets at hearings to be held here September 13 and 14.

Upwards of a half dozen producers and distributors have complained of rising feed and dairy supplies cost and a tightening of the labor situation as a result of the Korean war, a commission spokesman said.

In effect, the commission's announcement of the consideration of adjustments means it will decide whether to allow increases in retail and wholesale prices.

A hearing September 14, will be for the markets in Arlington-Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Bowling Green, Tappahannock - Warsaw, Kilmarnock - Reedville, Manassas, Williamsburg, Newport News, Norfolk-Portsmouth, Smithfield, Suffolk, Mecklenburg, Farmville, Petersburg-Hopewell and Amelia-Blackstone - Crewe - Kenbridge-Victoria.

Butler Opposes Truman Farm, Medical Plans

Baltimore, Aug. 30 (AP).—John Marshall Butler said today, "I am just as much or more opposed to socialized farming as I am to socialized medicine or industry."

A candidate for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate, Butler added:

"When our national Administration tinkers with the farmer's ability or will to produce, we are courting disaster."

Tydings Pins World Hope on United Nations

Tells 500 Montgomery Democrats That Agency May Overcome Feuds

The United Nations is "the hope of the world" and its alternative "is to level all the gains of Christianity through 2000 years of struggle," Senator Millard F. Tydings (D., Md.) declared last night.

He was heard by more than 500 festive-minded Montgomery County Democrats in an old-fashioned "corn dip" — including rural music, traditional oratory and buttered corn—at the Agricultural Center in Gaithersburg.

Tydings, now facing a political fight for his seventh Congressional term, said that despite UN dissension and the walk-out of delegates, "there is always a chance that reason, justice and right" will prevail to keep the UN functioning.

Last nights rally was sponsored by the Montgomery County Democratic Victory Committee, which introduced from the platform its candidates for State, national and local offices.

One of the speakers, retired Major General Russell P. Hartle, USA, a Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives from Hagerstown, Md., was warmly indorsed by Tydings for his "distinguished" personal and war record. He opposes Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.), incumbent, if he wins in his party's primary.

Other speakers included G. LaMar Kelly, jr., a Montgomery County Council candidate and chairman of the Victory committee; Preston C. King, jr., another council candidate; James H. Pugh, a member of the Victory committee, who introduced the State ticket, David Brigham of Ashton, another Victory committee member, who presided, and Joseph Simpson, Jr., candidate for the State Senate.

9 Area Candidates Contest GOP Policy

The Montgomery County Republican State Central Committee yesterday was charged by nine GOP candidates in two statements with failure to support an "open primary."

Donald H. Dalton, House of Delegates candidate, advocated "letting the voters decide who shall represent them, not a committee." If elected, he pledged to "inform the citizens of what is going on in the State House" in understandable terms.

In the other statement, eight candidates charged "certain persons in office in the Republican party" with breaking faith with public announcements of an "open primary" by indorsing candidates. "These incumbents have even indorsed their own members seeking reelection," the eight charged.

Signing the joint statement were Louise L. Dixon and Frank R. Long, House of Delegates candidates; Wesley M. Morris, candidate for County Council; Walter M. Moorman, for State's Attorney, and Wilbert McInerney, Wesley I. Sauter, James V. Gum and W. Leroy Miles, for the State Central Committee.

Mahoney Suggests New Budget Controls

Oakland, Md., Aug. 30 (AP).—George P. Mahoney, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, tonight repeated his platform settlement that if Maryland would set up a new system of accounting and budget controls, the State could save enough cash to bring about an immediate tax reduction.

Chevy Chase Site Of Charter Meeting

All members of the Montgomery County Charter Committee yesterday were urged by Col. Norman B. Ames, president, to attend a special meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Chevy Chase Woman's Club.

On Route 1
'Magic Eye' To Check Speeders

A "magic eye traffic cop" will start checking speeders on the heavily traveled Baltimore blvd. today

Maryland State Police hope the Electromatic Speed Meter they will use will reduce the number of accidents on the highway over the weekend.

It's not just a Labor Day holiday precaution. State Police said the device will continue in operation on Baltimore blvd. for about a month. It probably will be located along a dangerous stretch of roadway near Muirkirk, Md.

The machine, placed at the side of the highway, will measure the speed of motor vehicles going in both directions. When a speed violation is noted, the operator of the machine will radio a trooper located a mile or so away who will stop the speeding vehicle.

Unless the speeding violation is flagrant, the driver, when stopped, will merely be warned and asked to cooperate in reducing highway accidents by driving cautiously and at safe speeds.

Devers Backs Defense Fund

A request for local funds to support Fairfax County's civilian defense program was indorsed yesterday by Gen. Jacob L. Devers, retired chief of Army Field forces.

General Devers, now a resident of the county, appeared before a special meeting of the county board of supervisors with Guy N. Church, local director of civilian defense. He spoke briefly after Church had pleaded for a local appropriation to set up an "adequate" defense office.

General Devers told the supervisors: "You don't want to scare the people, but at the same time you have to keep them informed on proper defense measures."

Two weeks ago, General Devers was recommended for the county defense post by Church, who said he would gladly relinquish the job in Devers' favor. No action has been taken on the suggestion, however, since General Devers made no definite commitment whether he would be able to accept the appointment.

Following yesterday's discussion, the board named Church and three county officials to a committee which will confer with Gov. John S. Battle in an effort to obtain State financial aid for the local defense program. Other members of the group are Commonwealth's Attorney Hugh Marsh, County Executive Secretary R. M. Loughborough and G. Wallace Carper, chairman of the board of supervisors.

6 Are Injured As Cars Collide On 8th St. NE.

4 Hospitalized; One Driver Stopped Earlier for Speeding

Six persons were injured—four of them seriously enough to require hospitalization—in a two-car crash at 2:15 a. m. yesterday at 8th st. and Maryland ave. ne.

It developed, police said, that one of the drivers, Corp. James C. Jacoby, 21, of South Post, Fort Myer, Va., had been arrested on a speeding charge three hours earlier on Bladensburg rd. ne.

The other driver, according to police, identified himself as Alfred Garcia, 28, but refused to give his address. Police said his driver's permit lists his address at 1114 E st. nw., but there is nothing located at that number.

Garcia and two passengers in his car, Miss Dorothy Shanoltz, 18, of 919 12th st. ne., and Arnold Burch, 28, of 4005 36th st., Mt. Rainier, Md. were admitted to Casualty Hospital.

Miss Shanoltz was said to be in serious condition with a punctured liver and an injured pelvis. Garcia suffered head injuries but was not in serious condition. Burch, whose right shoulder and right knee were fractured, was considered in good condition.

Riding with Jacoby were Corp. William L. Mason, 21, and Corp. Orville E. Flanders, 20, also of South Post, Fort Myer. Mason was admitted to Walter Reed Hospital with cuts on his scalp and right arm but his condition is good. Jacoby and Flanders were treated at their base for minor cuts and bruises.

Suburban Rescue Squad Sets Record

The Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue squad yesterday broke its record for the number of calls responded to in any one month when it topped the 200-mark.

The 200th case was 49-year-old Willie Crutchfield of 627 New Jersey ave. nw., who suffered a face cut working on a construction job at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda. The squad ambulance took him to Garfield Hospital.

The squad's previous record was 199 calls, several months ago.

House Subcommittee To Meet on Alarm Bill

A House District Committee subcommittee will meet at 10 a. m. today to consider a bill to give the Commissioners discretionary power to order automatic fire alarm systems installed in apartment houses and connected with the building switchboards.

Chest Publicist Named

Mrs. Jay Waltz, mystery writer and coauthor of the best seller, "The Bizarre Sisters," has been named chairman of the public relations committee of the Alexandria Community Chest. A city Democratic Committee member, she lives at 403 Lee st., Alexandria.

3 Polio Cases Up Total to 162

Three new cases of polio were reported in Greater Washington yesterday to bring the area total this year to 162.

The District's ninety-second victim was a 23-year-old woman who lives in the 1100 block of 7th st. ne. She was admitted to Gallinger Hospital on Monday.

This would have been the ninety-third District case, but District Health officials late yesterday scratched from their listing an 11-year-old boy who was admitted to Gallinger over the weekend when they learned he was a visitor here from Illinois.

Montgomery County reported its thirty-third case—a 21-year-old woman of the 11900 block of Andrews st., Wheaton, Md. She entered Gallinger Tuesday.

A 6-year-old boy of the 5600 block of St. Barnabas rd., Oxon Hill, Md., was admitted to Children's Hospital Monday. He was the thirty-seventh polio victim reported by Prince Georges County health officials this year.

Obstruction of Justice Charges Dismissed

United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence yesterday dismissed charges of obstructing justice against George Beal, 49, of 724 31st st. se., and Frederick Murdock, 27, of 1336 Missouri ave. nw.

Beal and Murdock had been accused of threatening John Ionesco, 56, of 1016 10th st. nw., after Ionesco's complaint to police had led to the arrest of Beal and two other men on gaming charges.

The motion to dismiss was made by Assistant United States Attorney Andrew Howard who said the conversation between the defendants and Ionesco constituted at the most threats, but not obstruction of justice.

Police Probe Death of Woman Found Unconscious on Floor

Police and the Coroner's office yesterday were investigating the death of a 64-year-old German woman who was found unconscious on the floor of her basement Monday.

She is Mrs. Toni Goldstein of 3218 19th st. nw., who died in Gallinger Hospital at 1:30 p. m. yesterday as she was being treated for what hospital attaches said was an overdose of sleeping pills.

Homicide squadmen said Mrs. Goldstein was found unconscious Monday at 6:40 a. m. by her husband, Dr. Morritz Goldstein. They said two notes, both written in German, were found with her. One was addressed to her husband and another to her son, Thomas, of 3316 P st. nw., a policy officer in the German Public Affairs Section of the State Department.

Detectives said that when Mrs. Goldstein was hospitalized, the notes were not translated by police, since she seemed to have a good chance for recovery.

The notes still had not been translated last night, but were expected to be turned over to a German expert today.

Police said Dr. and Mrs. Goldstein had been in Washington for about six months. Before the war, they said, Dr. Goldstein was a columnist for a Berlin newspaper. During the war, the couple lived in England and came to New York in 1947.

Thomas Goldstein served with the Office of War Information before transferring to the State Department in 1945.

Areas Hit by Floods To Get Better Sewers

Areas hit by the last two flash floods will receive assistance from the District Sewer Department this fiscal year.

This was disclosed yesterday by James C. Robertson of the District Sewer Department who said other projects were postponed to provide funds.

In about two months the District Sewer Department hopes to start installing an eight-foot storm sewer in the vicinity of Dix and Clay sts. ne. The emergency sewer line will run between 40th and 41st st. ne., Robertson said.

Officials estimated about two million dollars must eventually go into a rebuilt drainage system for the northeast area.

For the fifth and Ingraham sector, which took the brunt of the more recent Tuesday rain, the District plans to spend $300,000 to enlarge the drainage outlet at Piney Branch pkwy. and 16th st. nw. Work will start in about five months.

Next year, funds permitting, the District will begin enlarging the drainage sewers from the Piney Branch outlet.

To complete the Northwest project, $2,500,000 will be required and six to seven years, Robertson estimated.

Appeal Seen In Fairfax Bonds Case

A Fairfax County Circuit Court order nullifying a suit to block sale of more than 11 million dollars in school and courthouse construction bonds will become final Friday.

But it won't forestall an appeal from the verdict to the Virginia Supreme Court, according to Alfred J. Anton, who represents plaintiffs in the case.

Anton said yesterday his clients, Paul Rhinehart, jr., and Charles Gardner, have no intention of posting a bond of $20,000 required by Judge Arthur Sinclair when the plaintiffs announced their intention to appeal after the hearing August 11. To prevent dismissal of the suit from becoming final in the lower court, the bond would have to be posted within 21 days Friday is the deadline.

Despite Judge Sinclair's order, Anton contended his clients still have a statutory period of 60 days in which to note an appeal to the higher court. He said the appeal "definitely will be carried through."

Attorneys for the county said they would have to study the law further to determine wha steps can be taken to counter the appeal.

Joseph Krieg Dies; Headed Storage Firm

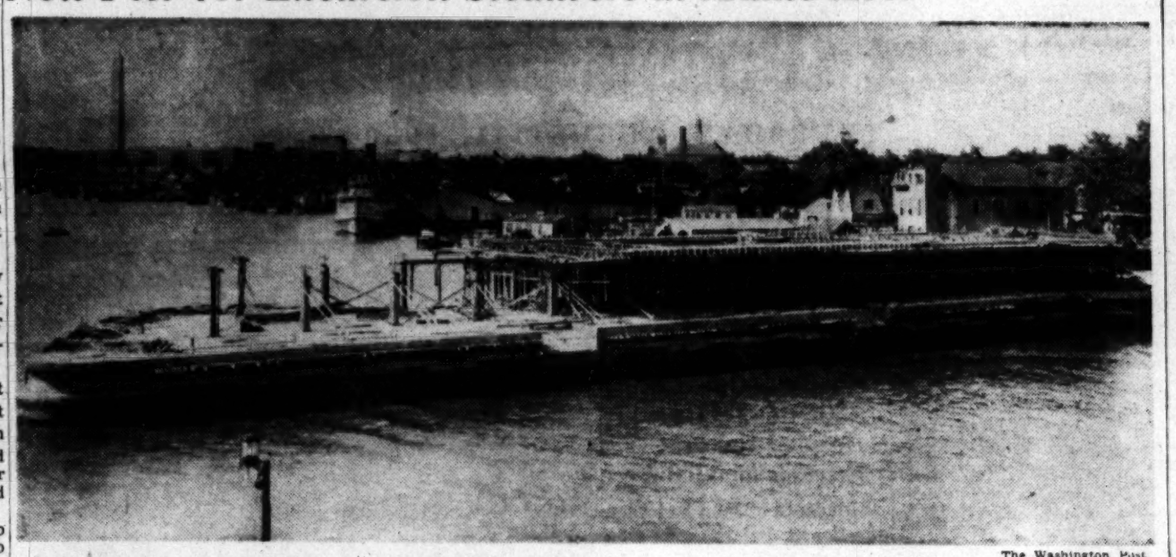
Requiem mass will be said at 10 a. m. today at Sacred Heart Church, 16th st. and Park rd. nw. for Joseph F. Krieg, 70, president of Krieg's Express and Storage Co., Inc., who died Monday at his home, 3420 16thst st. nw., after an illness of several months.

A native Washingtonian, Mr. Krieg was educated at St. Matthews School, and in 1900 married Mary Ellen Wolfe, also a Washingtonian. He took over leadership of the company started by his father about 75 years ago. He was widely known in Washington business circles and was a member of the Elks.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Joseph F. Krieg, jr., and Francis J. Krieg; three daughters, Mrs. John W. Wester, Mrs. Margaret K. De Ruiz, and Miss Katherine M. Krieg; a brother and two sisters.

Interment will be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

New Pier for Excursion Steamers at Maine Ave.



The Washington Post

WATERFRONT IMPROVEMENT—The new 340-foot pier at Maine ave. and N st. sw., on which construction is "well ahead of schedule," is being built to accommodate large excursion steamers. The $866,000 structure, originally to be completed in January, 1951, was 45 percent finished yesterday. The work schedule calls for only 15 percent completion at this date. The project is part of the extensive waterfront improvements authorized by Congress in 1935

Chauncey Glascock Of Mount Rainier Dies

Mr. Glascock died Tuesday in Prince Georges General Hospital following a heart attack Saturday at his home, 4200 30th st., Mount Rainier.

He was a member of the Mount Rainier Council from 1941 to 1945 and later became police commissioner. His memberships included George C. Whiting Masonic Lodge No. 22, Huntemann-Huff American Legion Post No. 110 and the Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers. He was a parishioner of the Mount Rainier Christian Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Anna Louise Glaccock; three sons, Donald D. Glascock of 4300 Russell ave., Clyde D. Glascock of 4302 Eastern ave., and Carlton L. Glascock of the 30th st. address, all Mount Rainier; a daughter, Peggy Lois Glascock of the 30th st. address, and one grandson.

Col. Smith Dies; Twice Denied Senate Seat

Dwight, Ill., Aug. 30 (AP).—Col. Frank L. Smith, 82, who was twice barred from serving in the United States Senate, died today.

A Republican party leader in Illinois for many years, Colonel Smith served one term in Congress, from 1919 to 1921.

It was heavy financial contributions to his 1926 campaign by utilities firms while he was chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission from 1918 to 1920 which led to refusal of the Senate to seat him.

Mrs. Bumstead, Cartographer's Widow, Dies

Mrs. Annie Sweeney Bumstead, 79, of 2940 Carlton ave. ne., died yesterday in Boston. She had been taken ill in Boston last Thursday, while en route to her Washington home from a visit to the family summer home in North Conway, N. H.

She was born in Cork County, Ireland, in 1871 and was married in Boston in 1901 to the late Albert H. Bumstead, long chief cartographer of the National Geographic Society and inventor of the Bumstead sun compass, used for navigation in polar regions. Mr. Bumstead died in 1940.

Mrs. Bumstead had lived in Washington since 1915 and was an active member of the Woodridge Circle of the First Congregational Church, a member of the Dahlgren Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home, and a charter member of the Woodridge Book Club.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Kenneth Dole and Helen Bumstead, of Washington, Robert Bumstead of Philadelphia, and Newman Bumstead of Washington and seven grand children.

Services will be held in North Conway Friday.

Dr. Shoudy Dies; Noted In Industrial Medicine

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—Dr. Loyal A. Shoudy, 70, chief of medical service for the Bethlehem Steel Co., died today.

Dr. Shoudy was widely known as a pioneer in industrial medicine. He was one of the first to advocate use of salt and sugar tablets for the prevention of heat prostration and fatigue among industrial workers, and long had been active in studies looking toward prevention of silicosis, lead poisoning and tuberculosis.

James Hightower Dies; Father of Newsman

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 30 (AP).—James Edward Hightower, father of John M. Hightower, diplomatic reporter with the Associated Press Washington Bureau, died at his home today. He was 63.

Mr. Hightower was yardmaster for the Southern Railway here. He had been with the Southern 43 years. He was chairman of the board of deacons of the Churchwell Avenue Baptist Church, and was a Mason.

Denomination: $1000; principal and semi-annual interest (A and O1) payable at Prince Georges Bank and Trust Company Hyattsville, Maryland, or at the principal office of The Equitable Trust Company, Baltimore, Maryland, or at the principal office of Chemical Bank & Trust Company, New York City, New York, at holder's option; general obligations; unlimited tax; coupon bonds registerable as to principal alone; exempt from taxation by the State of Maryland and by the counties and municipalities in said State; unconditionally guaranteed as to both principal and interest by Montgomery and Prince George's Counties by endorsement on each bond. There will be no auction. Bonds will be delivered about October 3, 1950, at place of purchaser's choice. Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates for the Water Supply Bonds and the General Construction Bonds, not exceeding 4% per annum, in multiples of ⅛ or 1/10 of 1%, and no bid may name more than one rate for the bonds of this issue. A separate bid for each issue (not less than par and accrued interest) is required but no bid for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. All of the bonds offered will be awarded to the bidder offering to purchase the bonds at the lowest interest cost to the District, such interest to be determined by deducting the total amount of the premium bid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities. Each proposal must be on a form to be furnished by the undersigned, enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposal for Bonds," and must be accompanied by a certified or bank cashier's check upon an incorporated bank or trust company, payable unconditionally to the order of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, for $66,250. Award or rejection of bids will be made on the date above stated for receipt of bids, and the checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned immediately. The check of the successful bidder will be held uncashed as security for the performance of his bid, but in the event the successful bidder shall fail to comply with the terms of his bid, the check may then be cashed and the proceeds thereof retained as and for full liquidated damages. The approving opinion of Messrs. Mitchell and Pershing, New York City, will be furnished the purchasers without cost. There will also be furnished the usual closing papers, including a certificate stating that there is no litigation pending affecting the validity of the bonds. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. By J. DARBY BOWMAN, Secretary-Treasurer. Aug.31,Sept.1.

FALL is almost here but if the weather man doesn't change his ways, you'll still be needing recipes for "coolers." Here's a refreshing one—Orange Coconut Flip, served above in coconut shells. First, simmer 1½ cups shredded coconut and 3 cups water together at low heat for 10 minutes. Remove from heat, cool and strain through cheesecloth. Add contents of one 6-ounce can of orange juice concentrate. Mix well and serve over cracked ice in shells or tall glasses. Makes six servings

Mary Haworth's Mail

Although Her Husband Is a Peaceful Family Head, Woman Can't Throw Off Fear Tensions That Have Existed Since She Can Remember; What's Wrong?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 43, happily married, a mother; and I have been afraid of people and under tremendous tension as far back as I can remember. The fatigue and despair I feel, after just a moment's chat with an acquaintance or neighbor, is overwhelming. My characteristic facial expression is so anxious that my every glance makes others squirm; but it is with men that I feel most uneasy. They sense it in seconds and avoid me ever after.

My parents did their devoted best to give their children every advantage their modestly comfortable means allowed. I was a good student, graduated from a good girls' college, and made all A's in grammar school; but I would burst into nervous tears if asked to read in class. In college I tried to join activities but didn't know how, wasn't welcome, and felt bitterly lonely. I have always been a solitary, bookish person.

After college I had one year's private psychiatric treatment, all that my father could then afford, but it did no good. During the war I had two winters of outpatient treatment at a psychiatric clinic, and for a while I experienced good results, felt "born again" and joined in church, scout and school activities. I was elected to offices and felt myself an accepted member of society for the first and only time in my life.

Cannot Sustain Sociable Efforts

THEN circumstances dictated a move to another community, where living standards are a bit over our heads; and here I tried to carry on socially in the same useful way. These activities weren't successful.

Intolerable tension shackles me again. My husband's fine qualities are innumerable, and his peaceful spirit and energetic personality keep me afloat. I married without happiness at the start, but gradually a cordial sustaining relationship has developed.

However, we are lonesome people, because I'm not sufficiently sociable, I presume; but after an entertaining I am exhausted, even ill, for weeks. How can I keep going? What do I fear? Am I pretending to be something I'm not? I don't think so. Is there someone I haven't forgiven? I can't recall any grievance. I feel so worthless, though I keep busy (inspired by my husband's example), and I try to think sensibly about my emotions. Since tension seems to be a general affliction nowadays, your discussion of my case might help countless others too. G. E.

Science Report Sparks a Thought

DEAR G. E.: It may be that such tension as yours is caused by some glandular deficiency, or perhaps some chemical factor misbehaving in the body, that throws the nervous system out of gear. This isn't exactly a wild guess cut from whole cloth. Rather it is suggested by a special article from the pen of William Laurence, science reporter for the New York Times, that appeared recently in Look magazine under the title "Help for Acute Alcoholics in 24 hours."

Not that you are an alcoholic, of course. But your recital, here much condensed, indicates that you are wrestling with nervous tortures extraordinarily like those which drive many persons to drink.

The magazine reports that new medical discoveries, and successful treatments based on them, indicate that "a deficiency in the adrenal gland initiates a cycle of events that leads the victim to seek relief in alcohol." So, it seems logical to hope, at any rate, that your distress may have a comparable origin, and might be physically remedied if rightly diagnosed.

The article offers advanced education and great hope to all laymen interested in controlling alcoholism. It's conclusion is that "medical science at last has Demon Rum on the run." You should read the report for its own sake, quite apart from the corollary ideas it sparks about your case. And then, since fortunately you live in a region famous for medical research, you should talk to the best diagnostitians there, to discover whether, in their opinion, you may be an appropriate candidate for glandular therapy—as a constructive supplement to psychiatric treatment.

Since fear has estranged you from neighbors most of your life, psychiatric or analytic teamwork with a specialist is bound to be helpful to you, if only in the fact that it gives you exercise in friendly exchange with an understanding person. Thus even if your chronic problem is rooted in a faulty body and not a neurotic mind, still you've done well to draw on psychiatry, as a rational guide through critical stress. My advice is to continue to search, realistically, for knowledge to cure what ails you; and for "thy rod and thy staff" bear in mind that the Lord helps those who help themselves in a quest of this kind. M. H.

Not-So-Young Folks Need the Right Diet

By Ida Jean Kain

A DOCTOR friend requests that I write on the importance of adequate nutrition for older people . . . "Every day older folks come into my office with definite signs of poor nutrition. They complain of vague aches and ailments—yet they are always surprised when I point out they are not eating the foods that furnish materials needed to ward off senility."

A woman will tell him apologetically: "Since the children are gone, I don't bother fixing much food . . . it hardly seems worthwhile. All I feel like eating is a little toast and tea for supper." And that way she gets more tired and listless and less inclined to bother, and then definite symptoms of malnutrition show up.

Consider Nutrition Needs

Many people think appetite is a safe guide as to what to eat and how much. But that all depends on how appetite has been trained. For example, if you have a fondness for starches and are prone to make a meal of bread and butter and perhaps a cup of tea, your appetite may be satisfied, but your nutrition needs will certainly not be met.

Wrong Habits

Malnutrition means poor nutrition, and in our country the cause is generally wrong food habits. Lack of funds may figure in too, with the dollar buying so much less, but with knowledge of basic nutrition needs, it is possible to buy good nutrition on a limited budget. But on any budget, as activity lessens and less food is required, the foods which must not be slighted are those that contribute the materials needed to keep the body in good working condition.

From middle age on, it is particularly important to follow the excellent nutrition rule to eat what you should first . . . then eat what you want within your fuel (calorie) requirements. Here are the foods which should be given first place in the diet: milk and cheese vegetables and fruits, whole grain cereal and bread and meat or seafood.

Vegetables Important

It's a bother to fix vegetables and prepare a balanced meal; but when you think of your daily three meals in terms of more years of enjoyable living, that puts a different light on it. Frozen vegetables make things easier . . . some are frozen so only part of the package need be used at one time. Make it a point to have one or more servings of dark green leafy or yellow vegetables each day. Drink three glasses of milk every day to meet the increased calcium requirements. Unless the doctor advises against them, eat an egg each day; and a serving of lean meat or fish for necessary protein.

Have a couple of fruits daily, including a citrus fruit or juice to furnish vitamin C. Red, unhealthy gums and sores at the mouth corners are signs of lack of this vitamin. Also fleeting aches and pains may be attributable to a vitamin C deficiency. Citrus fruit or juice is the best source of this vitamin . . . tomatoes and juice, next best.

It has now been proved that a great many afflictions of middle and old age are directly traceable to poor nutrition and wrong food habits.

Woman's Clinic Ready to Re-Open

The Woman's Clinic, Inc., 4704 Georgia ave., will reopen on Wednesday, September 6, and will be open each Wednesday morning.

The clinic is affiliated with the Planned Parenthood Federation.

The first fall meeting of the Board of Directors will be held at the Clinic on September 13. The officers are Mrs. Gladys B. Middlemiss, president; Miss Mildred Clum, first vice president; Mrs. Marie G. Payne, second vice president; Mrs. Ruth H. Snodgrass, recording secretary; Miss Ethel Eyres, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edgar T. Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Martin Hysong, director to the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs; and Mrs. Snodgrass, alternate director.

For a Buffet Supper

A baked ham is wonderful for a buffet supper, but cold sliced tongue or corned beef make good main dishes, too. Serve with potato salad dressed with mayonnaise and sour cream and garnished with ripe olives.

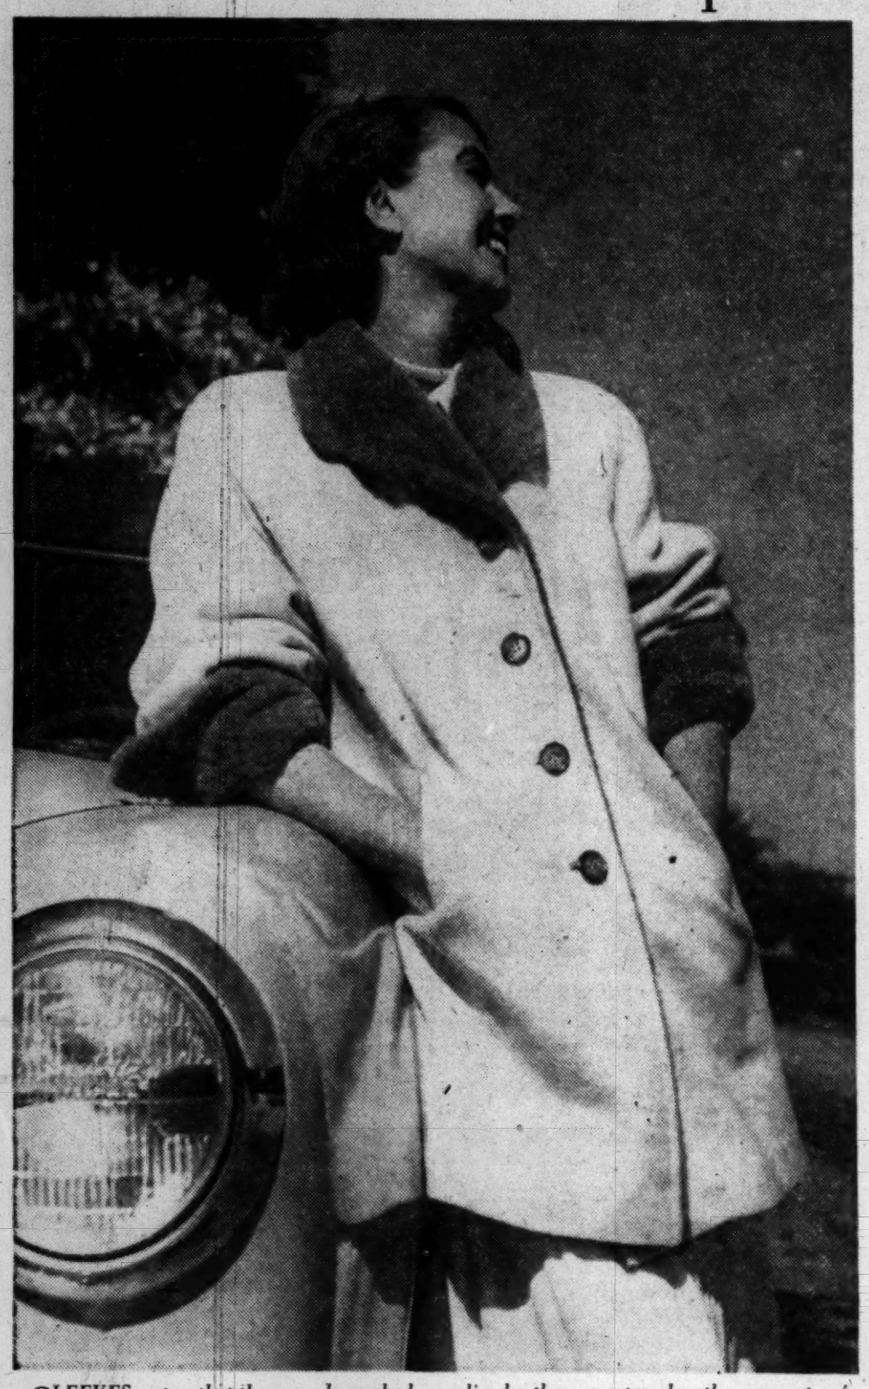
Taking a Tip From the Homemaker

Fashion-Wise Push Up Their Sleeves for Fall



SLEEVES, cut so that they may be pushed up to elbow length are being used extensively in casual coats. This detail treatment is applied here to an Alpaca-lined, three-quarter length garment of fleecy wool. Colors are gray and beige. Available at Peck & Peck's

By Peggy Preston

OUT of the kitchen into the parlor. That's the history of the season's big fashion detail—the push-up sleeve.

Smart housekeepers have been using the trick for years, but only to keep their sleeves free of dust, soapy water, and other perils of household chores. Now, the style-wise have embraced the idea, and the push-up sleeve is a year around vogue.

Just how far it has invaded the fashion picture is best dramatized in the fur coat collections. An expensive mink, the ultimate in fur luxury, will have sleeves that can be shoved up to elbow length. With these, the models wear long, tight gloves and jeweled bracelets at either wrist.

Thereafter, you'll notice them in practically every item of outer-garment wear. Blouses, dresses, suit jackets, and various types of coats—all have been touched by this fancy for sleeves that can be worn both long and short.

The pattern for such sleeves calls for width and roominess at the armholes, the seams tapering down to a slim wrist-line. In other instances, linings are made so deep that the bottom of the sleeve may be turned back to achieve the shorter length.

This last idea is usually executed in coats, where the sleeves need to be roomy enough at the wrist to be worn with comfort over a heavy suit. Because colorful linings are so popular, the lining often turns over to become a wide cuff. This, when turned back far enough, gives you the desired elbow-length sleeve.

In dresses, the softer, more pliable fabrics lend themselves best to this type of sleeve. Jersey, woven either from wool or rayon, is ideal because of its elastic qualities. Sheer wool, crepe and knitted weaves are others that are effective for this particular style.

For Fall Brides

WITH the marriage rate again on the up-grade after a lull of two or three years, feminine interest in bridal fashions is growing proportionately.

Proof of the pudding was the large gathering which witnessed the showing of autumn and winter bridal fashions this week at the Emily Shop.

Staged by Miss Susan Paige, bridal consultant for the shop, the show presented an entire budget-priced trousseau and wedding wardrobe. It was climaxed with the bridal scene, in which the bride was costumed in candlelight satin, fashioned with chantilly lace yoke and sleeves, and cathedral train. Her maid of honor wore a bouffant gown of aqua, the bodice and jacket of brocaded satin, the skirt of nylon net.

Reflecting the tones of the bride's candlelight satin gown were the gold colored dresses of the bridesmaids. These were styled after the manner of the one worn by the maid of honor.

WOOL jersey lends itself especially well to the season's vogue for push-up sleeves. Such a fabric is used by designer Carolyn Schnurer in this typical young career girl's dress, with its all-around pleated skirt and dropped shoulder seams. Novelty touch is the leather book-binding trim at the collar and cuffs. Available at Peck & Peck's

'Makedown' Is Basis of Grooming

By Betty Clark

NATURAL beauty has become a trade mark of the younger set to such a degree that it is startling to see a young girl wearing too much makeup.

The other day I saw two girls so grotesquely made up that people stared at them. They had given their faces the works from heavy foundation cream to beaded lashes, and unfortunately the result made them look as if they were made up for a circus performance. A gentleman in the crowd said: "Golly, I hope this isn't a new fad."

Too much makeup which always is in bad taste, never can be a fashion. The doe-eyed look, which focused attention on the eyes, was adopted for the most part by models and theatrical performers who could wear the heavy-lidded look even in the daytime without looking ridiculous. The average working girl certainly couldn't get by with it during the day, although if properly applied, the "eye liner" technique could enhance her eyes in the evening.

Seek Natural Look

THE college girl who wants to be assured of dates with nice boys this semester should keep the following charm tips in mind:

MAKE-DOWN is more important than make-up, the head of one model agency advises his girls. If you must use more than the conventional powder and lipstick for special occasions, practice the makeup until it looks perfectly natural. It can be done but it takes skill. Lipstick and nail polish of the paler hues are far more becoming to young lips and hands than deep dark red shades.

ASSUME a ladylike poise instead of trying to act like an aggressive female. No man wants to date a tomboy.

MAKE FEMININITY the rule. Wear clothes that flatter your figure and emphasize your charms. Blue jeans are fine for play and sportswear, but don't expect him to take you to a party in that type of rig.

LITTLE THINGS like crooked stocking seams and peek-a-boo slips are annoying to the average man. Always take a final inventory of yourself from head to toe in a full-length mirror before going to meet your beau.

LEARN voice control. If you have a naturally high-pitched voice, try to pitch it to a lower key. And don't be a chatter box. Be a good listener to make a hit with that man.

UNLESS you are trying to catch a train or you are late for classes or some other emergency arises, don't lope or walk too fast. If you're not in a hurry, take your time and walk with a ladylike gait. Plump little girls who walk with quick short steps sometimes look like waddling ducks.

Tobé Says...

Years ago, before I knew anything about the fashion business, I used to look at my mother and aunts and think they were crazy to buy velvet dresses in August. Now after many years we're in the midst of another great velvet vogue and once again women have started buying velvet dresses in late summer.

Now however, I understand why they do it. For velvet is probably one of the most flattering fabrics a woman can wear and the first velvet dresses are always so pretty that they are irresistible.

The velvet cocktail dress is the prime favorite of course, but the velvet suit and the simple little velvet daytime dress are almost equally popular.

Dark Clothes, Fall Hat Are Smartest Attire for New York Holiday Week-end

DEAR ANNE:

I am planning a trip to New York City over Labor Day. Will you please tell me what sort of clothes to take? Also how to tip on the train and at the hotel? J. R. P., Washington.

It all depends on the weather, J. R. P. (The clothes, not the tips.) A fall hat wouldn't be amiss in any case, though you'll probably still see many people on the sidewalks of New York wearing summer hats. Dark, lightweight dresses would be appropriate, as would a summer suit. A wool suit would be fine if the weather's cool. Buy a copy of a New York newspaper and check the weather prediction there. And be sure to take a light topcoat or jacket just in case.

On the tipping, red caps charge a flat rate of 15 cents per bag now. This is supposed to take care of the situation, though many people slip them an extra dime besides. At the hotel, 25 cents should be sufficient reward to the bellhop for carrying one bag to your room or for bringing ice water or whatever is requested.

DEAR ANNE:

Concerning the discussion of fish in lime juice recently in your column, I have a suggestion readers might like to try:

Thinking that to serve the fish cooked only in juice might be a little exotic for my family, I marinated fillets of flounder in lime juice for one hour, then broiled them carefully with plenty of melted butter, parsley, salt and pepper, until browned on top. This takes only a few minutes under a high flame, as the fish is already partially cooked by the juice when placed in the broiler. It is very tart, a thoroughly delicious main dish.

D. E. S., Glen Echo Heights, Md.

In reply to the reader who wanted a seat to use in the bathtub, would like to say that we purchased an unpainted wooden stool and had the legs shortened. To prevent slipping, a rubber bath mat must be used.

Here is a cooking tip for the column: If corn is husked and put in water with a tablespoon of sugar and left for an hour or longer, then cooked in the same water with a little salt added, it will add to its flavor. Bring to a boil and boil it for not longer than 2 minutes.

BLUEBERRY TORTE

Ingredients: ¾ cup all-purpose flour (stir to aerate before measuring), ¾ teaspoon double-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1¼ cups large firm cultivated blueberries (picked over, washed and drained well).

Method: Put flour, baking powder, and cinnamon into sifter. Cream butter; add sugar and cream thoroughly. If electric mixer is used beat in egg until mixture becomes very fluffy and pale-colored; if not, beat egg with rotary hand beater until thick and pale and then mix well with butter and sugar. Sift in flour mixture all at once; beat or stir in slowly until well blended. Stir in blueberries lightly. Turn into lightly buttered 7-inch square pan (about 1½ inches deep); bake in slow (325°) oven 45 minutes or until done. Cool slightly, then cut in squares, lift each square carefully from pan with wide spatula, and serve warm with whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

YWCA Plans Arts Courses For Teen-Age Groups

The YWCA's teen-age department will launch a new Saturday program this fall. Recognizing the need as well as the demand for training in the arts for young people, the Y-Teen committee, headed by Mrs. Karl Berns, has announced the new Saturday series which will include dramatics, dancing, arts and crafts and music.

Beginning September 16 and ending December 2, the program will run from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m. each Saturday. Enrollment will be limited to 80 and advance registrations are now being accepted for this creative program planned for girls between 10 and 15 years.

Registration day has been scheduled for Saturday, September 9, from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m.

Birthday Party Honors Rep. Keogh

By Elizabeth Maguire

CONGRESSMEN and Senators yesterday attended a birthday party. It was the forty-first anniversary of Representative Eugene J. Keogh of New York, and a stag buffet supper party in his honor was given at the Carlton Hotel by Representative James J. Murphy, also of New York.

Leading lights at the party included Senator Pat McCarran, Senator Owen Brewster, Senator Herbert R. O'Conor, Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the Military Aide to the President, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

Cocktails were served first in the reception room and the supper was served in the Carlton Room.

Wrenchs Returning to London

SIR EVELYN and Lady Wrench are returning today to their home in Marlow, just 30 miles outside London. Here Sir Evelyn will continue work on his writings. Asked what his latest was, he replied "Well, I am not sure it isn't going to be about India."

Sir Evelyn is founder of the English Speaking Union, and with Lady Wrench he has made a circuit of the Paul Green pageants —"The Common Glory" in Williamsburg, Va., "The Lost Colony" in Matteo, N. C., and "Faith of Our Fathers" produced here by the Sesquicentennial Commission.

Sir Evelyn and his wife are first cousins. Their mothers were Bellinghams (pronounced Belgiums) from County Fermanagh in North Ireland. The nephew of Lady Wrench (her eldest brother's eldest son) is Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Ulster.

Both Sir Evelyn and Lady Wrench claim an ancestor named Richard Bellingham, an early Governor of Massachusetts, whose sister, Anne Hibben, was hanged as a witch.

Profound students of history of the United States, the couple took great interest in "The Lost Colony," and Sir Evelyn took a walk-on part in which he proclaimed the annexation of America on behalf of Queen Elizabeth.

Sir Evelyn and Lady Wrench were entertained last evening at a dinner given by Paul Gore-Booth, head of the British Information Services. Mrs. Gore-Booth was not there, as she is still in New England with the children, and will return after Labor Day.

Dinner guests were Representative and Mrs. Harold D. Cooley, James Cooley, general counsel for ECA; John D. Miller, and Miss Dorothy Dejean.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Goodbody of New York and their two children are visiting Mrs. Goodbody's mother, Mrs. Hendrick McKenna, in Cathedral Heights over Labor Day weekend. Mrs. Goodbody is the former Bambie McKenna.

Invitations to the debut tea of Miss Nancy Graham Kear are in the mail. Dr. and Mrs. Frank Gregg Kear will present their daughter on Saturday, September 9, at their home in Chevy Chase.

Miss Georgie McMahon, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Frederic William McMahon, has returned from Camp Newfound at Harrison, Me. This fall she will enter Holton Arms Junior College.

Engagement Parties

AT a tea yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Robert Johnson Plumb, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, and Mrs. Plumb announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Gregory Plumb, to Henry Marshall de Butts, son of Mrs. Dulany Forrest de Butts and the late Mr. de Butts of Easton, Md.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mason Moody Gregory of Durham, N. C., and of Mrs. John Fields Plumb and the late Dr. Plumb of Hartford, Conn. She attended the National Cathedral School and was graduated from St. Catherine's School in Richmond, Va. She is now in her junior year at Sweet Briar College.

Mr. de Butts is the grandson of Mrs. Henry Morris Marshall of Markham, Va., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dulany Forrest de Butts of Upperville, Va. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia where he was a member of Tilka honorary society and Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and he also attended Mercersburg Academy. He is a nephew of Harry Ashby de Butts of Washington and of Dr. Richard E. de Butts of Annandale, Va.

AT another small party yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moffett of Chevy Chase announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Moffett, to Paul E. Mericle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Mericle of Washington.

Miss Moffett was graduated from Butler University where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, and she received her master's degree from George Washington University.

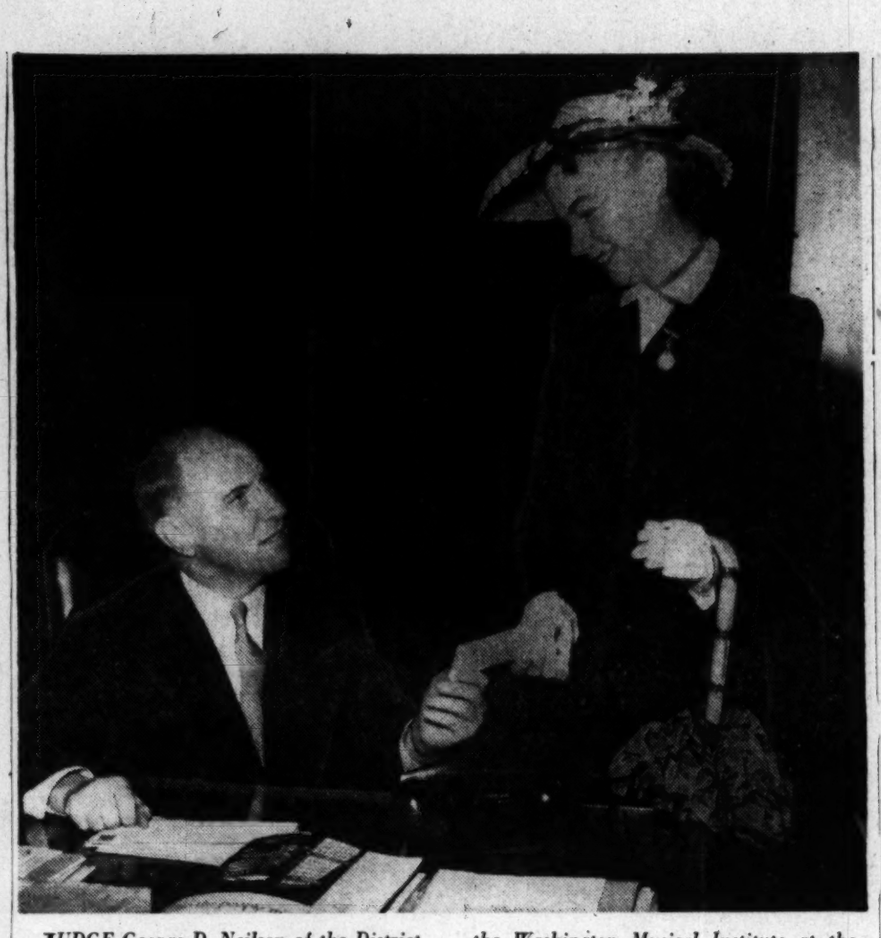
Mr. Mericle was graduated from Harvard University, where he was a member of the Hasty Pudding Institute of 1776. The wedding will take place in the winter.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Joyner of Goldsboro, N. C., of the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Moore, to Arthur Lewis Baechtold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Arthur Beachtold of Alexandria, Va. The wedding will take place October 7 in Goldsboro.

Miss Joyner attended Peace Junior College, Raleigh, N. C., and Mary Washington College, Fredericksburg, Va. Her fiance was a student at George Washington University.

Sorority Honors Founders

Epsilon Province of Sigma Phi Gamma International Sorority held its annual Founders' Day banquet on August 29 at the Purple Iris Inn. Epsilon Pi Chapter served as hostesses.



JUDGE George D. Neilson of the District Municipal Court buys the first tickets to "An Evening of Opera Scenes" September 30 from Mrs. Allan Chaimas. The performance will be given by Anton Schubel and the Washington Opera Workshop of the Washington Musical Institute at the Cafritz Auditorium, 16th and Q sts. nw. for the benefit of the D. C. Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Tickets are available at the offices of the society, 839 17th st. nw., or at the Raleigh Hotel.

City of Hope Plans Benefit Fashion Show

The Montgomery County-D. C. Chapter of the City of Hope, a Jewish national medical center, will open a membership campaign with a fashion show on September 6 at 8:30 p. m. at the Hotel 2400.

Joseph R. Harris, Inc., of Washington and Silver Spring will provide the fashions. Mrs. Elinor Lee of radio station WTOP will be commentator.

An opening meeting for the entire chapter will be held on September 26 at the home of the chapter's president, Mrs. Paul Flax, at which time the ways and means committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Fisher, will present an agenda for various fund raising projects which will benefit the victims of cancer, TB, heart, and rheumatic fever being treated at this free, non-sectarian hospital.

Astronomer to Be Bride

The engagement of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Hayner to William James Cresson, jr., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeEldon E. Hayner of Floral Park, Long Island.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Mount Holyoke College and Mills College, is an astronomer at the Naval Observatory in Washington. Mr. Cresson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cresson of Swarthmore, Pa., and a graduate of Swarthmore College. During the war he served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy Bureau of Ships.

Alexandria Homes Tour October 28

The annual Old Homes Tour of the Auxiliary Board, Alexandria Hospital will be held Saturday, October 28. This is the one time each fall that the public is invited into the beautiful and historic houses of the old seaport that was once the nome of George Washington and Robert E. Lee.

Mrs. O. Ashby Reardon, general chairman of this year's tour, announces that all proceeds will go into the X-ray fund which is the Auxiliary's special project at present.

As usual, this will be a walking tour, all the houses being in the old section of Alexandria, near the Potomac River. Hostesses will be on hand at each home to guide visitors. A map of the tour will be provided each guest. Hours of the tour will be 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Fashion Show

New residents of Falls Church, Va., are invited to a Welcome Wagon Newcomers Fashion Show Thursday, September 7, at the Jefferson Theater in Falls Church. Luncheon will be served and there will be bridge and canasta games.

Dodge Marks Half Century In Real Estate

By S. Oliver Goodman

Clarence Dodge, sr., today will complete 50 years of service with Weaver Bros., Washington real estate firm, and still finds the business fascinating.

Dodge

His voice has a youthful and enthusiastic ring as he traces the city's growth, remembers "when Park rd. was way out in the country" and when financial institutions here wouldn't make loans on real estate in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

He also recalls when you could buy "a pretty good six-room house here for $4500." Those were the days, he quickly added, when bricklayers got $4 a day.

Dodge started work with the Weaver firm on August 31, 1900, as a rent collector. In those days it was tough sledding to meet the $60 a month rent, he said. Today, Weaver Bros. in the Washington Building, is one of the leading firms in the city and services about 70 million dollars in loans a year.

Dodge became a partner in the firm in 1912 and president in 1939. A native of Washington, he is a partner in Weaver Bros., Inc. of Baltimore, a vice president and director of Interstate Building Association, a director of National Savings & Trust Co., and a director of Woodward & Lothrop.

He is considered one of the best property appraisers in this area and his services are much in demand. Dodge is 69 and lives with his wife at 2204 Kalorama rd. A son, Clarence Dodge, jr., has been associated with Weaver Bros. since 1945.

LESS DEFICIT: Washington Gas Light Co. and subsidiaries yesterday reported a consolidated deficit of $80,082 for July, as compared with a deficit of $124,024 in the same 1949 month. For the first seven months of 1950, net income totaled $2,281,592 for an increase of $1,110,433 over the corresponding period a year ago. The company noted that $244,000 of the net income was recorded prior to July 1 and was attributed to the gas rate increase. This rate increase is now subject to a Court of Appeals decision.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Jeremiah P. O'Donovan has been appointed Washington agency supervisor for the Guardian Life Insurance Co. . . . John W. G. Ogilvie has been promoted to United States sales manager of Pan American World Airways System, effective September 1 . . . William J. Mackenzie, jr., former captain in the Air Force, has joined J. D. Marsh & Associates.

DIVIDENDS: Directors of Julius Garfinckel & Co. declared regular quarterly dividends as follows: 37½ cents a share on common stock; 34⅜ cents a share on 5½ percent convertible preferred, and 28⅛ cents a share on the 4½ percent preferred. All dividends are payable September 30 to stock of record September 15.

ODD LOTS: Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index this week climbed to $6.69 from $6.56 last week, reaching the highest level since September, 1948 . . . H. J. Heinz Co. reported record first quarter sales of $43,711,000 . . . Avco Mfg. Corp. has extended through September 15 its offer to exchange two Avco shares for each share of Bendix Home Appliances, Inc. The offer originally expired Tuesday . . . A merger has united the J. B. Williams Co. and the Conti Products Corp., two of the oldest and largest toiletry firms . . . The DuPont zinc plant near Clarksburg, W. Va., has been sold to the Meadowbrook Corp. of Charleston.

GPO INFLATION: For many months the Government Printing Office has had on sale a small booklet entitled "Bid Procedure Memorandum" prepared by the Navy's Bureau of Supplies & Accounts. The leaflet was marked and sold at 10 cents a copy. This week, a visitor noted, the GPO has crossed out the dime price and rubber-stamped the leaflet with a new price 40 cents.

EARNINGS: Lockheed Aircraft Corp. reported net income of $4,691,000 or $4.29 a share for the six months ended June 30, compared with $2,237,000 or $2.08 a share in the same 1949 period. Other earnings statements:

How to Regard the Dangers

Some A-Bomb Fears Are Exaggerated

This is the fourth of a series of five articles, describing America's preparations for a possible atomic attack. George W. Herald was chief of the Berlin and Vienna bureaus of an American press association from 1945 to 1949. During the war he served in a United States Army airborne supply unit and as deputy chief of the German section of the American broadcasting station in Europe.

By George W. Herald

CHAPTER FOUR

Can enemy agents smuggle an atomic bomb into the States?

The question was raised at a civil defense meeting the other day. One speaker argued that the weapon could easily be equipped with a delayed action device and put in a public locker by "anyone with a dime."

"Possible but unlikely," replies Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, nuclear engineer. "First of all, each A-bomb costs at least a million dollars. It wouldn't be worthwhile to detonate it in a cellar where it could destroy only two city blocks at the most. And then the agent might get caught in the act. Any country taking such a risk would be crazy."

In fact, there can be no doubt as to what the United States would do if it ever found someone with a Soviet-manufactured A-bomb within its borders.

"It would regard this as a clear case of aggression," the Armed Forces Chemical Journal recently wrote, "and would retaliate at once."

Other people fear that a tramp steamer might explode an A-bomb under water. They fear it would produce so much radioactive spray that harbor cities such as New York or San Francisco would be uninhabitable for a long time.

Protection of Water

"Improbable," Dr. Lapp commented. "The sea at Bikini was 175 feet deep. The water in most of our ports is only 30 to 40 feet deep. An A-bomb explosion there would hardly produce enough spray to splash more than a few riverside blocks. At any rate, a large part of the radiation would be absorbed under water and decay within a few moments."

Yet safeguards are now being taken against this "improbability." United States agents search all ships from Communist countries before they enter American ports, much to the disgust of the crew and passengers.

The most effective way of using atomic weapons is to explode them in the air. Calculations show they cause the heaviest damage if they burst at an altitude of 2500 feet. Yet even then their effect is definitely limited in space, time and intensity.

The Atomic Energy Commission holds out little hope for you if you happen to be in the open within 1000 yards from "ground zero"—meaning the exact spot on the ground above which the bomb goes off.

"The last thing you see in that case is the blinding, bluish-white flash of a small ball of fire," the commission's experts say. "Within 1/1000 of a second, the ball shoots out to form a sphere of flame 100 yards in radius that spreads outward and downward at a terrific speed. But by then you are already killed either by the flash of heat, by the blast or by radiation."

"Three Modern Horsemen"

These three modern Horsemen of the Apocalypse would sweep the surrounding area over a distance of 1 to 2 miles. Instantly, huge masses of air would be sucked in from the outside and create a storm of almost supersonic velocity.

The storm would topple most of the buildings left untouched by the primary blast. It would ignite hundreds of fires.

However, blast and fire are no new elements in warfare. The British and Germans learned to cope with them during the last war. The A-bomb may cause bigger conflagrations but it hasn't altered the basic rules of self-protection.

According to Paul J. Larsen, Federal civil defense chief, you will survive an A-bomb explosion even directly under the center of the blast if you are properly sheltered.

"People in subways, for instance, would be perfectly safe," he says.

Thus, the only really new element in an atomic explosion is radioactivity. It is released in form of neutrons and gamma rays which pass right tthrough ordinary walls and the bodies of persons inside buildings. The rays cannot be seen, heard or felt, and their effect can be measured only by Geiger counters.

Danger From Radiation

Anyone exposed to more than 600 roentgen of radiation is beyond help. Doctors will waste no time on him as thousands of others will be waiting for treatment.

However, you will absorb such a deadly dose only if you find yourself within 1 1-3 miles of the burst, and even there the rays won't hurt you behind 3 feet of concrete walls. Six feet of earth, preferably moist, will also do. The best armor against gamma rays is lead.

If you are caught unshielded at a distance of 1 -1-3 to 2 miles, you will seldom take in more than 400 roentgen. This will cause various degrees of disability—loss of blood cells and body hair, sustained fever, slow burns—but it can be treated and cured. Any dosis under 100 roentgen provokes no serious effects at all.

Outside the 2-mile zone, you won't have to worry about the flash rays but only about so-called bomb ashes emitting alpha, beta and gamma rays. These ashes are waste materials carried off by the atomic cloud after the burst. While most of them will be dispersed by the wind, some may fall to the ground miles away and infect your food, clothes, etc.

According to Dr. Richard Gerstell, Lieutenant Commander in the Navy and senior radiological monitor at Bikini, the danger of these fission products should not be exaggerated.

"They will cause less damage than incendiary bombs," Dr. Gerstell declared. "In Hiroshima, 60 percent of the casualties were due to the blast, 25 percent to flash burns and only 15 percent to radiation sickness."

So keep your shirt on—unless it is contaminated by alpha, gamma or beta rays!

Conjunctivitis Hits Television Addict

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 30 (AP).—Ben Payne, sr., 45, came up with a new television ailment last night—television conjunctivitis.

Payne watched his set from 6 p. m. to 10 p. m. without a recess. He is a wrestling fan. His eyes began to smart, so he went to bed. About 1 a. m. he awakened, found he couldn't open his eyes and that his head hurt. At Grant Hospital, doctors said Payne was suffering from television conjunctivitis. In other words, he looked too long.

No Dependent Now

Television Drama Goes On Its Own

By Syd Kronish

NEW YORK (AP).—Television drama is standing on its own feet. No longer does it depend on Broadway, Hollywood or radio stars for its performers.

Phillips

Fred Coe, youthful-looking producer of NBC's "Philco Television Playhouse," believes TV is developing a group of young and capable actors and actresses who are gaining stature and winning prominence.

Among these rising video dramatic performers are Felicia Monteleagre, Margaret Phillips, Grace Kelly (daughter of Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright George Kelly), John Baragrey, John Newland and Alfred Ryder.

Coe, who also is NBC-TV's manager of new program development, further believes that, in the near future, good plays especially written for television will be the basis for most of the dramatic material.

Says Coe: "This summer I looked through 100 plays especially written for TV. The possibilities are there. The future looks great.

"The paramount difficulty in producing TV plays is finding good play material."

Television Playhouse returns to the TV cameras after a summer vacation Sunday, September 10, at 9 p. m.

THE New York Yanks of the National Professional Football League will have the greatest radio coverage of any grid team in history this fall. People in more than 300 cities throughout the country will hear live play-by-play accounts of the Yank games over the Liberty Broadcasting Co., Inc.

The Yanks are owned by Ted Collins, long-time radio producer, who negotiated the unprecedented agreement to air all 12 of the Yanks' games, both home and away.

The Liberty network was formed by Gordon McLendon, 30, of Dallas, only two years ago. Sports are the cornerstone of McLendon's operation. This season he also intends to broadcast college football games, with Ted Husing at the mike.

"MR. AND MRS. NORTH," CBS' gay sleuthing team, return from a peaceful vacation to plunge into "The Million Dollar Murder," when the mystery series resumes its broadcasts next Tuesday (CBS, 8:30 p. m.). Alice Frost and Joseph Curtin star in the title roles, which they have filled since the series started in 1942.

Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger (USA retired), whose new book is the forthcoming "The Jungle Road to Tokyo"; Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias (USN retired), author of "Secret Mission" and "Behind Closed Doors"; and Edward R. Murrow, radio reporter just back from Korea, discuss "The Korean War" on CBS-TV's "People's Platform" Sunday at 5:30 p. m. Charles Collingwood, CBS White House correspondent, is chairman of the discussion.

The three guest speakers, experts on the situation, will discuss what the Korean war means to the United States, and what we can do about it.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Bill Gold is on vacation. His column today takes the form of a letter to his managing editor.

Dear Boss:

Sixteen years ago I started across the "Free Bridge" from East St. Louis, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo. An attendant stopped me, hand outstretched.

"Ten cents, please," he said.

"How come?" I asked. "Isn't this the 'free' bridge?"

"It's the Municipal Bridge, and it's called the 'Free Bridge,' but it ain't free," he replied. "At least, not right now. Temporarily we're collecting tolls."

Well, boss, I am now in a position to state that "temporarily" means at least 16 years, and possibly a lot longer than that. They're still collecting those dimes.

However, I'm lucky to have found the bridge at all, so I guess I shouldn't complain. As I wrote yesterday, they don't mark the highways too well in this area.

We were surrounded by huge watermelon trucks, and had seen no warning that Route 50 was about to turn left. The result was that it turned, but we didn't.

When we finally found the bridge and crossed the Mississippi, we learned why we'd been plagued by so many trucks. There are large truck terminals on S. Broadway and other streets running below the bridge on the St. Louis side, and it's something of a start to find that the trucking business has grown to such huge proportions.

While we were still crossing the river, it was obvious that something was radically different about the waterfront, and even Bernice, who was born here, was puzzled for a moment.

"It's the shacks," she finally exclaimed. "They've torn down the shacks and warehouses and honky-tonks."

And indeed they had. Thousands of autos are now parked (15 cents per day) on municipal land which formerly had been occupied by a weary array of ancient buildings.

A little further back from the river plenty of tired, red brick housing still remains standing. But part of it—the shabbiest part—is gone forever.

As we drove up through town, it quickly became apparent that St. Louis has its own ideas about the manner in which traffic should be handled.

For one thing, pedestrians cross the street whenever it pleases them — regardless of which way traffic happens to be moving. This does not occur merely in isolated cases; it's the accepted practice to see hordes of pedestrians barging right into a line of moving cars. And the police make no objection.

An acquaintance who is assistant city manager of suburban University City explained: "Our traffic problem is absolutely unique. There's only one St. Louis."

Some day I hope to meet a city official who does not consider his local problems unique. But I think the odds are against it.

Except for a few scattered spots, daytime parking is banned in downtown St. Louis. I suppose that's why so many acres of waterfront space are occupied by all-day parkers.

But by the same token, there's comparatively little downtown auto traffic. If you can't leave your car on the streets, there's little point of driving it into those areas.

This relatively light traffic could easily be moved through the congested area by a system of traffic lights. But St. Louis officials seem suspicious of this newfangled idea of mechanized traffic cops, and still detail a policeman to every downtown corner—with some corners boasting two men.

When an occasional car approaches the policeman's intersection, the cop usually signals the motorist through—unless, of course, the officer is day dreaming at the moment. In that event, the motorist toots his horn lightly, and the cop looks up in surprise, as if to say: "Gee whiz, a car. I'd better wave him through."

Actually, boss, that's a slight exaggeration. But after seeing how other big cities handle far greater volumes of traffic with a fraction of the manpower, I just can't understand why St. Louis needs so many policemen on the payroll. Maybe they're all somebody's brother-in-law, eh?

When you get onto the major streets leading out to the suburbs, the inadequacy of the city's traffic policy becomes even more apparent. Delmar, Olive, Locust, Washington and Market are good examples.

Every few blocks along these thoroughfares, you come to a four-way stop. Traffic on the cross street must come to a dead halt, but so must traffic on the main street. Nobody has the right of way, nobody can move at a reasonable rate of speed.

"It's ridiculous," I said to that assistant city manager fellow. "Some of the side streets I stopped for carry no visible traffic. Why don't they replace the stop signs with traffic lights?"

"Oh," he replied airily, the situation is much improved now. In the past few weeks the city of St. Louis has removed more than 900 of those stop signs."

Frankly, boss, the more I see of traffic in other cities the more I begin to suspect that our own Traffic Director, George Keneipp, is a genius.

Here's another example of what I mean. In many places around town (especially on streets which aren't too well lighted at night) a motorist will suddenly get the impression that he has run smack into a tank trap.

The steering wheel goes spinning out of his hand, and he's sure that, at the very least, he's broken a wheel or an axle.

But closer examination reveals that it's not quite that serious. He's merely struck an unilluminated turtleback guarding a streetcar loading zone painted on the street.

This turtleback is not the low, smooth-top type we know. It's maybe 6 or 9 inches high, with cruel jagged corrugations in its top, no doubt designed to shock the motorist into everlasting watchfulness—or perhaps into leaving his car at home.

Having a fine time, wish you were here—and I was at home.

Bill.

P. S. In addition to all the Federal taxes, St. Louis has slapped a city tax of 2 cents on each package of cigarettes—plus a penny sales tax for good measure. Anybody got a pinch of snuff?

Shepherd and Dog Hike 2900 Miles Across Continent

Philadelphia, Aug. 30 (AP).—A 38-year-old shepherd and his dog walked 2900 miles from Seattle, Wash., to Philadelphia looking for work.

Andrew Boehm arrived last night with his dog, Shep.

The shepherd, who said he had worn out eight pairs of socks and three pairs of shoes in his hike, was crestfallen to learn there are few calls for sheepherders in the Philadelphia area.

Boehm said he had hoped to find a job here so that he could earn money for a trip to Germany to visit his mother.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Causes of Rebuke to Military

By Drew Pearson

Inside fact about the White House crackdowns on Secretary of the Navy Matthews and General MacArthur is that the Administration had been waiting for a chance to knock down the increasing eagerness of the military to encroach on the civilian branches of Government.

Matthews

A lot of things have been going on which the public doesn't know about, all pointing toward more and more military rule. One was the quiet attempt by Secretary of Defense Johnson to keep Guam under the military when it was supposed to go under a civilian governor July 1. Another is the Navy's attempt to hold on to the "Trust Islands" of the Pacific. Another has been General MacArthur's repeated attempts to dictate foreign policy.

Another flagrant intervention of the military into foreign policy was when 11 generals secretly went up to Congress and urged a 100-million-dollar loan to Dictator Franco of Spain—despite the fact that their Commander-In-Chief in the White House had ruled against such a loan.

President Truman was icy cool with his Secretary of Defense when he heard of this. Unsmiling, he turned to Louey Johnson in Cabinet meeting and snapped: "And I don't want any more trips by you or your generals to Congress regardng a loan to Franco."

Need for Crackdowns

The two public crackdowns were aimed directly at MacArthur, and indirectly at Johnson through his Secretary of the Navy. Actually, Secretary Matthews is a sincere, idealistic, lovable person, the top lay Catholic in the United States, and neither the State Department nor the White House wanted to hit him personally.

However, the statement by a Cabinet officer in favor of a preventive war, it was decided, had to be disavowed publicly. For it played directly into the hands of European propagandists, already partly successful in branding us as warmongers.

Another reason for the crackdown was that Gen. Orvil Anderson, commander of the Air War College, at Maxwell Air Base, Montgomery, Ala., has been staging a series of lectures in which a preventive war is urged openly.

Ultimatum Proposed

Another speaker at the Air College was Brig. Gen. S. D. Grubbs, former commander at Maxwell, who, in an address before a civilian group in Montgomery during the Berlin blockade, urged an ultimatum to Russia that if the blockade was not lifted in 36 hours, we should declare war.

General Anderson himself, speaking some time ago before the Kiwanis Club at Montgomery, indicated that he favored immediate war with Russia; and there has been concrete evidence that the general follows a deliberate program at the Air College aimed to indoctrinate students with the idea of an immediate attack.

All these matters have been reported to the White House from time to time; and as a result President Truman is determined that the original concept of military duty laid down by the founding fathers shall be followed, namely that it is the military's job to win wars not declare them.

Note 1—If the United States followed the advice of the generals in favor of an early war; it would appear—based on results in Korea—that the military are a long way from being prepared.

Note 2—A group of farsighted Senators, led by Brien McMahon of Connecticut, have introduced a resolution calling for a disarmament conference to show the world that we would reduce armament if Russia would do the same. While they have no great illusions that Russia would reduce, they feel it important to keep his peaceful goal before the world.

Notes on Diplomacy

Lecture in London—United States Ambassador Douglas has bawled out the British for talking rearmament but doing nothing. Last week he told Foreign Minister Bevin in very plain English that the United States was shocked at failure to call Parliament back into session. The Ambassador also told Bevin that Britain's current plan for rearmament is completely inadequate; that whereas the United States is calling up thousands of men, Britain is merely marking time.

Bevin's Last Conference—British Foreign Minister Bevin has cabled Secretary Acheson asking a full review of Anglo-American policies for the Far East when Bevin comes to New York next month. This will be Bevin's last major conference as Foreign Minister of Great Britain. Among other things he will try to persuade the United States not to become embroiled with Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang any further. The reason: Communist China and the Kremlin are making tragic headway in calling this a war between the yellow races and the white race. Bevin fears we'll lose out all over Asia.

Warning Nehru—United States Ambassador Loy Henderson has warned Prime Minister Nehru that he should call off his proposed trip to Communist China. Peace-making efforts in Korea, our Ambassador told the Prime Minister, should be left to the United Nations. If Nehru feels he wants to contribute, Henderson said, he should fly to Lake Success to head the Indian delegation . . . Meanwhile the Kremlin is secretly currying favor with Nehru by offering large quantities of wheat to India's starving millions. The State Department, on the other hand, hasn't been able to get Congress to permit us to ship agricultural surpluses to India.

Basing Point Row Again—Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado and a subcommittee are trying to overrule a Supreme Court decision and a presidential veto—in a most unusual way. Both the court and the White House ruled emphatically against the basing-point system. But now, five Senators, all violently probasing point, are giving a third-degree interrogation to the Federal Trade Commission, which must enforce the basing-point decision. Coaching the Senators backstage is William Simon, a registered lobbyist for the basing-point business group.

New 'Star' Tells Manhattanites Weather Outlook

New York, Aug. 30 (U.P.)—A new star rose over Broadway tonight. It rose one-tenth of a mile, actually, to the top of the Mutual Life Insurance Building.

Cosmic rays from the outer universe, bombarding sensitive instruments, actually pour light into the star.

By changing color, it reports the latest official forecasts of the United States Weather Bureau.

The star, 10 feet broad, rests on a 150-foot steel tower. The tower is illuminated by 60 rings of light that move upward or downward to report forecasts of rising or falling temperatures.

Norman Barnes to Head 'Y' Membership Drive

Norman H. Barnes, sales manager of the Potomac Electric Power Co., will head the annual membership campaign for the central branch of the Young Men's Christian Association here.

Barnes, who lives at 4722 5th st. nw., is a veteran of World War I and a past commander of PEPCO Post 43, American Legion. A native Washingtonian, he is president of the Sales Executive Club of Washington.
